Deaths, Funerals

Mrs. Uriah Sheetz

Services for Mrs. Letha Jane Sheetz, 69, wife of Uriah Sheetz, 1250 Rawlings St., will be held at 1 p.m. Wednesday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Don Baker of First Christian Church officiating. Burial will be in Washington Cemetery.

Mrs. Sheetz, a member of the United Brethren Church in Greenfield, died at 2 p.m. Monday in Memorial Hospital where she had been a patient only four hours. Born in Cookville, Tenn., she moved to Washington C.H. 15 years ago from Highland County.

Surviving, besides her husband, are two sons, Warren E. McBroom, of Hillsboro, and Albert McBroom of Mississippi; two stepsons, David Sheetz, of Indiana, and Glenn Sheetz, of Lorain; three grandchildren; five step-grandchildren and four great-grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. Molly Call of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Clara Waldon of Hartzel, Ala., and Mrs. Myrtle Bailey of Decatur, Ala., and a brother, Edward Rittenberry of Auburn, Ky.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 4 until 9 p.m. Tuesday and on Wednesday until time for the service.

Robert L. Vorhees

MOUNT STERLING — Services for Robert L. Vorhees, 44, of Grove City, will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Porter Funeral Home with the Rev. Robert McNeely officiating.

Mr. Vorhees, an employe of Fisher Body in Columbus, died Sunday in Riverside Hospital, Columbus, where he had been a patient one week. A native of Logan, his parents were the late Ernest and Elizabeth Vorhees.

Surviving is his ex-wife Mrs. Mary Vorhees, Rt. 2, Williamsport; a son, Robbie L., 15, and a daughter, Shelley Ann, 5, both at home; and a sister, Penny Louise Vorhees, address unknown.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. Wednesday. Burial will be in Pleasant Cemetery.

OSCAR L. VANDERGRIFF — Services for Oscar L. Vandergriff, 60, of 524 Third St., were held at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Shelie Bondurant, of Baltimore, officiating. Mr. Vandergriff, a retired employe of the National Cash Register Co., died Friday.

The flag which draped the casket of the World War II veteran was folded by Walter Wilson and Ben Jamison of Burnett-Ducey Post, VFW, and was presented to Mrs. Vandergriff.

WILLIAM A. ARMBRUST — Masonic services will be conducted by Lodge No. 107 at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home for William A. (Gus) Armbrust, 84, of Lewis Rd. Mr. Armbrust died Monday.

Heat taken from economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration economists are cheered by new government statistics that show the heat may be out of the U.S. business boom, which could make it easier to slow inflation.

The latest cause of optimism was the three-tenths of one per cent increase in the nation's industrial production in June, down from a seven-tenths of one per cent increase in May.

The Federal Reserve Board, which released the production index Monday, noted that production of consumer goods declined by seven-tenths of one per cent during the month.

"It's clear that a slowdown in growth has started," said Edgar R. Fiedler, assistant secretary of the treasury for economic policy.

The declining growth rate, if sustained, may help the administration's Phase 4 anti-inflation program, expected to be announced later this week.

President Nixon scheduled a meeting with Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz at Bethesda Naval Hospital today to discuss the Phase 4 program.

Shultz said Monday the program lacked only final decision and approval by the President.

Shultz also cited evidence the growth rate of the economy is slowing and indicated this could help ease inflationary pressures by reducing demand for raw materials.

Shultz said the second quarter report on the country's Gross National Product, due Thursday, should show a decline in real economic growth.

The first quarter GNP—the nation's total output of goods and services—showed the economy increased at a real rate of about 8 per cent in the first quarter, which brought expressions of concern from economists who warned the economy might be overheating.

Deny Kissinger easing Rogers out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Suggestions that White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger is trying to ease Secretary of State William P. Rogers out of office have been denied by a presidential spokesman.

"Every time he has been asked about the future, Dr. Kissinger has said he is very happy with his job. I am certain that he still is," said the spokesman.

Asked to comment on a Chicago Daily News story that Kissinger is the source of reports that he will replace Rogers, the spokesman said: "It just isn't true."

STRUGGLE FOR LIFE — Fireman Carmine Viggiano applies mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to 4-year-old James O'Neill during an early-morning fire at Yonkers N.Y. The child is hospitalized in fair condition.

Top foreign officials said put on tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany and Prime Minister Indira Ghandhi of India are among the world leaders who conferred with President Nixon at a time when listening devices were in use in his office.

Others included Prime Minister Edward Heath of Britain, King Hussein of Jordan, King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, Prime Minister Golda Meir of Israel and President Tito of Yugoslavia.

Alexander P. Butterfield, a former presidential aide, told the Senate Watergate committee Monday that Nixon had the devices installed in his offices at the White House, at the Executive Office Building across the street and at his cabin at Camp David, Md.

Brezhnev, Brandt, Mrs. Gandhi, Heath, Hussein, Faisal, Mrs. Meir and Tito all talked with Nixon in his office in visits during the past two years.

The President also conferred during that period with Prime Ministers John Lynch of Ireland, Keith Holyoake of New Zealand, Souvanna Phouma of Laos, William McMahon of Australia, Pierre Trudeau of Canada, Presidents Emilio Medici of Brazil, Luis Echeverria of Mexico, Emperor Haile Selasie of Ethopia and then prime minister Giulio Andreotti of Italy, among others.

Asked whether the conversations of foreign leaders who conferred with the President had been recorded, and whether they had been advised of it, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler would not comment.

would pay a bonus of up to $500 to Ohio's Vietnam War veterans, depending on length of service.

House Speaker Pro Tem Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, the main sponsor and a member of the conference committee, said he expects an agreement providing that the bonds to pay the bonus will be retired from the state's general revenue fund.

Riffe and other Democrats balked earlier at Republican insistence that the bonus bonds be retired from the general fund, but now are reported in "general agreement" that with proceeds from a state lottery going into the fund, the money will be available.

If approved by both chambers, the bonus would be placed on the November election ballot.

A floor vote could come in the House later this week on a bill hiking the pay of the state's elected officials, including judges, as well as that of members of the General Assembly. The bill was amended in the House Judiciary Committee last week to include a boost for legislators from $14,000 to $17,500 a year.

Food stamp disputes mark action on house farm bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House was set to settle Food Stamp disputes today after dramatically cutting cotton out of the farm bill and quietly voting to give Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz vast new power over food prices.

Key tests were expected on amendments that would ban Food Stamps for strikers and would eliminate proposed new restrictions on eligibility.

A new coalition sought to hold on long enough to push the final package bill to victory during a fifth day of action on the House floor.

The prime maneuver came Monday as the House voted 208 to 190 to strip cotton programs from its version of the legislation.

This step was intended to produce a bill that would give the House a better bargaining position at a later conference with the Senate. The Senate-passed version of the farm and food program bill includes cotton.

Then, by voice vote without debate among a small number of congressmen on the floor, the House approved a food price amendment by Rep. Harold V. Froehlich, R-Wis., covering both the 60-day price freeze and any new economic controls in the President's upcoming Phase 4.

This amendment would require Nixon to adjust the maximum price that may be charged for any farm products when Butz determines that the current price freeze or future price controls will produce a supply shortage and there is no other way to boost supply.

It defines these products as meat, poultry, vegetables, fruit and all other farm commodities. Products are covered "at any point in the distribution chain." Froehlich said the amendment is necessary because consumers soon will find it difficult to buy many products since production costs have gone up faster than the cost of living.

Stock list up slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices climbed sharply higher today in heavy trading, then dipped slightly, with analysts saying that investors were encouraged by Monday's rally and a surge of favorable earnings reports.

The Dow Jones blue chip average at mid-day was up 5.57 to 903.15. Advancing issues held a 873-to-346 lead over declines.

On the Amex, today's noon price-change index was up 0.09 at 22.86. Volume leader, Champion Homes, was ahead ⅛ at 6⅞.

Texas Utilities, unchanged at 31, led the Big Board. Signal Companies, up ¼ at 19, and Ramada Inns, up ¼ at 10⅛, were also active. First National City was ahead 1⅛ to 44⅜, apparently on a favorable earnings report released today.

Krogh takes 5th Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide Egil Krogh Jr. refused to tell a House subcommittee today what he knows about the 1971 burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Chairman Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., said Krogh refused to answer all questions on grounds of the Constitution's Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination except for details on his employment before 1968.

Krogh has publicly taken "full responsibility" for the Sept. 3, 1971, break-in of Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office as part of a probe into the Pentagon Papers leak to the press.

Krogh headed the so-called White House "plumbers" unit set up to find the source of news leaks.

Nixon better, plans talks on Phase 4

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, feeling improved after a restful night, scheduled decision-making meetings today on his Phase 4 economic program with Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Nixon set up a morning appointment with Shultz, one of his principal economic advisers, and with White House counselors Melvin R. Laird and Bryce N. Harlow.

The White House said Phase 4 also would be the principal topic at a 4 p.m. Nixon-Agnew meeting. The President and vice president have not talked since Nixon entered the Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital last Thursday.

The administration's new blueprint for wage-price restraints will be announced later this week, according to White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

Nixon had a fever of 99 degrees during the night but it had returned to normal by morning, the White House said today.

After dining Monday night on beef tenderloin, string beans, carrots and fettucini, the report said, "the President slept well throughout the night without difficulty."

The significance of the disclosure intrigued the fact-finding senators, who immediately put their staff to work preparing a formal request for the tapes they want to hear. It was understood that special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox also planned to ask for the appropriate tapes that can corroborate or discredit Dean, who swore Nixon knew of the coverup.

Samuel Dash, the Senate committee's chief counsel, said the staff would go over the official White House log of the President's meetings and telephone conversations—already turned over to the panel—and select the specific dates and times cited in the testimony of Dean and others.

Dash said that Nixon's earlier refusal to appear before the committee or turn over a broad range of Watergate-related presidential documents can hardly stand concerning the tapes. "It's late in the day for anybody to raise withholding that information," he said.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, however, refused to comment when asked whether the tapes would be made available.

A large high pressure system covering the northeast quarter of the nation and centered just to the north of Lake Ontario is giving Ohio its pleasant midsummer weather expected to continue until the latter part of the week.

The high pressure will drift eastward into New England by Wednesday morning with the affect in Ohio being a warming trend. Highs this afternoon will be in the low and mid 80s except close to Lake Erie where lake breezes will keep temperatures in the upper 70s.

Tonight's lows will be mainly in the 60s. Cloudiness will increase somewhat Wednesday especially in southern Ohio with temperatures for the most part in the 80s.

A low pressure system developing over the Central Plains today and Wednesday will push slowly eastward, bringing a threat of showers to Ohio for the end of the week.

There will be a chance of showers in Ohio Thursday through Saturday. Highs will be in the upper 70s and low 80s and lows will be in the 60s.

OBES back pay under study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Administrator William Garnes of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services said Monday his office has been considering a court suit to determine if the bureau should reimburse reinstated employes for back pay.

The Ohio Personnel Board of Review last week ordered the bureau to rehire 81 employes who were laid off because of a lack of funds. The board said the way in which the persons were removed was "unfair and unjust."

U.S. seeks North Viet help in learning fate of MIAs

SAIGON (AP) — The United States asked today whether North Vietnam intends to help it learn the fate of 1,300 Americans missing in the Indochina war and to help it recover the remains of those who died in captivity.

The North Vietnamese delegation to the joint military team investigating the missing failed to attend a meeting of the team today, and the U.S. delegation said this raised "serious questions about the intent of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam delegation to support the work of the four-party joint military team."

A North Vietnamese spokesman said the delegation did not attend because of "private inconvenience."

"I cannot at this time explain why it was privately inconvenient. You will learn about it later," the spokesman said.

The U.S. statement said the South Vietnamese delegation reported "the North Vietnamese were alleging internal problems as a pretext for creating obstacles for the work of the four-party joint military team."

The four-party joint military team has made almost no progress. A U.S. team has visited Hanoi twice but has been unable to make arrangements for the transfer of the remains of 23 American POWs buried in and near the North Vietnamese capital.

Flights between Saigon and Hanoi to continue these negotiations have been cancelled for the past five weeks because of North Vietnam's refusal to sign a safety certificate stating none of its representatives are carrying dangerous cargo.

9 housewives join fire department, hike efficiency

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Nine housewives have joined a county volunteer fire department and make up Northern California's first all-female fire crew.

Using a new 15-ton tanker fire engine and an antiquated 1946 pumper, the female fire fighters serve the Dry Creek-Loloya Fire Protection District around Mt. Veeder. The area is eight miles west of here.

The women have vastly improved the efficiency of the little fire department during 10 months of weekly drills, according to Norman Silver. He is Napa County's fire coordinator and volunteer department training officer.

"They're going to do a good job," he said. "They're very sharp and efficient and they have learned well."

Efficiency is all important in the 50-square mile hilly area which becomes explosively dry. Officials say it is almost certain to be hit with some fires this summer.

"This isn't women's lib," says Mrs. Joyce Bowen. "This is just common sense and being reasonable." She is one of the volunteers.

"The men are always at work during the week," added Bea Henke, whose husband is chairman of the volunteer firemen. "We started thinking that it would be absurd if someone's home burned down because there was no one to drive the trucks."

"The men weren't very dependable," Silver said. "They have other responsibilities. The gals have added a lot of stability to this department."

On one drill the women put out eight fires in a building donated for training purposes, Silver said.

"Then it was the men's turn," he said. "The fire got away from them and the place burned to the ground."

10-foot-long slot machine to have $1 million jackpot

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Would a gambler pump $10 into a one-armed bandit with a chance to win a $1 million jackpot? At odds of roughly 25 billion to one?

Nevada slot machine king Si Redd thinks so and is betting $150,000 on it.

Dubbed "Super Bertha," it will pay $1 million to the lucky $10 bettor who cranks up the right combination of symbols on its eight 20-character reels.

And if you don't feel like playing 10 Eisenhower dollars at once, the machine will pay lesser amounts of $100,000 or even $500,000 for the right combinations on smaller bets.

The payoffs will dwindle to a few dollars, depending on how much is bet and the symbols that show up on the reels.

Standing six feet tall and 10 feet long, the slot machine uses a five horsepower electric motor to power the 20-inch-wide, chain-driven reels.

Redd says he will have invested nearly $150,000 in designing and engineering the machine before it is put into play later this year. Several casinos are interested in housing "Super Bertha," and Redd expects to get his investment back in a year and a half.

Redd went to work on "Super Bertha" after watching the success of his 70 "Big Bertha" slot machines, six-foot-tall multireelers that require a dollar or more a pull.

Under the law of probability, the one particular winning combination will come up on "Super Bertha" once in 25 billion plays, Redd says. "But who's to know? On our first $5,000 machine, somebody hit it the first night."

Dollar continues plunge in Europe

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar dropped farther on Europe's exchanges today and dealers said its weakness was due to lack of support by government banks.

The dollar lost 4½ centimes in early trading in Paris, dropping to 4.02 francs.

The rate dropped to 2.33 marks in Frankfurt, a loss of three pfennigs, while the rate was 2.8225 Swiss francs in Zurich, a loss of 1¾ centimes.

In London, the British pound rose to $2.54925, a gain of just over a quarter of a cent.

The price of gold rose a dollar an ounce to $121 in Zurich and $1.25 to $121.25 in London.

The dollar staged a brief rally a week ago when the U. S. Federal Reserve Board and some of the European central banks came to its assistance with some token purchases of dollars. But when the banks halted even this symbolic buying Thursday, the dollar began weakening again.

Otmar Emminger, vice president of the West German central bank, today suggested that governments may start selling some of their stocks of monetary gold on the free market "in a relatively short time." He said this should siphon off speculative dollars from the currency market and increase the demand for the American currency.

Such sales of gold reserved by the central banks would mark the formal abrogation of the 1968 Washington Agreement that created a two-tier gold market. This "could come soon, possibly overnight," Emminger told the West German business newspaper, Hafdelsblatt.

Under the 1968 agreement, government banks continued to trade gold at an official price of $35. This was later increased to $42.22. The price on the free market, governed by supply and demand, has soared in the last five years.

The United States stopped redeeming dollars held by foreign governments with gold in August 1971, and that removed the foundation of the Washington Agreement, Emminger said.

Saxbe says energy crisis may bring future rationing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Sen. William Saxbe, R-Ohio, said Monday the energy crisis will be with us a long time and some rationing may be necessary in the future.

"The shortage is going to continue for some years," Saxbe told the Columbus Rotary Club. "We have known for a long time that we were using 30 per cent of the energy the world produces and not producing the energy we use."

To ease the crisis, Saxbe advocated construction of the Alaskan pipeline, expansion of nuclear power resources, and a cut in uses of energy by consumers.

"There may have to be some rationing, but I'm not sure," he said.

In a talk ranging over a number of topics, Saxbe said the Senate Watergate hearings are hurting the economy and morale of the nation. The matter now should be resolved "through the judicial process," he said.

"I just wish they would win it up and turn it over to the special prosecutor," he added.

Saxbe announced he is co-sponsoring a bill to increase the power of Congress in dealing with the executive branch on budget and fiscal affairs.

He said the bill would provide Congress with budget data "that now is available to the executive branch" and allow greater amount of participation in the budget process

Opinion And Comment

A million and a half a year

Some good sense on a matter frequently subjected to distortion was voiced on the Senate floor the other day by Sen. Robert W. Packwood of Oregon.

The thrust of what he said was to give the lie to the common notion that, because the rate of U.S. population increase is currently in decline, we need no longer worry about population-related problems.

Sen. Packwood made his point with such admirable brevity that we are moved to quote his remarks in their entirety:

"Mr. President, I would like to report that, according to current Census Bureau approximations, the total population of the United States as of Sunday, July 1, 1973, is 210,869,908. In spite of the widely publicized reductions in our fertility levels, this represents an increase of 1,578,734 since July 1, 1972. It also represents an increase of 129,317 in just the last month.

"Over the year, therefore, we have added enough additional people to fill four cities larger than the size of Newark, N.J. In just one short month, we have added enough people to fill two cities larger than the size of Boulder, Colo."

That was Sen. Packwood's entire speech, using a total wordage many of his fellow senators would consume in the preamble to remarks on subjects of lesser importance taking up three pages in the Congressional Record. We commend the senator from Oregon on his succinct presentation, and urge our readers to ponder his message.

Even at low ebb, the rate of population increase in the United States is adding more than a million and a half people annually, taking into account both deaths and births as well as immigration and emigration. The pressure on American institutions, resources and way of life is steadily increasing.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

C-O-U-R-T spells mediocrity

Now that the Supreme Court has concluded its year's labors, the analysts are busy trying to put a label on the net results.

The general line seems to be that there is a "conservative" trend, though the evidence for this conclusion is tenuous at best. The difficulty is that the Court, as an institution, simply defies categorization in terms of the old "liberal" - "conservative" axis.

Here the justices, led by Harry Blackmun, who presumably obtained his para-medical credentials as counsel to the Mayo Clinic, went charging into one of the most complex legal and moral questions confronting Americans. Former Chief Justice Earl Warren must be a bit puzzled these days when he hears sneering references to his Court as "activist."

WITHOUT GETTING into a discussion of the decision, which (despite my support for carefully regulated abortion procedures) reads like a bad second-year law school exercise, the point is how do you pigeonhole it? Ok. . . let's say "liberal," with the understanding that I don't want the Supreme Court of the United States acting as diagnosticians if I should land up in Massachusetts General Hospital.

But then what about pornography and state aid to parochial schools? The pornography decision was treated here recently, but let me recall the pivotal proposition: that the First Amendment acts with different force in different sub-cultures. It does not impose a strangling "absolutism of imposed uniformity," but permits different governments to reach their own definitions of obscenity. This I take it would be tucked away in the "conservative" file.

However, if the First Amendment is pluralistic with respect to freedom of the press, why is the same principle not applicable to realtionships between church and state? Why, to put it another way, can't the locals decide how high to make that wall of separation?

Why should there be an "absolutism of imposed uniformity" which prevents the good citizens of New York, or any of the other states involved, from deciding by the democratic process that private and parochial schools can be supported by their taxes? In any event, we have a schizophrenic First Amendment. Is this "liberal"? "Conservative"? OR just plain wacky?

I WON'T BORE YOU with a rundown of the other major decisions. For one thing, I still haven't figured out what they said about busing in Denver, and the rationale for permitting state legislative districts variations in size forbidden in congressional districting is hidden in the rhetorical mist. My conclusion is that American constitutional law is in for a rough time. Not because the Court is "conservative" but, to be blunt, because it is incompetent.

Not since Harry Truman put four of his buddies on the bench have we seen such an aggregation of mediocrity.

At the risk of contempt of court, let me provide one classic non-sequitur from Justice Blackmun's opinion in the abortion case. The Hippocratic Oath forbade abortion, but the justice explains that this shouldn't be taken too seriously because Hippocrates was a Pythagorean — and Pythagoreans were a minority!

The Copernicans were, as I recall, in a minority too, but what relevance their numerical status had to the validity of their position is a mystery to me. I have flunked students in constitutional law for better logic than this, but I'm afraid it's going to get worse before it gets better.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

We can't afford to lose Mills

Watching Congressman Wilbur Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, over the last few years, two out of three observers would tell you that he generally behaves with his Presidential availability in mind. Now comes the ominous suggestion, prompted by trouble with a degenerated disc in his spine, that he might even be thinking of quitting politics.

If this should happen, it would be one more indication that the stars in their courses no longer favor the U.S.

Last May, Wilbur Mills made the greatest congressional speech of his life. Referring to Watergate, which he characterized as a "reprehensible business," he denied that it would lead to a paralysis of the American system of government.

The Executive branch, he said, "is not — and was never intended to be — the sum of the government of the U.S." The courts were still functioning, he said, the conscience of the people was alive, Congress was carrying on, and our economy, despite the inflation, had, within the year, created 2.7 million new jobs and added $61 billion in real output to bring disposable personal income to an average of $2,882 per individual.

THE BEST THING about the speech is that it seemed to backtrack a bit from earlier Mills statements that tax reform must be concerned with closing loopholes. Not that Mills has ever been fanatic about killing the economic easements that loopholes represent.

But this time he chose to blame our economic malfunctioning on the "money expansion (that has) resulted from deliberately running up government spending ahead of the increase in revenues." The $18 billion government deficit in 1972 constituted a "fiscal-monetary binge" that wasted "the respite which wage-and-price controls could have given us."

Mills went on to say that he would never consent to use tax reform as a "coverup for penalizing saving by individuals or businesses." He set his face against "turning into a yo-yo those tax provisions we need to get the investment the nation requires."

To the Populists in his own Democratic Party he said "we are not going to treat the legitimate returns on saving as second-class income by taxing it more heavily than we now do. We are going to prevent ordinary income from being turned into capital gains, but we are not going to turn real capital gains into ordinary income."

To encourage capital savings, Mills added that he could have "talked myself into the position where I could let everybody else in the U.S. accumulate $50,000 in a nest egg, from investments, from interest, from capital gains, and other ways, before I would put any tax on them, and then I would put a tax on what they make after that."

THIS SORT OF VOICE was lost out of the White House when Roger Freeman, now a senior fellow at the Hoover Institution, quit as a Nixon aide because his independence was incompatible with the Haldeman-Ehrlichman Prussianization of the place.

Freeman has published an excellent booklet called "Tax Loopholes: The Legend and the Reality." He does not regard capital gains, mineral depletion, home owners' interest and other allowances as sacrosanct, but he makes the very good point that they have been in the public interest. It has been the loopholes that keep the system going, providing new fuel for our cars, ores for industry, capital for building programs, and roofs over our heads.

If Mills is no longer there to hold the congressional pass as head of the influential Ways and Means Committee, someone will have to step into the breach. The newly formed American Council on Capital Gains and Estate Taxation, whose credo is that "liberalization of the tax law on capital gains is desirable if this country is even to begin to meet the enormous investment requirements to maintain economic growth," will have its work cut out for it in finding someone with the understanding of a Wilbur Mills to present its position.

The council correctly points out that our big competitors, Japan and West Germany, have no capital gains tax at all. Only Britain has a higher capital gains tax rate than the U.S., and just look at the sluggishness of the British economy. It couldn't be worse.

Although their price has now risen to six cents, the U.S. Postal Service sold $59 million worth of the cards last year.

According to an American Medical Association study, only about half of American housewives "can come reasonably close" to describing a nutritionally balanced meal. The study found that fully one-fourth of the wives who stay home skip luncheon entirely and that half of all school-age children either skip breakfast or eat inadequately.

Dear Abby:

Physical exam won't violate her chastity

DEAR ABBY: Doesn't a girl have the right to be chaste anymore?

My boy friend and I are soon to be married, and we don't want any kids yet, so I talked to my mother and she suggested I get birth control pills before I get married.

I called the local Family Planning clinic about getting pills; they said I would have to come down for a pelvic and breast examination by their own doctor. I asked if they had any women doctors, and they said no.

Then I called a couple of private doctors, and they said I would have to be examined before they would prescribe the pill for me. Then I called a woman doctor and she said an examination wasn't necessary for me to get the pill as long as I felt well.

I think these male doctors are unfair and have no regard for a girl's feelings. I wonder why the male doctors require examinations and the woman doctor didn't? Is it male chauvinism, or greed for the extra examination fee?

WONDERING IN TOPEKA

DEAR WONDERING: A pelvic and breast examination by a male physician will in no way violate your chastity. Furthermore, medical authorities tell me that it's considered risky to prescribe the pill without having examined the patient, because not all women can use the pill safely. Most doctors, male and female, concur and take no chances.

DEAR ABBY: I've been dating a lovely widow for over 3 years. While dating her I also dated a couple of divorcees. Without going into detail, let me just say I did more than hold hands with all three of these ladies.

For the last few months I've been dating the widow exclusively, and we are seriously considering matrimony. She is very inquisitive, and knowing that I have dated the two divorcees, she keeps quizzing me about the relationships.

In fact, she presses me for the most intimate details. Must I reveal everything this woman wants to know? We aren't kids. We are both in our fifties. Rush your answer to me and I'll abide by your advice.

SETTLING DOWN

DEAR SETTLING: What has went on between you and the other ladies in your life is none of her business. Tell her that you'd no more consider disclosing what went on between you and THEM than what went on between you and HER. That should settle it.

DEAR ABBY: I've a 70-year-old sister with whom I've been estranged for many years. She became widowed (for the second time) a few months ago. She has written to say that she and her 50-year-old son, who is extremely obnoxious, are coming to visit me and my wife.

This sister visited us 20 years ago, and I'll never forget it. She made such a row that I had to call the police and have her forcibly evicted.

Frankly, this sister is not normal in the head and she makes trouble wherever she goes. I've discussed this with my wife, and she wants no part of my sister or her son.

I intend to consult a lawyer who will send a registered letter to my sister, telling her that she is not welcome here,and advising her that there are protective laws for persons who do not want to be molested by undesirable relatives.

Will you please let me know if you think this is advisable and effective? Or have you perhaps some other suggestion that would accomplish the same end?

CANADIAN

DEAR CANADIAN: You know sister better than I do. Let your lawyer handle it.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1936, the Spanish Civil War began as Gen. Francisco Franco led army forces in revolt against the government.

On this date:

In 1603, Sir Walter Raleigh was arrested for suspected complicity in a plot to dethrone England's King James I.

In 1821, Florida was ceded to the United States by Spain.

In 1955, Arco, Idaho, became the first community in the world to receive all its light and power from atomic energy.

In 1965, U.S. B52 bombers based on Guam hit targets in South Vietnam for the first time.

Ten years ago: The Securities and Exchange Commission issued a report which was sharply critical of some practices of securities exchanges.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 18

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Don't be dismayed if all does not go quite as you have anticipated. Face situations calmly and you can solve unexpected problems.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Action, yes — IF that's what's needed. Where reflection, conferences and similar "waiting" tactics are needed, however, be ready to sit them out patiently.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Do not be deceived by high-sounding promises. Study persons and situations with your usual keen perception, then act as your best judgment dictates.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Even if you have planned ably, it may be a matter of nip and tuck for most of the day. But you won't have too much difficulty, and you should enjoy the challenge.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Don't idle away precious hours on this truly auspicious day, but don't drive too hard or fast, either. Team up with those whose interests are similar to your own.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Your preceptions may need sharpening up now. Be sure to take all factors into account when evaluating unexpected situations.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Hold out for the best, and give the same — as the Libran usually does. Discuss "cloudy" situations with experts in the line.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Some discussion of travel plans indicated. You may want to take the initiative, but curb your strong drive for the moment and, at least, listen to others.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You'll have an opportunity to express your ideas now, so make the most of it. Later in the week you could face opposition.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Indications that some highly interesting news from a professional friend could affect your own policies in the future — especially in the handling of finances.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Even if you have recently made some domestic adjustment, news you receive now may cause you to think about further changes.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Neptune highly propitious. You can now draw attention to your efforts in a very subtle way — and profit thereby.

YOU BORN TODAY are a true intellectual and extremely conservative in all your attitudes and approaches. You have tremendous capabilities — especially in organization or executive management — but tendencies toward stubbornness and a dictatorial manner could alienate associates and make you a most unpopular supervisor unless you learn to control them. Other fields in which you could excel: science, literature, dramatic criticism.

Sheriff's Department activity mounts

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department received 521 complaints during July, including 38 which involved criminal offenses of a serious nature.

The complaint total was up by 131 over the same month a year ago, according to a monthly report issued by Sheriff Don Thompson.

Sheriff Thompson said there were eight burglaries and 21 larceny complaints among the more serious crimes. Also investigated were six destruction of property reports, two car thefts, and a bad check complaint. One robbery was also reported, but the complaint later was determined to be unfounded.

Sheriff's deputies during the month also investigated 69 traffic accidents in which 22 persons were injured. The accident total was up by nine over July 1972.

Activity for the month included the recovery of three stolen cars, a trash-dumping investigation, four reports of missing persons, 11 dog or animal bite cases, nine fires, two suicides, one attempted suicide, 12 emergency blood or mental runs, 14 funeral escorts, 87 civil papers processed and 30 special duty assignments.

A total of 70 persons were either incarcerated in the county jail or given traffic citations, including nine persons held on felony charges, Sheriff Thompson said.

The total of 895 actions taken by sheriff's deputies during the month brought the year's activity total to 4,930 actions, an increase of more than 600 over the same period last year.

Ohio genealogy workshop slated

CAMBRIDGE — The Ohio Genealogical Society will hold a workshop meeting Saturday at the Shenandoah Inn, Old Washington, on Ohio Rt. 285, just south of I-70 about eight miles east at Cambridge.

The morning program will cover city and county records, and will feature a panel headed by Richard Ryan of the Ohio University Library at Athens, who will discuss the program of preserving local government records in Ohio. Other aspects of local records will be covered by Laban Blackburn, recorder of Harrison County and Charles Wallace, president of the Harrison County Historical Society. The morning session will begin about 9:00 a.m. with registration and a coffee hour.

In the afternoon, practical problems in genealogy will be discussed by such experts as Mr. and Mrs. Robert Conner, of Cambridge, both past presidents of the OGS, Dr. Raymond Dent, of Mansfield, Mrs. Lida F. Harshman, of Mineral Ridge, and Mrs. Lois Ogier, of Barberton, all experienced and active genealogists and past presidents of the OGS.

Money Does Matter . . .

By J. W. Wallace

BE ASSURED: YOU REALLY NEED TO BE INSURED!

Any sound personal financial program will include some form of savings plan as a must.

Another must is life insurance — a long range insurance program providing reasonable protection for your family — not just a policy.

Basically, life insurance is needed to provide funds enabling a family to meet the problems encountered if the head of the family should die.

There are many forms of life insurance, almost too many to mention here, designed to meet the needs and abilities of countless situations.

While a certain policy may be ideal for one kind of a need, it can be almost a waste of money in another situation.

CONGRATULATIONS TO:

The Washington C. H. Jaycees for their sponsoring of another successful 4th of July celebration.

Best wishes to the members of the Rodgers Chapel AME Church in recognition of their 100th anniversary, which was observed during the week of July 8th to 15th.

The First National Bank of Washington Court House is NOT in the life insurance business.

In dealing with money, however, and all the uses and mis-uses of money, we have learned through experience some of the things you should consider about insurance.

As a complete service Bank we offer to help in any way we can, and at no cost or obligation!

Mr. Wylie takes bride in Celina

St. John's Lutheran Church in Celina was the setting for the marriage of Miss Nan Sites and John A. Wylie. The Rev. David Shugert assisted David Sites, seminarian, brother of the bride, in performing the wedding ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Snowden Sites, Rt. 1, Mendon, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wylie, 1295 Dayton Ave., June 16, at 5:30 p.m. by candlelight. Gladioli arrangements were on the altar.

The Misses Lorrie and Lou Ann Sites, the bride's sisters, were accompanied on the guitar by Mrs. Pat Banta, a friend of the bride's family from New Orelands, La. The songs were Paul Stuke's "Wedding Song" and "Sunrise, Sunset." Mrs. Banta closed the ceremony with an original ballad written for the bride and groom.

There were no attendants or groomsmen.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length shirtwaist styled gown of textured Indian cotton in a sheer ivory accented by pale blue silk shantung which lined the high standing collar and French cuffs, and formed the long underdress. The waistline featured a sash belt and fabric rose of the pale blue silk. The gown was designed and made by the bride.

A family dinner and reception at the Koch Restaurant in St. Mary's followed the wedding ceremony. A three tiered wedding cake made by Mrs. David Sites, sister-in-law of the bride, centered the bride's table.

The new Mrs. Wylie, a graduate of Parkway High School, Rockford, and the University of Cincinnati, is a designer for J.G. Couture in Cincinnati. Her husband, a graduate of Washington C.H. High School and the University of Cincinnati, is employed as an underwriter for Buckeye Union Insurance Co. in Cincinnati.

Annual picnic is held by Christian Circle

Woman's Christian Circle, South Side Church of Christ held its annual picnic supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Creamer, Waterloo Rd., Thursday evening. Guests were seated at picnic tables on the spacious lawn with Richard Leslie giving the invocation.

The evening was spent in swimming by the younger people and various types of ball games were played.

Mrs. Dorothy Morton, president presented devotions, and told of some of her experiences in her Christian life. She also read a poem by Helen Steiner Rice and closed with prayer.

The Youth Choir of the church recently returned from a choir tour that took them as far as northern Michigan and southern Canada. They sang at various churches. Mrs. Jerry Sears is the choir leader and Mrs. Creamer is the accompanist. Adult chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Creamer, Mr. and Mrs. Sears and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie.

The Young Bereans, class of young adults, visited Pike Lake recently and Mrs. Jon Creamer reported on the good time had by the group of nineteen.

The next meeting will be Aug. 9 in home of Mrs. Ronald Clay. Mrs. Taylor Jefferson of Hillsboro will be the speaker and assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Arthur Deakyne and Mrs. Phillip Campbell. Mrs. Howard Wright will bring devotions.

Bride-elect honored at personal shower

Miss Julie Wilson bride-elect of Don Bower, was honored at a personal bridal shower Sunday afternoon in the home of Miss Mindy Shaw. Serving as hostesses with Miss Shaw were the Misses Susan Essman and Ann Millet, Mrs. Carl Wilt and Mrs. Stanley Brown.

Suspended above the gift table on the porch was a floral umbrella with streamers.

Following games, mint pie and punch were served to the guests, Mrs. Samuel Wilson and Mrs. Wayne Bower, mothers of the betrothed couple, Miss Peggy Bower, sister of the prospective groom, Mrs. Dale Lynch, Mrs. Byers Shaw and daughter, Beth, the Misses Terri Haugen, Cyndi Mrton, Liz Sauer, Beatriz Grau, Mrs. Bill Vance, Mrs. Joseph Del Greco and the hostesses.

Mrs. Casey is honored

The Welcome Wagon Club gave an "appreciation coffee" for retiring hostess Mrs. Gary Casey, Sunday afternoon, in the home of Mrs. Bill Earley. The group presented her with a gold charm and a pair of silver candlesticks.

Hobby Club has picnic

Nine members and two guests of the Fayette Hobby Club met in Eyman Park Sunday for the annual picnic. Mrs. Keith Zimmerman and daughter, Suzie, were guests.

All spent the afternoon viewing cards and souvenirs brought from the Holy Land by Mrs. Florence Bethards.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Tway, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fultz, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Richardson, Mrs. Bethards, Mrs. Alice Bush and Mrs. Esther Hyer.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Mary Jo Hunter and son Larry, 315 East St., recently returned from a three week visit with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hunter in London, England. During their stay they visited many historic places of interest in and around London and went to Brighton, on the English Channel via British rail. They also traveled on British-European Airlines to Paris, France, where they enjoyed a five-day stay, and also made a trip to Versailles, France, on the River Seine. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter have resided in London for the past three years, where Mr. Hunter is copy editor for the Foreign News Service of the Washington Post - Los Angeles Times newspapers. Mrs. Hunter is the former Ruth Binegar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Binegar, 1561 Hays Rd., N.W.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rambo (Karen Carman) of Dayton, has been performing with the Cincinnati Summer Opera this season. On Saturday night they were privileged to sing in the production of Verdi's Aida. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carman, St. Rt. 41-N, parents of Mrs. Rambo, and Mrs. Ethel Bryant of New Holland, attended the most colorful production at the Cincinnati Music Hall.

Mrs. Jean T. Craig, 125 Gardner Court, Mr. and Mrs. Allen O. McClung and son Tom, 546 Comfort Lane, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Fries, 530 Comfort Lane, were in Chillicothe Sunday morning for the sunrise service held at Adena State Memorial overlooking Mount Logan. Services were conducted by St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Later in the afternoon, Gov. Gilligan flew via helicopter from Cincinnati to participate in the festivities.

Barry, Larry and Shelley Sanders, the children of Mr. and Mrs. William Sanders of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Shipley Sr., 917 Washington Ave. They will remain here for 2½ weeks.

Mrs. Souther, Mr. Rockhold are wed

Mrs. Dorothy Souther of Bloomingburg and William Rockhold, 711 Columbus Ave., were united in marriage July 7 in the Belle Center United Methodist Church. The Rev. Emery Moyer, formerly of the Bloomingburg United Methodist Church, performed the wedding ceremony.

A reception took place in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Moyer following the wedding ceremony. Following a trip to Niagara Falls, the couple is residing at 711 Columbus Ave.

Showers given for bride-elect

Miss Melanie Oesterle, bride-elect of Dan Smith, was honored at a miscellaneous bridal shower given by Miss Dianne Oesterle, Miss Lori Benner and Mrs. Sandy Morris. The shower was given in the home of the grandmother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Emma C. Morris of New Holland.

The gift table, where the guest of honor opened many lovely gifts, were decorated with white wedding bells and pink and white streamers. Games were won by Mrs. Nancy Swackhammer, Mrs. Sheryl Morris and Mrs. Becky Downs, who presented them to the guest of honor.

The refreshment table was decorated with a white bride doll. Cake, punch and nuts were also of the pink and white color theme. Guests present were Mrs. Maynard Oesterle, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Morris, the grandmother, Miss Mary Ellen Oesterle, Mrs. Delores Woods, Mrs. Pauline Benner, Mrs. Doris Stephenson, Mrs. Swackhammer and daughters Kristi, Roxanne and Toni, Mrs. Karen Adams, Mrs. Jean Yale and daughter Linda, Mrs. Sheryl Morris and children Kathy, Stevie and Robby, Miss Debbie Morris, Mrs. Downs and son Brad, the Misses Teresa and Marsha Morris, Mrs. Susie Morris and daughter Cindy, Mrs. Betty Morris, Mrs. Margaret Morris and Mrs. Ginny Morris.

* * * * * *

Refreshments of cake and coffee were served.

Invited guests were Mrs. Maynard Oesterle, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Ruth Smith, mother of the prospective groom, Mrs. Kenneth Oesterle Sr., Miss Dianne Oesterle, Mrs. Glenn Tatman, Mrs. Kenneth Oesterle Jr., Mrs. Jean Skinner, Mrs. Joanne Poole, Miss Penny Hardman, Miss Janie Counts, Mrs. Marilyn Rudill, Miss Cheryl Queen, Mrs. Linda Naylor, Miss Lisa Queen, and Mrs. Jerry Durflinger.

A teaspoon of lemon juice may be added to rice that is being cooked. The lemon juice helps keep the rice white.

Once you get used to using a kitchen timer, you'll never want to cook or bake without it.

TV Viewing

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The summer TV season has shown, if nothing else, that Burns and Schreiber are not what you call your ordinary basic standup comedy team.

In fact, Jack Burns and Avery Schreiber are not standup comics at all. They are sketch artists with a range from downright goofy to bitingly satirical. They never did a standup routine until it was required for "The Burns and Schreiber Comedy Hour" seen on Saturday nights on ABC.

"A great part of our act has pathos in it," said Burns.

"There are some great belly laughs, but there's also an underlying feeling of the awareness of the passage of time and alienation. Many of our sketches that we've worked on the longest, such as the cab driver, most of our set act, is aloneness and an underlying current of sadness.

"I think Avery is a master clown and behind almost every clown is that feeling of sadness."

Burns, a New Englander, was a Marine in the Korean War and was a radio newsman at one time. While working for a Fort Worth, Tex., station he formed a comedy team with another staffer, George Carlin. They broke up when Burns went to Chicago to join the Second City group.

Schreiber, a native of Chicago, joined the Goodman Theatre with the aim of becoming a director. But he was soon doubling as an actor in both comedy and drama.

Later Schreiber also joined Second City and the team of Burns and Schreiber was born. They performed in nightclubs, in concerts and made numerous television appearances.

They broke up in 1968 after deciding the act had gone as far as it could. Burns developed into a leading comedy sketch writer for variety shows and Schreiber became an actor and director. A year ago they got together again for a charity performance — and decided to give it another try.

In their routines, Burns is the pushy, overconfident, suave loudmouth. Roly-poly, cuddly Schreiber is the perennial patsy —who in the tradition of all comedy teams always puts down the loudmouth.

The two personalities play off well against each other and they have an innate sense of timing that keeps one from stepping on the other's buildup.

Schreiber said, "I really believe when Jack grabs a character, the loudmouth who grates on you and you want to hit him, you want to laugh at him, see him made a fool or make himself a fool, I think that really is a reflection on the personality of the individual and his comment on that kind of person. Jack uses it, and by doing it pins down the thing that really bugs him about some of these people.

"We did a very wild, goofy Robin Hood," he said. "When I looked at it, I said, is there any redeeming value in this? And there was because he plays that swashbuckler that we've always wanted to see fall flat on his face."

Slate Public hearings for lime, stone firms

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Public hearings will be held later this month by the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency for six Ohio lime and stone plants on requests for variances from the state's pollution laws.

The companies include Basic Refractories, Fostoria; U. S. Gypsum, Genoa; Ohio Lime, Woodville; Standard Lime, Woodville; The J. E. Baker Co., Millersville; and National Lime and Stone Co., Carey.

Teen-age brothers keep 'em moving

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Apartment Movers Inc., of Nashville, is keeping two teenage brothers on the move.

Richard, 17, and Barry Jones, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.A. Jones, saved $1,100 from a paper route to launch their successful moving enterprise.

The boys own four trucks, have found a ready market in short haul moving for apartment dwellers and have paid back all but $600 of their original investment.

"We always encouraged our boys to work and save," the boys' father said.

Ohio Perspective

State cracks down on bad drivers

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Wherever a bad driver goes these days, his record is sure to follow.

Gone are the days when a bad driver could bury his misdeeds just by changing states. Now if he loses his license in Arizona because of a major traffic violation, it's a sure bet he won't get a driver's permit in Ohio.

Ohio and other states have ready access to the bad driving records of most Americans through the National Driver Register in Washington, D.C.

"The goal is to prevent someone with a bad driving record from slipping into another state and getting a new license," said Rose M. Armstrong of the Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles. "We're trying to keep the bad drivers off the road."

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said the register has been effective. With the rising use of the register's data bank, the federal agency said, "Irresponsible drivers are being removed from American highways in ever-increasing numbers."

In the first quarter of 1973, Miss Armstrong said, "We made 86,817 inquiries to the register and the result was 1,219 probable identification of bad drivers.

"If it's a pretty sure deal, we can reject their application. But the person has a right to petition the local court and presumably show that if they had been convicted in Ohio, the penalty would not have been as severe as a license suspension."

Those situations are rare, she said. "If they do happen, the court has the authority to order the issuance of an Ohio license."

Miss Armstrong said in the first three months of 1973, Ohio has sent to the register 10,182 names of persons with suspended licenses because of major traffic violations.

Major violations include driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs, vehicular homicide, drag racing, fleeing from a police officer and being a hit-skip motorist.

She said the goal of the register and the U.S. Department of Transportation is one system of licensing for the entire country, instead of 50.

"I support the one-license concept because it would eventually lead to better control of bad drivers," she said.

Clear language blow is struck

WASHINGTON (AP)—The editor of an Agriculture Department newsletter today struck a blow for more clarity in government reports

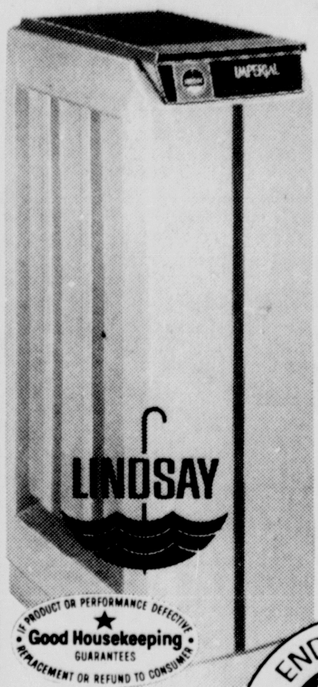

Edward D. Curran, who sends his "Farm Paper Letter" to 1,500 newspaper and magazine editors, included this example of governmentese in a report about lamb production:

"A growing lack of downward flexibility in retail lamb prices since 1965 has tended to widen wholesale-to-retail margins and has aggravated the competitive position of lamb compared with beef and contributed to its declining consumption."

Curran added an explanatory footnote: "It means things ain't been going too well in the lamb industry lately."

Americans are consuming vast amounts of prepared convenience foods with much of the kitchen work done by the processor. The cost of this built-in service has gone up far more than the cost of the basic food item itself.

Lessons every businessman has to learn. Lessons taught to him by the consumer.

Jimmy is vulnerable to the consumer the moment he decides to go into business. Does he have the right product? The right quality? The right price? The right location? He'll soon find out. The consumer will tell him. And he'd better listen, if he wants to stay in business and become an asset to the community.

That's what being in business is all about—responding to the consumer. Meeting people's constantly changing needs.

As independent businessmen, we believe in competitive distribution. The retail automobile business is built on it. So is every business advertised in this newspaper. And because of competition, you'll never be forced to buy one brand, at one price, from one store. Competition gives you a choice. The result is greater variety, better quality, better service. And, would you believe, even lower prices?

You call the shots. You, the consumer. We wouldn't have it any other way. After all, we're consumers, too.

South Vietnam now: is it falling to Reds?

PETER ARNETT
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The Vietnam battlefield is taking final, predictable shape. War has raged across it for three decades, and troops from six foreign nations have gambled with death here.

The war is still on. The two cease-fire agreements signed in January and June this year have only slowed it down long enough for the United States to pull out entirely.

The French Foreign Legion left 18 years earlier. The Australians, the New Zealanders, the Thais, and the South Koreans left more recently but without a backward glance or commitment.

On the battlefield now, alone for the first time, are the Vietnamese. And also for the first time in three decades it is possible to deduce the probable outcome on the battlefield if a political solution is delayed, and the war continues.

The South Vietnamese.

The United States came to Vietnam to win the war, but when it became too costly in men and money, tactics were changed and the concept of "Vietnamization" was introduced. The idea was to build the Saigon army into a copy of the American one, as far as weaponry was concerned. The American strategy remained the same until the cease-fire agreement in January: Win the war.

Has "Vietnamization" worked? The answer has to be no. First of all, Saigon has had to yield an enormous part of the country to the Communist side, as much as 25 per cent according to some estimates. This lost terrain includes the sites of some of the most famous American battles—the Ia Drang Valley, Dak To, Khe Sanh, War Zone C.

Secondly, "Vietnamization" never did fill the holes left by the departing allied troops. "I have not been able to fill up the vacuum left when the South Koreans went home," said the chief of coastal Khanh Hoa Province, Col. Ly Ba Pham. The 3rd U.S. Marine Division held Quang Tri Province until the Americans went home. Now yellow-star Communist flags dot the hillsides there.

The same flags fly in Kontum Province, Loc Ninh, and the other "holes" left behind when the allies went home.

"Vietnamization" never did work in weaponry, either. Saigon has one of the world's biggest air forces, but few planes that can do adequate aerial combat with the Hanoi government's MIG21s.

What about the combat soldiers? Last year the Saigon forces held Kontum and An Loc despite major Communist attacks, and fought back into Quang Tri City. But this was with the help of the whole U.S. Air Force arsenal.

The South Vietnamese soldier has grown used to attacking with massive air support. The Communist soldier has grown used to fighting under those American bombs.

Take away American planes and you have a much stronger Hanoi soldier and a much weaker Saigon one.

The North Vietnamese are linking up territory captured inside South Vietnam via a road network estimated at 500 miles long. Truck traffic indicates a buildup of military equipment as massive as that which preceded the major Communist offensive of last year. Free from American bombing for the first time since 1965, the Communist side is laying in surface to air missiles around lengthened airstrips at Khe Sanh and the Asahau Valley, and building small towns.

The offensive last year brought the Communist armies to within touching distance of the major population centers. Heavy guns are within range of Kontum City, Quang Tri and Hue, and possibly Da Nang. The environs of Saigon are within a day's march of Communist regiments in War Zones C and D.

What is likely to happen? What is the shape of the future?

The hope was that the ceasefire agreements would put an end to the fighting this year, that zones of control could be determined, and that an orderly transition would be made to a political settlement.

At best the Communist side would like participation in a coalition government such as that in Laos; at worst, recognition by the Saigon government, and official acknowledgement of Communist control over occupied territory.

The Communist side can be expected to use military pressure to achieve any, or all, of its political objectives. It has all the options; Saigon can only defend.

One Communist option is the renewal of the guerrilla war. The guerrilla "people's war" organized by the Viet Cong almost overwhelmed the government in 1965. That is what brought American troops in.

The Viet Cong were nearly put out of business because the entry of American troops into the war tipped the balance against them. North Vietnam sent down not only infantry divisions to fight the Americans, but thousands of replacements for dead Viet Cong guerrillas.

One reason for the demise of the Viet Cong was that the government extended its control over the population, gave every farmer a gun and told him to point it at the Viet Cong.

That was all very well while the government's control in the countryside was firm. Now control is weaker because of the close proximity of Communist troops. Already in Chuong Thien Province in the Mekong Delta guerrillas are being recruited from all the hamlets, according to a defector. In effect the Communists are now telling the farmers to point their guns at the government.

How effective can this guerrilla regeneration be? Knowledgeable Americans point out that while the South Vietnamese regular army is loyal to Saigon, the local militiamen who number in the hundreds of thousands, are loyal to the hamlets where they were born. Some fought for the Viet Cong before the government in Saigon extended its control in the late 1960s. Presumably they could fight for the VC again if government control erodes.

Another Communist option is this, the long-term indoctrination of selected South Vietnamese who are taken North. Such people returning to South Vietnam in the late 1950s created the Viet Cong insurgency.

Now from every province in the country there have been reports of young people from 12 to 18 years of age, either kidnaped or willingly leaving home, going North. In Binh Thuan on the coast 90 young persons were taken in April and May.

The Communist side is already repopulating Quang Tri with some of the more than 20,000 people it took North after overrunning the province in the 1972 offensive.

There is a third option: Another full-scale Communist offensive launched from secure base areas against Tay Ninh, An Loc, Kontum, Pleiku, Binh Dinh Province, Hue and selected Mekong Delta targets.

While anything can happen in Vietnam and often does, knowledgeable Americans and Vietnamese see the Communists using a combination of all their options.

Firstly, they will continue to strengthen their territory with road-building and resettlement. They will attempt to build the Viet Cong back into a powerful military force. And they can launch the occasional "mini offensive" that will help demoralize the Saigon army and grab more terrain.

If all this were to fail, then the Communists could take the long-term viewpoint, methodically building up a reinvigorated cadre from those Southerners now being taken North, and sending them down South some day to start the whole thing over again.

This last possibility — failure — seems the most unlikely. "The main purpose of the North Vietnamese these past few years has been to oust the foreigner," said Khanh Hoa Province Chief Col. Pham. "Now they have us all alone."

How might America fit into this somber future? Less and less as the days go by, it seems. Apparent American disinterest in the course of the war effort has led to a breakoff in the close U.S. adviser relationships that were built up over a decade.

The Saigon high command has retreated into secrecy, and the few American military men left are finding it near impossible to maintain an accurate accounting of what is going on in the field.

With U.S. military advisers completely out of the countryside, the American officers and civilians attached to the small American defense establishment in Saigon often have to resort to waking up Vietnamese generals from their siestas, or corralling them during tennis matches, to plead for information about what big actions are going on.

This sudden huge information gap could be disastrous in the event of another major Communist offensive. U.S. officials would have great difficulty in judging the accuracy of Vietnamese reports and the United States no longer has intelligence sources of its own to verify targets and Communist troop movements.

No action In General Phone strike

MARION, Ohio (AP)—General Telephone Co. officials and striking members of the Communications Workers of America are awaiting a call from a federal mediator before they return to the bargaining table.

About 2,800 workers entered their second day of a strike Tuesday while Mediator Howard Hughes continued to meet separately with both sides.

The union's contract expired in the beginning of July but was extended until Monday.

The walkout had little effect on service to the company's 308,000 subscribers. Supervisory personnel took over as operators, installers and linemen.

There was one small outage near Troy which temporarily cut off long distance lines after a cable was severed, a company spokesman said. It was immediately repaired.

While the strike goes on, the company continued to seek a rate boost from the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio which would increase revenues by $1 million a month.

Showers dampen parts of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms dampened widely scattered areas of the nation today while fair and mild weather dominated most Northern sections.

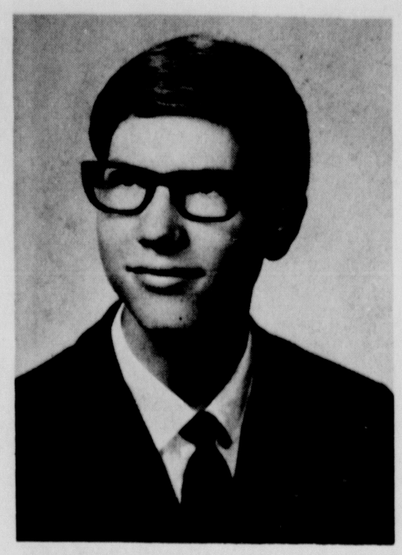

Showers and thunderstorms extended from southwest Texas north over the Rockies, over northern Minnesota and from the central Mississippi Valley to the Carolina coast and Maryland.

Flash flooding developed southwest of El Paso, Texa., before dawn, and heavy rains fell over northern California, northern Alabama and the Carolinas.

Florence, S.C., and Hickory, N.C., both were washed with 2 inches of rain. Birmingham, Ala., took on nearly an inch.

GUATEMALA BOUND — Dan Garringer, who is receiving material and moral support of the Millwood Church of Christ in preparing for a career as a gospel preacher, left Monday with a group of other young men for Guatemala. Garringer, a senior at Abilene, Tex. Christian College, will return in about six weeks. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Garringer, Jenks Rd., west of Jeffersonville.

Delta Queen future remains 'up in air'

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some nostalgia of the majestic river queens, a floating memory complete with a gingerbread superstructure, grand staircase and a steam calliope, awaits a decision in the House on whether she stays afloat or retires.

The vote, which could come today, will decide if the paddlewheeler Delta Queen can continue her odysseys on the Ohio, Tennessee and Mississippi rivers.

The vote will be on a bill to exempt the Delta Queen from the marine safety law until Nov. 1, 1978.

In her favor, owner William Muster says the nation's last overnight, river-going steamer is averaging 90 per cent capacity of 180 passengers.

A detractor is the Coast Guard, which says the Delta Queen, made mostly of wood, is a fire risk.

Muster, president of Green Line Steamders Inc., has testified the fire risk is "statistically zero," and added no passenger has been killed in a steamboat accident since 1903, and never in his company's 83-year history.

An automatic fire detection system has been installed, bulkheads and overheads have been sprayed with fire retarding solutions and all staterooms have been fire-proofed, Muster said.

Four other paddlewheelers that ply the middle-American waterways as daytime excursion boats are exempt from the federal safety law.

In congressional jockeying over the exemption in 1970 a Coast Guard source jolted proQueen nostalgia buffs, saying:

"Not a bit of American history is involved. The Delta Queen was built in 1926 to simulate river boats. It is more a Disneyland creation."

The Delta Queen was built in Scotland and shipped to California's Sacramento River, where she was reassembled in 1926.

In 1947, she sailed through the Panama Canal for service on the Mississippi River.

Muster is building a sister paddlewheeler at Jeffersonville, Ind., on the Ohio River. This one will be built with fireproof materials from the keel up and will be twice the size of the Delta Queen. Her cost is about $15.5 million.

Traffic Court

Judge Reed M. Winegardner fined seven drivers a total of $462 and ordered 47 bonds amounting to $1,091 forfeited in Municipal Court traffic cases Monday afternoon.

Howard Merritt, 24, of 607 Campbell St., was fined $50 and costs on each of four charges brought against him by sheriff's deputies following an accident Saturday night.

He pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident, driving left of center, failure to transfer registration and intoxication. Merritt was arrested on the CCC Highway-W about two hours after his car struck another vehicle in front of Bowland. He drove from the scene then abandoned the car and walked away on foot.

He was also involved in a hitskip mishap in the city just minutes before the other accident and still faces charges of leaving the scene and reckless operation filed by police.

Other cases before the court were:

SHERIFF

Fined:

Frenchie Fugate, 34, Cleveland, $200 and costs, three days in jail and a 30-day license suspension for driving while under the influence of alcohol.

GM studies list of UAW demands

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers takes its new contract requests to Ford Motor Co. today after the union's goals received an unruffled reception at General Motors.

On Monday, union leaders outlined for GM officials the goals proposed in a 43-page packet of resolutions adopted by a union convention nearly four months ago.

Among them are voluntary overtime, dental insurance, full retirement benefits after 30 years of work in the plants and greater protection against rising prices. The union has not specified how great a wage increase it wants.

Executives at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler have been saying for months that they cannot "live with" some of the union's goals.

Emerging from an opening session that lasted more than an hour, George Morris Jr., GM's vice president for industrial relations, said he found no surprises in the union's proposals. But he added hastily, "We were told these are not all the demands that will be made."

He noted "an attitude of optimism on both sides" that there would not be a strike in the industry this year.

Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock echoed Morris' optimism and said there seems no air of "inevitablity" about a strike.

The union leaders will move to Chrysler on Wednesday for another formal opening of bargaining.

Bargaining sessions with General Motors resumed today, and the union expects to finish detailing its requests by week's end. Until GM hears the details, the goals will remain confidential, union leaders said.

Basically, the demands involve fringe benefits. The union wants a wage increase; but with its nearly 800,000 members at the Big Three automakers averaging $5.12 hourly on straight time, that is not a pressing issue.

Auto executives have warned that if the union persisted in seeking voluntary overtime, it would be on a "collision course" with the companies. The executives cite excessive costs in opposing most of the other proposals, especially dental insurance.

Anything unsettled when current three-year contracts expire Sept. 14 could trigger a strike. The last auto strike closed General Motors for 67 days in 1970

Higher interest rates cut into bank carnivals

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Aside from creating controversy, the lifting of interest rate ceilings on savings accounts is likely to have another very visible and sobering impact on the lives of Americans.

It will, of course, have a profitable impact too. Passbook savers at commercial banks will be able to get 5 per cent instead of 4.5. And at savings banks and associations, a 5.25 per cent rate is an improvement over 5 per cent.

But despite this good news, it is likely that there will also be an immediate de-emphasis of levity at the local bank and a reassertion of that grey, sober mood that once was considered so appropriate when money was involved.

When savings institutions became aware 30 years ago that ordinary Americans were accumulating substantial bundles of money they were forced to recognize that they must be catered to. Consumers were a growing force.

As they accumulated capital, the savings institutions learned, they might just as often come through the doors with a fistful of money to deposit as they might come with empty pockets and in need of a loan.

Consumers, they concluded, must be encouraged, even entertained if need be.

And so, deprived by federal regulations from competing for the consumer dollar by offering higher interest rates, the savings institutions discovered the lure of "fun 'n games."

Having made this discovery later in life than others, the money men found themselves in an unrestrained revel. Savings institutions began to look like catalog stores, offering furs, trips and assorted household hardware.

In some communities, competition seemed to depend on who offered the biggest premium, and it was rare in some neighborhood for a new outlet to open without creating a carnival to lure depositors from other banks.

But now, just as supermarkets were forced to return competition from sweepstakes and stamps to prices, the banks also seem destined to return at least part way to more serious, more realistic competition.

Seldom have saving institutions been given such an unfettered opportunity to compete for dollars. And knowing this, many savers will be unwilling to accept transistor radios in lieu of higher yields.

One innovation, already introduced by First Pennsylvania Banking & Trust Co., would guarantee 7.5 per cent, plus a cost of living bonus, on four-year certificates. The smallest certificate is $1,000.

The inflation bonus will be paid each year at the rate of ¼ per cent interest for every 1 per cent increase in the consumer price index.

For the time being, the * and the # are just there for decoration.

The ten beeps, however, are for real. They're what sets the Touch-Tone® apart from any phone ever made.

Tap a numbered button and you get a beep. Seven beeps and you've completed a local call. In about half the time it takes to crank a dial.

Here's the deal: For an additional $1.50 per month plus a one-time $5 conversion charge, we'll replace all your dial phones with the same style Touch-Tone phones.†

When Joani Trindl, 17, stepped up to receive the top award of a $1,000 Kodak Scholarship grant in the 1973 Scholastic-Kodak Photo Awards contest, she was the second girl in the 40-year history of the high school photography competition to achieve that highest prize.

It was indeed a blue ribbon honor for a youngster whose interest in photography had started only three years ago and whose efforts were judged best among 60,000 entries from 48 regional centers.

Her portfolio of 12 diversified photographs was on display with 275 other winners in an eye-catching exhibition in the Kodak Gallery in mid-New York City.

The awards ceremony also recognized another outstanding achievement, that of Joani's photography teacher, Warren King. His students in Los Angeles County's Reseda High school have won more photography awards than any other high school pupils in the United States.

UNDER his tutelage, not only has Joani won the highest scholarship prize this year, but 19 other Reseda students were among the winners.

To make the achievement more astonishing, last year two King students performed the extraordinary feat of winning both the first and second top scholarship grants of $1,000 and $500, as well as several other prizes.

But then, in local and other national contests, Reseda students have also been highly successful.

To cite two examples: More than 90 per cent of major prizes in local United Crusade photo competitions since 1960 have been won by Reseda pupils. And in 1972 the Photographic Scoiety of America scholarship to Rochester Institute of Technology went to a Reseda student.

WHAT IS Warren King's formula for photo success with high school students? How does he inspire interest and bring understanding, perception and camera mastery to teen-age fingers. . . that generation so often pictured as "gone to pot"?

"Keep them motivated, busy, inspired, disciplined, busy rewarded, competitive and busy," says King. "Yes, I stress keeping them busy. . . but if the photo assignments and work they are given are made exciting, stimulating and visually rewarding, they have no time for any counterculture. They get hooked on photography instead."

King runs a no-nonsense photo department in the school's Industrial Arts program.

It stresses preparation for employment in photography. There is no idle chatter allowed or lounging around the darkrooms, and all talk revolves around photography.

Students who do not adjust with this type of program are encouraged to select another course of study.

Members judge each other's work in a "picture of the week" contest and take regular weekend work-and-fun field trips.

The club sponsors an annual photo salon in which approximately 1,500 prints by students are hung. It is judged by professionals, seen by up to 10,000 viewers and awards are presented at a gala banquet.

"We are fortunate in getting the help of professionals," King said. "They give their time and best pictures and share their ideas and techniques with our students.

BESIDES the classroom instruction, King credits competition as the most valuable aid in developing young photographers.

It stimulates creative thinking, turns them into keen observers, makes them aware of changing trends in judging and presentation. When they see how other students solve challenges, they learn also.

Finally, when a student's work is rewarded in a competition, it often ignites the fuse of enthusiasm which makes photography a way of life.

"When we win awards for our efforts, I am pleased," King concluded. "But when we don't win, I am just as pleased - for we have done our best to create something which pleases us. That is just as important!"

BancOhio Corp. reports major gain in income

COLUMBUS — BancOhio corp. reports that consolidated income before securities gains or losses increased 16 cents per average outstanding common share for the first half of 1973.

BancOhio reported that, for the first six months of 1973 ending June 30, consolidated income before securities gains or losses totaled $10,055,648 or $1.45 per average outstanding common share. This represents a 13.2 per cent increase over the same period in 1972 when income was $8,883,787 or $1.29 per common share.

Consolidated net income after securities gains or losses for the first six months ended June 30, 1973, was $9,539,448 or $1.38 per average common share which compares with $9,435,189 or $1.37 per share for the same period in 1972. Earnings per common share have been computed on the average shares outstanding in each period which were 6,936,247 shares in 1973 and 6,908,365 in 1972.

On June 30, BancOhio Corp., which at that day had 36 affiliated banks operating 177 banking offices, reported total loans of $1,453,109,541, an increase of $351,688,217 over the first half ending June 30, 1972. Total deposits reported on June 30 were $2,238,896,850 which compares with $1,956,998,228 reported on the same date in 1972.

Total shareholders' equity for BancOhio Corp. was $181,450,448 on June 30 as compared with $169,750,483 on the same date in 1972. Having been listed again in both the Forbes and Fortune directories of the nation's largest corporations and banking companies, BancOhio remains Ohio's largest multi-bank holding company with total consolidated assets of $2,783,372,701 on June 30, 1973.

"Today's news is brought to you by..." electricity.

Keeping up with the world, the nation and our local community is part of our daily lives. We want to know what's going on — in government, business, sports, the weather and many other areas of interest. And we want to know right now.

The printing presses, radio and television stations, news wires and other telecommunications that supply the news, all depend upon electric power. It's one of the important jobs that electricity performs, around the clock, every day in the year.

Energy needs of news media and other community services — like those of homes and industry — continue to grow. Our generating plants and power delivery systems must grow to keep pace. That's why we need to spend over a half-billion dollars in the next five years to build additional facilities.

The cost of this constructon program, added to higher operating and financing costs, must eventually be reflected in higher electric rates.

To run short of power would be bad news for everyone.

Dodgers dump Bucs on Sutton's 6-hitter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I don't want it, you can have it" is the kind of play on the field that causes some baseball teams to lose games.

But the Los Angeles Dodgers are playing that kind of game in the clubhouse—and maybe that's one reaon why they're winning.

The Dodgers raised the "team spirit" bit to it's ultimate Monday night following their sixth straight victory, a 1-0 squeaker over the Pittsburgh Pirates on the strength of Don Sutton's six-hitter and Willie Crawford's second-inning home run off Nelson Briles.

"Sutton's your man," said Crawford. "He made it stand up,"

But Sutton wasn't interested in accepting the praise. Instead, he shuttled it along to his batterymate, Joe Ferguson.

"People underestimate the job that the catcher does," said Sutton, 12-5, who struck out nine Pirates without walking any of them to chalk up his third shutout this year.

In the rest of the National League games, the Reds beat the Philadelphia Phillies 1-0, the St. Louis Cardinals tripped the San Francisco Giants 3-2, the Atlanta Braves downed the New York Mets 8-6 and the Houston Astros topped the Montreal Expos 6-5 in 10 innings. The Chicago Cubs and San Diego Padres were idle.

Industrial softball tourney set

Seven teams representing five counties will compete for the district 4 industrial division slow-pitch softball championship this weekend at Eyman Park.

The teams, from Fayette, Butler, Montgomery, Greene and Clark Counties, will begin play at 5 p.m. Saturday. They are expected to bring large followings. Five games are scheduled for Saturday, with eight more to be played Sunday.

The first game will feature Ohio Casualty, Butler County, and Frigidare, of Montgomery County. Other opening round games on tap are Hamilton Blast Furnace, Butler County, vs. American Building, Greene County; and Wilson Freight, Clark County, vs. Delco Products, Montgomery County.

The other team in the tourney, Redman Industries, drew the first-round bye and will play in the fourth game Saturday against the winner of the Ohio Casualty-Frigidare clash.

Sunday action will start at noon, continuing until the champion has been crowned.

Cincy edges Phillies, 1-0

Instead, he blamed himself for a 1-0 defeat hung on the Phillies by the Cincinnati Reds and lefthander Fred Norman Monday night.

Luzinski lost a line drive by catcher Bill Plummer in the lights to open the sixth inning. Plummer later scored the game's only run.

"Why does it only happen to me?" Luzinski asked.

Cincinnati all-star leftfielder, Pete Rose, was quick to come to Luzinski's defense. He said he has lost some balls in the lights at Riverfront Stadium.

Luzinski, however, refused to use Rose's remark as an alibi. "That's not going to do me any good," he said. "In my case, I'd have to pass it off as a weak excuse."

Plummer's double was followed by a Norman bunt. Losing pitcher Ken Brett fielded the bunt and threw to third in plenty of time to nail Plummer, only to have third baseman Mike Schmidt drop the throw for an error.

Rose then hit a smash to right that eluded outfielder Mike Anderson. The ball landed in his glove, but was jarred loose when Anderson hit the turf, and Rose pulled into second. In the meantime, Plummer had crossed the plate.

"I've never seen anyone close so fast on a ball in the last ten feet," marveled Rose.

The loss went to Brett, who gave up only five hits, three to Rose. It was Brett's first start since injuring his shoulder in a collision with St. Louis catcher Tim McCarver and ended a personal five-game winning streak.

Brett not only suffered his third loss in 11 decisions, but saw his home run streak come to an end.

Norman, running his record to 6-2 since joining the Reds six weeks ago from the San Diego Padres, recorded his third shutout with a six-hitter.

But he had anxious moments, especially in the ninth, when a single by Anderson and Schmidt's double put runners at second and third with none out.

Norman said he then had a talk to himself on the mound. "You got yourself into this, not get yourself out," he said.

That is just what Norman did, retiring the side without a ball leaving the infield.

"Sometimes, explained the 30-year old Norman, "I've got to get mad at myself to stay cool, if you know what I mean."

The Reds have won 7 of 10 games with Philadelphia this season. They will try to make it 8 of 11 tonight as 13-game winner Jack Billingham, faces the Phillies' Jim Lonborg (7-7).

Problems brewing for Dallas?

Lilly missing at Cowboy camp

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif.(AP) — There wasn't much surprise when quarterback Craig Morton and center Dave Manders failed to show up at the Dallas Cowboys' football training camp, but the absence of All-Pro Bob Lilly came as somewhat of a shock.

In Dallas, his wife, Ann, said he told her the camp was "in a confused shambles, morale was low" and he was returning home from California "until training camp conditions improve."

The Cowboys wondered how he knew of camp conditions without ever arriving and club President Tex Schramm said the incident had him "confused" personally. But he denied any troubles were brewing.

"I don't think there's any confusion here," he said.

"All things considered I think it's a fairly normal opening for us," Schramm said of the official beginning of the Cowboy preseason camp for veteran players. They were due in by Monday night.

Morton reported to camp last Friday then left, asking to renegotiate the year remaining on his three-year contract or be traded. Manders, in his ninth season, said he would retire if he did not get a better contract.

Meanwhile, controversial running back Duane Thomas was suspended by Coach Harland Svare after reporting 24 hours late to the San Diego Chargers training camp.

Thomas, whose fleet-footed maneuvers led Dallas to victory in the 1972 Super Bowl, was dealt to the Chargers last year but did not play.

"Nobody's wandering into my camp anytime they want," Svare said. "I just called him into my office and told him he was suspended. There was no conversation. I just suspended him. Now he's on his way back to Dallas."

John Riggins, the New York Jets' leading rusher last season, is embroiled in a contract dispute with the club and failed to report to camp. The third-year pro from Kansas reportedly is seeking $150,000 for the coming season and has said he won't appear in camp until the matter is settled.

Others missing from the Jets'camp at Hofstra University included Joe Namath, who checked in and then left with team permission, wide receiver Don Maynard and left tackle Bob Svihus. Maynard is clearing up personal business while Svihus has requested a trade to a West Coast trade for personal reasons.

Running back Larry Brown, who was chosen 1972 Player of the Year, was missing when the Washington Redskins opened their training camp and said through his attorney that he was "attending to some important personal matters.

Defensive end Bubba Smith, who sat out last season with a shoulder injury and said he wanted to be traded away from Baltimore, got his wish when the Colts swapped him to the Oakland Raiders for tight end Raymond Chester.

All-Pro safety Jake Scott continued his holdout for new contract demands with the Miami Dolphins despite a $200-a-day fine imposed by Coach Don Shula.

Bob Maddox draws praise from Brown

"He gets off the ball, I'll say that," Brown said. "He hits too—no question about that. He's a prospect, although he's not very heavy."

Brown said he was also impressed with the squad's overall performance. "I think we're much farther along now than we've ever been before in the first day of camp," Brown said. "We're no longer an expansion team."

Greg Cook, attempting a comeback from recurring injuries, seemed displeased with himself, but Brown said he was not surprised with the quarterback's performance.

"We're not pressing Greg," Brown said. "He gets exasperated with himself, and the reason is, he knows how he was before and keeps thinking about it."

Trainers attend OSU workshop

Tarkio Chester and Donnie Smith attended a National Athletic Trainers Association-approved workshop at Ohio State University in Columbus last week.

Chester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Chester, is a trainer at Miami Trace High School. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raldon Smith, 441 E. East St., is a trainer at Washington Senior High School.

The workshop, cosponsored by Ohio State University and Cramer Products, Inc., emphasized care of the knee and spinal column, two areas of the body highly susceptible to injury.

Post 25 scheduled to visit Hillsboro

Post 25, with four straight victories, is 6-6 in the SCOL and 8-11 overall.

Good Hope edges Sabina

Good Hope upset Sabina 2-1 in a tight pitchers' duel while Girtons was clobbering Wilson's 10-2 Monday night in Fayette Babe Ruth League play.

Phillips, for Good Hope, and Smith, for Sabina, both pitched nifty two-hitters as Good Hope scored its upset victory. Phillips fanned 13 and didn't allow a run until the last inning in gaining the win.

Good Hope scored in the first and fourth frames to claim the victory.

S. Waters, with a double, and Haines, with a single, were the Good Hope hitters. Morris' triple and Boggs' single were the only Sabina hits.

Girtons held on to the lead position in the league pennant scramble, overcoming an early 2-0 deficit. Girtons tied it up in the fourth and scored the winners in the fifth.

Jack James whiffed 13 and walked five in pitching the victory, while Dewey Foster and Wes Williams hurled for the losers.

James homered and laced two singles and Bob Brown doubled and belted two singles to lead the Girton attack.

Jimmy Potts singled twice for winless Wilson's.

LL all-star team to visit Dayton

Washington C.H.'s little League all-star team open tournament play at 6 p.m. Wednesday against Dayton View.

Fans attending the game should take U.S. 35 west into Dayton, then turn right onto I-75 north. After crossing the Miami River, they should turn left onto Salem Ave. (Ohio 49), following it until taking another left turn onto Corneli Drive.

Osborne wins handicap golf title

Roger Osborne won the Washington Country Club handicap golf crown Monday night, downing Donald Morrow 5 and 3. Osborne, who carries a 20 handicap, shot an 85 for the 18-hole final, while Morrow, a 13-handicapper, came in at 86.

Junk's victims were Allen Willoughby, William Mount and Jim Polk, while Marti decisioned Dale Wade, Jim Wightman, Jim Wilson and Bart Mahoney to reach the semi-finals.

The club scratch championship is currently under way.

Edgewood Dinah wins Scioto Downs feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Edgewood Dinah took the lead at the half and went on to a three-length victory in the featured race at Scioto Downs Monday night. Time for the mile was 2:06 2-5.

3 Reds win election to all-star team

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds cranked up the Big Red voting machine and placed three players—catcher Johnny Bench, outfielder Pete Rose and second baseman Joe Morgan—on the starting National League All-Star team announced today.

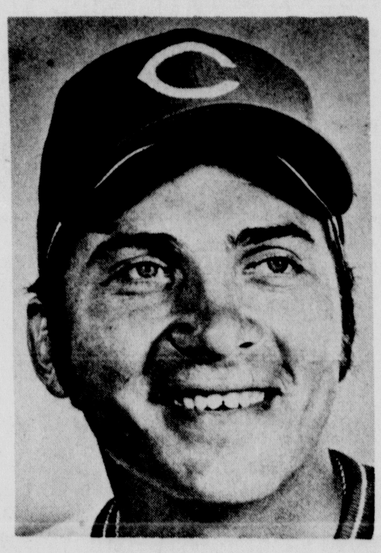

The National League stars will meet the American League in the 44th mid-summer classic July 24 in Kansas City's new Royals Stadium.

Bench, leading the league in runs batted in, garnered 1,738,557 votes as the most popular player in either league.

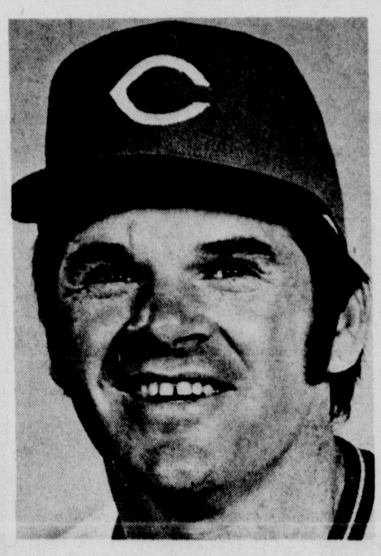

Morgan, leading the league in stolen bases, amassed twice as many votes as his nearest challenger—Pittsburgh's Dave Cash—while Rose, among the top 10 hitters in the league was top vote-getter in the outfield. He'll start for the third time. Along with Rose in the outfield will be Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs and Cesar Cedeno of the Houston Astros. Cedeno nailed down the last starting outfield job by slipping in ahead of San Francisco's Bobby Bonds, 860,575—855,344.

First baseman Hank Aaron of Atlanta, moving in on Babe Ruth's career home run record, received 1,362,447 of the 4,011,237 votes cast overall, second only to Bench. It will be Aaron's 15th time as a starter and his ninth in succession.

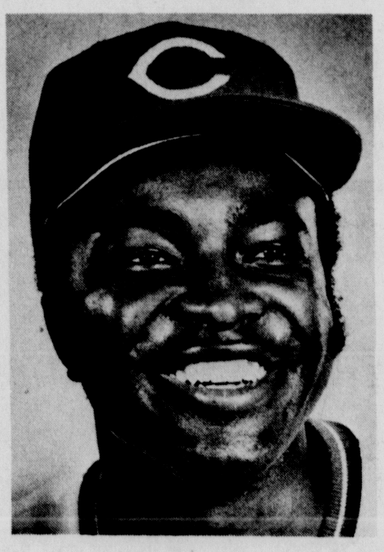

Chicago's Ron Santo, with 808,720, topped Joe Torre of St. Louis by almost 100,000 votes and will be making his fourth starting appearance at third. Shortstop Chris Speier of the Giants, who received 930,353 to 537,608 for runner-up Dave Concepcion, is in his first starting role.

JOHNNY BENCH

PETE ROSE

JOE MORGAN

Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh finished far back of Aaron at first with 608,424, Dave Cash of Pittsburgh had 450,618 compared to Morgan 986,769 and Manny Sanguillen of the Pirates finished far behind Bench behind the plate with 412,881.

The American League's top vote-getter, Dick Allen, may not even be able to make an appearance. The White Sox' first baseman, who received 1,-111,366 votes, is still recovering from a hairline fracture of his left leg, suffered in a collision with Mike Epstein of the California Angels.

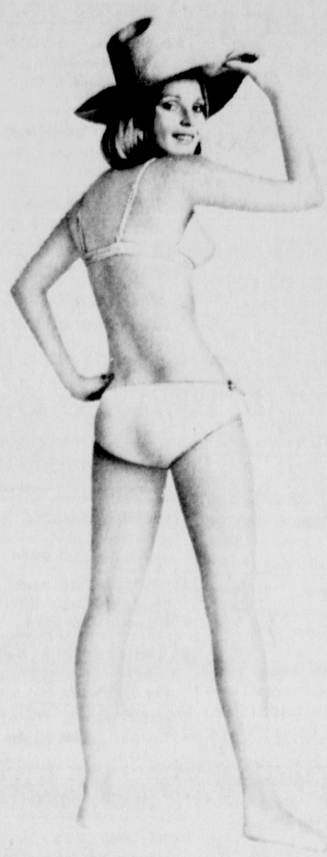

If Allen is unable to play, the starting assignment would probably go to Kansas City's John Mayberry, who had some 300,000 fewer votes.

In addition to Allen, other American League repeaters named for All-Star starting berths were second baseman Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins, Baltimore Oriole third baseman Brooks Robinson, and outfielders Reggie Jackson of Oakland and Bobby Murcer of the New York Yankees.

Those elected to start for the first time were Boston catcher Carlton Fisk, who also received over a million votes, Kansas City outfielder Amos Otis and Oakland shortstop Bert Campaneris.

Both leagues set records for the number of votes cast, with National League fans casting 4,011,237 votes and the American League 3,911,989.

Priest divides time between church, law

By GEORGE STEELE
Charleston Gazette Writer

UNION, W. Va. (AP) — On weekdays, Michael Clay Smith is the prosecuting attorney of Monroe County. On Sundays, he's an Episcopal priest.

"I get a lot of kidding, he said. "Some of my friends accuse me of saving them on Sunday and hanging them on Monday."

Smith, 30, is a native of Louisiana. He went to Louisiana State University, where he studied journalism. He practiced this profession for a while, writing for newspapers and news services.

A few years after his graduation from college, he decided to study law at Jackson Law School, Jackson, Miss. "The entire time I went to law school I worked as a newspaper or wire service reporter," he said.

IN 1968, he received his law degree. Just before his graduation, he married Peggy Hancock, of Union.

"I always intended to have a small town general practice," he said. "And, as I neared graduation, it became obvious that I could do that in Union. Monroe County had only three lawyers at the time, and it appeared to me that there was room for another one."

Later that year, the Smiths moved here and he began his practice. Then his interest in religion began to develop.

"I became interested in religion in sort of an indirect way through some friends. I'd been an agnostic since I was a teenager. I hadn't been in a church in probably 10 years and never thought I'd ever be in one again. But I became interested in various theological questions and started doing a lot of reading."

Smith took training courses for Episcopal lay leaders and started commuting to Roanoke College to study philosophy. The All Saints Episcopal Church here, which has about 25 members was served then by a circuit pastor.

"I was encouraged to act as the lay minister, which I did," Smith said.

SMITH BEGAN studying for the priesthood, and was ordained last February.

Meanwhile, he practiced law in Monroe County, and in 1970 was named lawyer for the state's Department of Highways, for the district encompassing Fayette, Nicholas, Greenbrier, Summers and Monroe counties.

Smith, who took over as prosecutor in January of this year considers himself "hardline" when it comes to law and order.

"I believe very much that an ordered society is one of God's great gifts to the human creature," he said. "St. Paul talked about that at great length. I feel that a lack of ordered society is chaos, and that is Satan's work."

As to his many duties, Smith, says, "if I change in any way, it probably would be to go into the church full time."

Police kills bear in Tennessee city

The bear was first reported by a motorist who called police headquarters and said, "You're not going to believe this, but. . ."

Officials said they had no idea where the bear came from or how it got here.

Opening lead - queen of clubs.

The principle of covering an honor with an honor is cited with reverence from Walla Walla to Dnepropetrovsk, but the fact is that this rule is not quite as simple as it sounds.

Thus, it is surely correct to cover with the king if declarer leads the jack from the J-3-2 facing the A-Q-4. Covering with the king holds declarer to two tricks instead of the three he would make if the jack were ducked.

But it would be wrong to cover if you had the K-x-x and declarer led the jack from dummy's J-10-4 toward his A-6-5. He would make two tricks if you covered but only one if you ducked.

As a matter of fact, the best rule to follow is to cover an honor if it can gain a trick, and not cover if it can cost a trick.

This advice may not be particularly helpful — for it tells you to use your head instead of a rigid formula — but that is the kind of game bridge is, and if you find the rule too tantalizing you can always switch to canasta.

Today's hand is an extension of the principle and demonstrates the underlying theory. South is in three spades and West leads the queen of clubs, which wins.

When West shifts to a diamond, declarer goes up with the queen and returns the nine of trumps. If East ducks, so does South and, as a result, makes three spades.

But if East covers the nine with the jack — as he should to cater to the possibility of West's having four spades that include the eight and a high honor — South goes down one. The nine in this case is treated as an honor, and East covers because the play cannot cost him a trick but may gain him one.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Don't Shake the Baby!

My daughter-in-law has a habit of shaking her six-month old baby so violently in the carriage that I worry that she might injure the child.

She says this is how she can get the baby to fall asleep.

I don't want to sound like a mother-in-law, but I am concerned.

Mrs. J.A.S., Ga.

Dear Mrs. S.:

You do, indeed, have a right to question the good judgment of shaking a child too vehemently.

It is common practice in some societies do this as a menans of lulling a child, stopping it from crying, or to "correct" tantrums.

Recently I came across an interesting article written by Dr. John Caffey, of the University pf Pittsburgh School of Medicine. He evinced real concern that too violent shaking of an infant might be responsible for damage to the neck musceles, and even to the brain, of an infant.

He says, with great wisdom, "A baby is not a rattle" and that "parents must be alerted that the danger period for most infants is the first year of life, particularly the first six months, when the brain is still soft and immature. At this age the baby's head is heavy and his neck musceles are weak. Shaking produces a whiplash action that bumps the brain against the side of the skull."

Dr. Caffee thinks a nationwide educational program should be started to teach parents that shaking infants too emphatically is hazardous.

I wish I could nominate you as first president of the organization!

I heard a food authority say that we can eat all the eggs and cholesterol we want as long as they contain lecithin.

Every time such information comes around my husband jumps on the bandwagon and says, "Now, you see I can eat bacon and eggs as often as I want to without being nagged."

Mrs. S.R.L.W.V.

Dear Mrs. R.:

Just keep on nagging him despite these reports. I must confess I am tired of the dogmatic authority with which some untrained people give out such irresponsible advice.

The fact is the presence or absence of lecithin in high cholesterol foods does not alter the potential danger to the blood vessels of your husband.

Self-styled nutritionists with a smattering of knowledge and a great distortion of scientific truths impose encyclopedic ignorance on the gullible.

Always someone can find an "authority" to help him maintain his bad eating habits and give him a temporary feeling of security.

It is not unlike the nonsense that "calories don't count" or that alcohol can be consumed in a limitless quantity to satisfy hunger and help to lose weight.

I am sure you've heard that nonsense, too.

Lecithin is a fatty substance of a group known as "phospholipins." It cannot spare the blood vessels from being narrowed in people who have high cholesterol levels.

Continue to limit your husband's bacon and eggs according to your doctor's suggestion, rather than follow every newfangled diet fad that comes along.

Marty has just been having a ball with the new POLAROID SX-70 camera. This new POLAROID SX-70 is something else. No, it's not like any of the Polaroid cameras that have been on the market before. First off, the SX-70 is a single lens reflex — how about that? There are over 200 transistors in the thing, and a little 12,000 r.p.m. motor to do the work for you. I'm most impressed by the quality of the pix. The four-element lens system has something to do with that. This camera is for the research man, the engineer, the technically minded person that wants sharpness, true colors and flexability. This camera has a big place in today's world. The ads you see on the thing will stress the fact that it's a fun camera. Those ads do this camera an injustice; 'cause, you see, it's much more than that. This is NOT just another Polaroid camera. This one has much more.

If you already have a POLAROID SX-70 and have hunted for film, hunt no more! We have it at Pensyl's. And if you haven't seen one yet and want to see how one works, drop in and we'll see if we can get it away from Marty long enough to shoot a shot with it.

Has Watergate got you confused? We have some books here in stock that will go a long way toward clarifying some of the confusion. Many of the knowledgeable people we've talked to recently seem to put much stock in the Paul Scott column in the June 20 issue of THE REVIEW OF THE NEWS. There seems to be no doubt that the Senate Watergate Hearings are a sideshow to one of the slickest transfers of political power in the history of the United States. Just consider the Rockefeller angle and see if it doesn't start to add up.

We'll see you at the Fair.

Fayette to grow, but only slightly, projections show

Moderate population growth is projected for Fayette County between now and the year 2000, but 15 of the 41 counties in central, southern and southeastern Ohio are expected to have fewer people at the turn of the century than they did in 1970.

The Fayette County projection indicates an increase from 25,500 to 27,000 within the next 27 years.

Meanwhile, Greene County is expected to almost double its population by 2000, and Franklin County should grow by nearly half a million to displace Hamilton County as the second most populous county in the state. Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) will maintain its first-place position.

THE FORECASTS are made in a preliminary report on projections made by the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development.

The department said Ohio's rate of population growth will slow from 10.5 per cent between 1970 and 1980 to 8.2 per cent between 1980 and 1990 and to 6.5 per cent between 1990 and 2000.

Counties the report says will drop in population, their 1970 populations (in thousands), and their projected 2000 population:

Logan, from 35.1 in 1970 to 32 in 2000; Hardin 30.8 to 28; Wyandot, 21.8 to 21; Gallia, 25.2 to 21; Highland, 29 to 25; Jackson, 27.2 to 22; Ross, 61.2 to 51; Scioto, 77 to 60; Hocking, 20.3 to 16; Meigs, 19.8 to 14; Morgan, 12.4 to 9; Noble, 10.4 to 8; Perry, 27.4 to 21; Coshocton, 33.5 to 26; Muskingum, 77.8 to 63.

COUNTIES to grow between 1970 to 2000 will be:

Clinton, 31.5 to 50; Clark, 157.1 to 230; Greene, 125.1 to 240; Champaign, 30.5 to 38; Crawford, 50.4 to 59; Marion, 64.7 to 95; Ashland, 43.3 to 60; Knox, 41.8 to 44; Morrow, 21.3 to 24; Richland, 130 to 160; Delaware, 42.9 to 70.

Fairfield, 73.3 to 117; Fayette, 25.5 to 27; Franklin, 833.2 to 1,290; Licking, 107.8 to 160; Madison, 28.3 to 40; Pickaway, 40.1 to 65; Union, 23.8 to 35; Lawrence, 56.9 to 60; Pike, 19.1 to 20; Vinton, 9.4 to 10.

Athens, 55.8 to 70; Washington, 57.2 to 70; Guernsey, 37.7 to 43; Holmes, 23 to 25; Tuscarawas, 77.2 to 87.

VFW post draws suspension of liquor license

Two 21-day permit suspensions have been imposed against O.E. Hardway Post No. 3762, Veterans of Foreign Wars, 110½ S. Fayette St., following hearings on four alleged law violations before the Ohio Department of Liquor Control.

The suspensions, to be effective concurrently from noon, Aug. 4, until noon, Aug. 25, were based on evidence that the post permitted Sunday consumption of malt liquor and or whiskey on Feb. 11 and allowed or conducted gaming or wagering (offering tip tickets for sale) on the same date.

Two other alleged violations (sale of liquor to a non-member and Sunday sale of liquor on Feb. 11) were dismissed by counsel for the director of liquor control who elected to proceed on the other two violations.

Zoning appeals set for review

Two petitions will be heard by the Washington Zoning Board of Appeals at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the conference room of the city offices.

James F. Frump, 1008 S. Hinde St., has filed a request for a variance to allow the establishment of a tropical fish retail business at his residence.

A request for permission to establish and erect an efficiency apartment complex at 224 W. Temple St., has been filed by Jess Gilmore. A variance is sought to construct the apartments with less than the minimum area requirements per unit and less than the minimum rear yard depth.

Tahitians note Bastille Day as atomic test draws near

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP) — The Tahitians are whooping it up at a week-long celebration of Bastille Day this week while their long-distance neighbors around the Pacific wait apprehensively for France to explode a nuclear bomb at the Mururoa atoll.

The islanders are celebrating July 14, the French national holiday, with an enthusiasm not seen in France. The celebration lasts a week and includes foot and dugout races, and dances by the Polynesian girls in their colorful sarongs.

Fewer tourists than usual are on hand. This is partly due to many airline flights being cancelled, particularly on the New Zealand and Australian airlines. They are boycotting French territory in protest against the nuclear weapon tests that are expected to begin any day now.

For most of the islanders, there has been little time to think about the tests on the atoll 850 miles southeast of Tahiti.

New Zealand has sent the frigate Otago into the 72-mile danger zone proclaimed around Mururoa by the French government, and a cabinet minister aboard the ship reported today that the start of the tests must have been delayed by technical problems.

"Conditions have been favorable for tests for quite a few days now," the minister Fraser Coleman, told the Melbourne Herald by radio-telephone. "We anticipate a considerable buildup of French activity before the tests, but so far we have seen only a few planes."

Ditch rates to continue

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners voted Monday to continue the ditch maintenance rates at the same level as in 1972. The figures receiving approval refer to the percentages of the original ditch projects.

The rates are: Waddle Ditch, 10 per cent; Sugar Creek, 3; Persinger Ditch, 2, and Anders, Brock, Camp Run, Janes and Maple Grove ditches, 5.

Funds are collected each year to maintain the ditches.

Springboro bank robbed by trio

SPRINGBORO, Ohio (AP) — Police said FBI officials are investigating the $17,870 armed robbery of a bank here Monday morning.

Police said they have found what they believe to be the abandoned getaway car along a road in Montgomery County. They are searching the auto for clues. The car had Florida license plates.

Springboro Police Chief Carl Hirschbach said two persons entered the bank while a third waited in the car. He later pursued the car down Interstate 75, but did not catch it.

Testimony continues in heroin trial here

The prosecution's first and primary witness, Bate LeMaster, 31, took the stand Monday afternoon to testify in the trial of Tommy Lee James, 36, a Lima resident charged with selling heroin.

LeMaster, allegedly known heroin user, in the Lima area, is said to have been offered a deal by narcotics agents while serving time for using heroin. Allegedly, his sentence was suspended when he agreed to work with agents as an informer, purchasing heroin and other drugs from suspected Lima dealers.

Assistant Alley County Prosecutor James King, assisted by Fayette County Prosecutor Otis Hess, questioned LeMaster for more than an hour before court was adjourned at 4:30 p m. The prosecution continued the questioning of the witness when court resumed this morning.

LEMASTER testified that, under the direction of narcotics agents, he took marked money to purchase heroin from James in October, 1972. He said that he made contact with the defendant the morning of Oct. 2 and purchased $70 worth of the drug. After requesting a larger amount, James allegedly said that his supply was low but that he was going to Detroit that day to make a purchase.

LeMaster stated that he returned that night to purchase another $100 worth, again with marked money. According to LeMaster, he turned in part of the heroin from the morning deal and all of the heroin purchased that night. The heroin not turned in, LeMaster said, was used by himself and two female companions. He contended that the girls, one of which was his girlfriend, did not know he was working with the police and would have been very suspicious if he had purchased heroin without using it.

IT TOOK four hours yesterday to seat a jury of seven men, five women, and a woman alternate. Two prospective jurors were discharged when they said that racial aspects of the case might prejudice them against the defendant.

In his opening statements, the defense attorney, David Bowers, contended that LeMaster had fabricated his testimony to spite James for going out with his girlfriend while he was in jail.

Kiwanis Club hears reports

The Kiwanis Club met Monday evening with President Gerald Wheat presiding. It was board meeting night and no program was presented.

A Ladies Night was planned for July 30 with Mrs. Larry Loyd presenting a program on "Life in South America."

Jim Eakins was selected chairman of the annual ice cream social which will be held on the Courthouse lawn on Friday, Aug. 3.

Trucker unhurt as rig upsets

A Columbus truck driver escaped injury Tuesday morning when his truck, loaded with 5,000 pounds of packaged meats, overturned in a ditch on CCC Highway-E, near Matthews Road.

Only minor damage was listed in two mishaps investigated Monday afternoon by city police.

Cars driven by Gayle A. Rulon, 16, of 1122 Nelson Place, and Sandra K. Minzler, 20, of 703 Broadway, were involved in a minor collision on the Washington Square lot at 11:02 p.m. There was minor damage to the cars.

Nixon recordings appear legal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal law presents no barrier for a president who wants to tap his own telephone or record what he says in his office.

Former White House aide Alexander P. Butterfield told the Senate Watergate committee Monday that President Nixon does just that.

Anyone else who went about it in a similar manner, however, would at least be in trouble with the telephone company.

Fred Langbein, a spokesman for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co., which serves the White House, said he's not sure what action the firm will take following the disclosure, but "I think you can be certain ... that we won't disconnect the service."

Butterfield, former deputy assistant to the President, testified that Nixon's office telephone calls and conversations are fully and automatically recorded with his knowledge and consent by the Secret Service.

It's done for historical purposes, Butterfield said.

Samuel Dash, chief majority counsel for the committee, said the White House would be asked for tapes of specific meetings to aid the committee's efforts to find out who knew what and when about the Watergate scandal.

Asked about the propriety of such recordings under federal law, a spokesman for the Justice Department pointed to the 1968 Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act, specifically a section dealing with the interception by an individual of his own conversation, on the telephone and otherwise.

The section permits such interception as long as the purpose is not a criminal or other injurious act.

Professor Herman Schwartz of the State University of New York at Buffalo Law School, author of a recent American Civil Liberties Union wiretapping study, said the operation described by Butterfield appeared to be within the law.

In a telephone interview, Schwartz said unannounced recording can be considered unethical. He noted that a New York Bar group has condemned the recording by a lawyer of conversations with colleagues.

Under questioning, Butterfield said callers and visitors were not warned that their conversations would be recorded.

The absence of a warning that the telephone conversation is being recorded runs afoul of a telephone company tariff. Tariffs are the rules and regulations under which telephone service is supplied, as approved by the government agency regulating the service.

Tariffs universally require a warning "beep" every 15 seconds to indicate a recording is being made. No beeps are heard on presidential calls according to Butterfield's testimony.

Coup in Asia

Afghanistan ousts king for republic

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Radio Kabul announced today that Afghanistan has been proclaimed a republic, apparently ousting King Mohammed Zahir Shah.

A spokesman at the Afghan Embassy in London said he understood the coup in the Central Asian nation was bloodless.

The 59-year-old king went to Italy 10 days ago for medical treatment. A spokesman for his embassy in Rome said he was still in Italy but declined to say where.

The broadcast from the Afghan government radio said the republic was proclaimed by a former prime minister and relative of the royal family, Gen. Mohammed Daud Khan.

The broadcast said the deposed regime was "false" and led the country to "near bankruptcy." The general and his colleagues promised to lead Afghanistan toward real democracy and neutrality, the broadcast added.

Daud, who was prime minister in 1953, said in another broadcast that the former "corrupt system" of government "no longer exists and the new system replacing it is the republican system which is in accord with the genuine spirit of Islam."

Daud spoke in Pushtu, the Afghan national language.

None of the Kabul broadcasts made any mention of the king, who took the throne in 1933 at the age of 19 after the assassination of his father.

Afghanistan has been suffering from drought for three years resulting in widespread famine and an estimated 80,000 deaths, or one out of every 10 persons in the central province of Ghor and surrounding areas.

Parliament last December ousted Prime Minister Abdul Zahir and his cabinet on a vote of no confidence, charging them with failure to deal effectively with the famine. Abdul Zahir was replaced by his foreign minister, Dr. Musa Shafiq, a 40-year-old graduate of the Columbia University Law School and one of the drafters of the 1964 constitution.

It was Shafiq's government that was overthrown by the coup.

Afghanistan is strategically located, with Pakistan, the Soviet Union, China and Iran on its borders.

It has an area of 250,000 square miles, much of it mountainous, with a population of 13.6 million, 2.5 million of them nomadic tribesmen.

Kabul is the capital.

Probers to seek secret Nixon recordings

John Dean didn't tell all, Kalmbach says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Herbert W. Kalmbach testified today that in enlisting him to raise money for the seven original Watergate defendants, former White House counsel John W. Dean III did not tell him that the case could lead to trouble for President Nixon.

Kalmbach returned to the Senate's televised Watergate hearings before an investigating committee preparing to ask for tape recordings of Nixon's conversations with key figures in the scandal.

Kalmbach, Nixon's former personal lawyer, differed with Dean's account of the way he was recruited to raise money for the Watergate defendants.

Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., read Dean's earlier testimony, in which the former White House lawyer said he had told Kalmbach on June 29, 1972, virtually everything he knew about the origins of the Watergate wiretapping. Dean had testified that he expressed concern "this could lead right to the President."

Kalmbach said he did not recall it that way. "My recollection of that conversation was simply that he indicated that he wished me, he used the word again 'we,' I was being asked to raise funds for the legal defense of these people and for the support of the families," he testified.

Kalmbach also said he saw nothing illegal about his fund-raising at the time. But he said he and former White House secret agent Anthony Ulasewicz used public telephones when discussing the money, for fear that their conversations might be overheard on wiretaps.

"Who did you think might have tapped you?" Montoya asked.

"We just didn't know," Kalmbach said.

He said he had met Ulasewicz only two or three times before agreeing to use him to carry the secret funds for the Watergate wiretappers. Kalmbach said he trusted Ulasewicz to handle the sensitive task because he knew the former New York City policeman had carried out assignments for the White House over a number of years.

Kalmbach said he didn't know what those assignments were, even though others have testified that Kalmbach's law office handled Ulasewicz's salary.

Kalmbach said that although he saw nothing improper about the fund-raising at the time, "in retrospect ... I feel it was something I should not have been involved in."

Kalmbach, who says he had only four or five telephone conversations with Nixon since 1969, said under questioning that he had a direct telephone line to the President from his California home.

"I probably have talked to him on that phone once or twice," he said.

He said he had the direct line in 1970 or 1971.

Kalmbach, a Californian, testified Monday that at the request of Dean and former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman, he raised some $220,000 in cash for the Watergate defendants in the three months after the June 17, 1972, break-in at Democratic Party headquarters.

But Kalmbach's testimony linking one of Nixon's closest aides to the cover-up scheme was overshadowed even before the lawyer took the stand by the tantalizing revelation that tape recorders might be able to answer the committee's ultimate questions:

What did the President know, and when did he know it?

Alexander P. Butterfield, a former presidential assistant now head of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) and scheduled to leave today on a trade mission to Moscow, told the panel the President's offices and telephones were bugged.

Butterfield said he had the Secret Service install sophisticated electronic eavesdropping equipment with the President's knowledge, but that only a handful of people knew about the taping. He said the tapes were to be used for a history of the Nixon White House years.

The White House confirmed the recording system has been in operation since the spring of 1971, preserving all the President's conversations in his Oval Office, Executive Office Building

Price freeze hurts packers, brings layoffs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio meat processors say President Nixon's freeze on food prices is leaving them out in the cold.

"The more we slaughter, the more we lose. It's a hell of a situation to be in," said Ed Wilke, president of the Ohio Packing Co. of Columbus

"Our price ceilings are too low for what we have to pay for raw materials. We didn't slaughter a hoof most of last week. We're just doing enough to try to keep our people."

"We think the farmers are withholding livestock from the market because of the government's indecision over what to do about its disasterous price freeze. The farmers think the government may lift the freeze any minute, and then they'll be able to ask even higher prices for their stock," Waldock said.

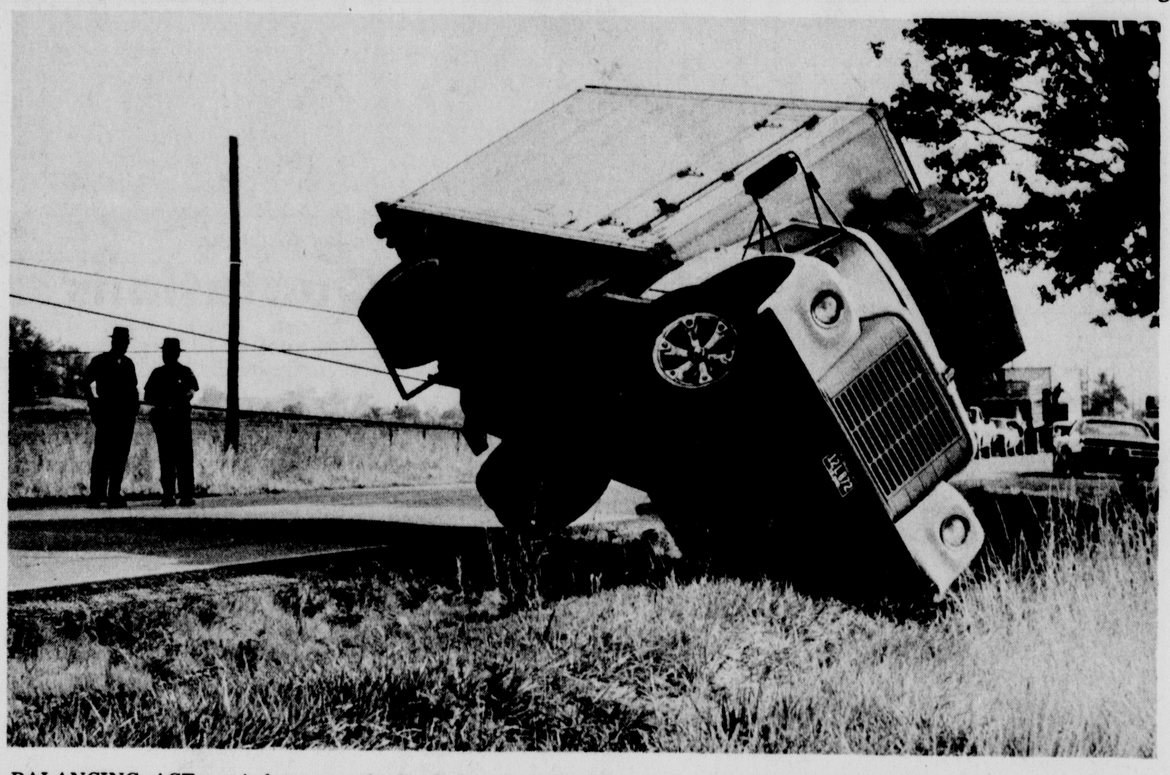

Slaughter was off 17 per cent instead of up 2 per cent as it should have been, Waldock added. He said the company would have to begin laying employes off if the trend continued.

The Collins Co. serves wholesalers in Ohio and the eastern U.S., grossing about $75 million in annual sales, he said.

"We are in the process of phasing out our plant at Bloomington, Ill.," said John Richardson, president of the Sugarcreek Packing Co. of Washington Court House.

"Slicing at our Ohio plant will end this Friday unless something happens to permit us to buy raw materials and pass them along to our customers without taking a loss.

"We have not laid off anyone in Ohio, yet, but we are shortening orders and working minimum guaranteed hours, hoping to weather the storm until the government makes a decision on Phase 4."

BALANCING ACT — A large truck, loaded with 5,000 pounds of packaged meat, is set upright by a wrecker after it overturned on CCC Highway-E, just west of Matthews Road Tuesday morning. Ohio assembly eyes major items

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House is expected to vote today on major bills revising state election and workmen's compensation laws as the rush begins toward an expected legislative adjournment date of Aug. 1.

Speaker A.G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, said the lawmakers will work Monday and Friday of next week and again on Monday, July 30 in an attempt to end the session which started New Year's Day. Weekly sessions usually are held Tuesday through Thursday.

The workmen's compensation bill, by Rep. J. Leonard Camera, D-53 Lorain, makes an important series of revisions in present law and increases maximum benefits to two-thirds of the average statewide weekly wage.

Camera called the measure "a very delicate balance" between employer and labor groups and asserted that efforts to revise it on the floor "could upset that balance." The measure was considered in his Agriculture, Commerce, & Labor Committee off and on for about three months.

It still must be considered by the Senate.

Also among 10 bills up for House consideration were two by Rep. Don S. Maddux, D-90 Lancaster, in the field of election law reform.

One would move Ohio's primary elections from May to June in presidential election years and to September in nonpresidential years.

The other would reduce the state voter residency requirement from six months to 30 days—the same that now applied to federal elections.

Senators had a half dozen routine measures on an afternoon floor calendar, but their committees planned to deal with a number of matters of statewide interest.

The Ways & Means Committee called for a first hearing on a House-approved measure setting up a five-member commission to create and begin operation of a state lottery. Also before the panel is another House bill granting tax exemptions on equipment used by industries to curb noise pollution.

House and Senate conferees plan to meet early this week in an effort to work out an agreement on a long delayed constitutional resolution that

Air controllers yield to bees

ABBOTSFORD, B.C. (AP) — Air traffic controllers have moved back into their quarters at the Abbotsford Airport after a swarm of bees spent the weekend inside. The controllers were forced to flee the building and conduct operations from a mobile unit.

The bees, estimated at somewhere between 700 and 1,000, entered the controllers' quarters through a vent Saturday.

An exterminator was called in Monday and the problem was taken care of with no damage to any of the equipment.

Alaska pipeline OKd by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today approved 49-48 a bill designed to kill a court suit blocking construction of the trans-Alaska oil pipeline.

The amendment by Sens. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, and Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, won approval despite intensive lobbying from environmental organizations opposed to the pipeline.

It cleared the way for passage of the Alaska pipeline bill designed to speed development of the North Slope oil fields.

The Stevens-Gravel amendment attempts to substitute the judgment of Congress for the court's in declaring the federal government gave sufficient consideration to an alternative pipeline route through Canada in preparing an environmental impact statement.

Stevens said the amendment would permit Congress to substitute its judgment for that of the courts in deciding whether the federal government met its legal obligations in considering alternative pipeline routes for an environmental impact statement.

A suit filed by the Wilderness Society and other environmental organizations contends the government did not give sufficient consideration to an alternative pipeline route through the Mackenzie River valley of Canada.

The suit has delayed pipeline construction for more than three years.

In a speech on the Senate floor, another sponsor, Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, cited polls which he said indicated the great majority of Americans want construction of the pipeline to begin immediately, to help alleviate the energy crisis.

He also said safeguards had been established to protect the environment from oil spills.

Those opposed to the Alaska pipeline route fear widespread oil spills and damage to the fragile Arctic tundra and north west coast.

The pipeline is designed to run 788 miles from Prudhoe Bay on the North Slope to Valdez on southern coast.

Deny LBJ taped conversations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Secret Service and old White House friends of Lyndon B. Johnson have disputed claims by the Nixon administration that LBJ used secret tape recorders in his official duties.

Both groups say the Nixon administration simply got its wires crossed Monday when it tried to lay at Johnson's feet the precedent for the wholesale and surreptitious taping of presidential conversations.

The exchanges were triggered by the surprise testimony before the Senate Watergate committee of former Nixon aide Alexander P. Butterfield. He disclosed that since early 1971, virtually all of Nixon's White House calls, as well as face-to-face conversations, were recorded automatically—and without warning to the other party.

Thanks to the complicated electronic gadgetry controlled by the Secret Service, even the President's conversations in his Executive Office Building hideaway and the retreat at Camp David, Md., were monitored, "for historical purposes," Butterfield said.

The Secret Service quickly acknowledged that it had installed and operates the network. Another confirmation came from presidential counsel J. Fred Buzhardt, who added: "This system ... is similar to that employed by the last administration."

But at the reference to Johnson, the Secret Service suddenly declared itself at odds with Nixon. "All I can say is that it was not done," a spokesman said.

While the spokesman emphasized that he could speak only for the Secret Service, a number of White House associates of Johnson insisted that no one else had done it either.

While tape recorders were sometimes used for presidential or other high-level conversations, "they were equipped with beepers and we always told the party on the other end he was being recorded," Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla., said.

Jones, a one-time appointments secretary to Johnson, also said, "they were seldom used at all."

Joseph A. Califano Jr., Johnson's domestic affairs counsel, said "Johnson was so wild on the subject of bugging and eavesdropping, I just don't believe he'd do it.

"Certainly there were no bugs around the offices. And as for phone conversations, I know of only one case in which the President turned on a recorder, and that was during the Six Day War of 1967. He made a call to one of the embassies—I don't remember which one— and wanted to make certain there was no misunderstanding of the U.S. position," Califano said.

Harry Middleton, director of the LBJ Library in Austin, Tex., confirmed through a spokesman that some recorded telephone conversations were on file at the library, as well as transcripts of others, which had been taken in shorthand by a secretary who came in on the line.

African drought could bring starvation

By LARRY HEINZERLING
Associated Press Writer

OUAGADOUGOU, Upper Volta (AP) — Tens of thousands of tons of food, seed and medicine from around the world are pouring into droughtstricken West Africa in a race against mass starvation and death.

Widespread hunger and drastic food shortages amounting to near famine still plague the six worst-hit nations south of the Sahara Desert. Some 24 million persons live in the region.

Reports of death from outbreaks of measles and cholera are increasing in the sun-baked zone, which runs from Mauritania and Senegal through Mali, Upper Volta, Niger and Chad.

So far, about 200,000 tons of food has been shipped from abroad. The dust bowl regions in the so-called "famine belt" need about 500,000 tons this year.

The threat of starvation will grow as the rainy season, now getting under way, cuts off dirt roads linking rural areas to major towns.

"The worst is yet to come," warns an American Aid official in Dakar, Senegal. "We have to keep feeding them until this year's harvest in the fall."

However, if the five-year dry spell persists and this year's rains are poor, there will be little or no harvest.

Relief officials say the drought threatens the lives of millions and drastically has disrupted rural economies of some of the world's most impoverished nations.

Abandoned villages and the scattered carcasses of cattle testify to a mass migration of people, many of them desert nomads, 'fleeing south to the lusher coastal areas.

While exact figures are not available, vast areas of crops have been wiped out; millions of cattle, goats and sheep have perished; and thousands of village wells and lakes—even urban supplies—have dried up.

Some foreign diplomats are upset by what they think is the sometimes lethargic approach taken by some African governments in getting relief programs under way.

"We couldn't do a thing until we were asked to help," complained one diplomat in Senegal. He says months were wasted trying to convince authorities that something should be done.

In Mali and Upper Volta, as well as Senegal, there also have been reports that tribal considerations are affecting distribution of relief supplies.

It is also a matter of class, according to diplomats, who say the elite in the urban areas are not overly concerned about the fate of the rural peasantry.

Nevertheless, as the crisis has grown, African governments have become more concerned and involved in relief operations.

Meanwhile, food supplies— mostly cereals—and medicine for vaccinations and to treat dehydration and malnutrition are arriving from abroad.

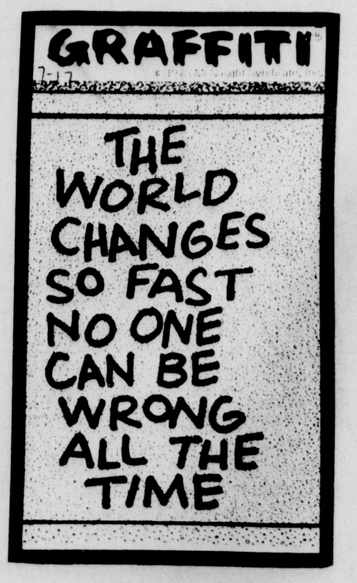

Much of it is being carried from coastal ports in Cameroon, Nigeria, Dahomey, Togo, Ghana, Ivory Coast, Liberia and Senegal by road and rail to the interior.

The most dramatic relief effort has been the international airlift operated by the United States, Canada, several European nations and the Soviet Union.

Much of the food is coming from the United States, but other major donors include the Scandinavian countries, China and some of the 10 nations of the European Common Market.

An official of the U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO) said, "The object is to stockpile as much as possible before rain cuts them off from the rest of the world."

Other nations participating in relief operations are Britain, West Germany, Spain, Italy, the Netherlands and Spain. They are supplying food or transportation.

Deaths, Funerals

Mrs. Uriah Sheetz

Services for Mrs. Letha Jane Sheetz, 69, wife of Uriah Sheetz, 1250 Rawlings St., will be held at 1 p.m. Wednesday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Don Baker of First Christian Church officiating. Burial will be in Washington Cemetery.

Mrs. Sheetz, a member of the United Brethren Church in Greenfield, died at 2 p.m. Monday in Memorial Hospital where she had been a patient only four hours. Born in Cookville, Tenn., she moved to Washington C.H. 15 years ago from Highland County.

Surviving, besides her husband, are two sons, Warren E. McBroom, of Hillsboro, and Albert McBroom of Mississippi; two stepsons, David Sheetz, of Indiana, and Glenn Sheetz, of Lorain; three grandchildren; five step-grandchildren and four great-grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. Molly Call of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Clara Waldon of Hartzel, Ala., and Mrs. Myrtle Bailey of Decatur, Ala., and a brother, Edward Rittenberry of Auburn, Ky.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 4 until 9 p.m. Tuesday and on Wednesday until time for the service.

Robert L. Vorhees

MOUNT STERLING — Services for Robert L. Vorhees, 44, of Grove City, will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Porter Funeral Home with the Rev. Robert McNeely officiating.

Mr. Vorhees, an employe of Fisher Body in Columbus, died Sunday in Riverside Hospital, Columbus, where he had been a patient one week. A native of Logan, his parents were the late Ernest and Elizabeth Vorhees.

Surviving is his ex-wife Mrs. Mary Vorhees, Rt. 2, Williamsport; a son, Robbie L., 15, and a daughter, Shelley Ann, 5, both at home; and a sister, Penny Louise Vorhees, address unknown.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. Wednesday. Burial will be in Pleasant Cemetery.

OSCAR L. VANDERGRIFF — Services for Oscar L. Vandergriff, 60, of 524 Third St., were held at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with the Rev. Shelie Bondurant, of Baltimore, officiating. Mr. Vandergriff, a retired employe of the National Cash Register Co., died Friday.

The flag which draped the casket of the World War II veteran was folded by Walter Wilson and Ben Jamison of Burnett-Ducey Post, VFW, and was presented to Mrs. Vandergriff.

WILLIAM A. ARMBRUST — Masonic services will be conducted by Lodge No. 107 at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home for William A. (Gus) Armbrust, 84, of Lewis Rd. Mr. Armbrust died Monday.

Heat taken from economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration economists are cheered by new government statistics that show the heat may be out of the U.S. business boom, which could make it easier to slow inflation.

The latest cause of optimism was the three-tenths of one per cent increase in the nation's industrial production in June, down from a seven-tenths of one per cent increase in May.

The Federal Reserve Board, which released the production index Monday, noted that production of consumer goods declined by seven-tenths of one per cent during the month.

"It's clear that a slowdown in growth has started," said Edgar R. Fiedler, assistant secretary of the treasury for economic policy.

The declining growth rate, if sustained, may help the administration's Phase 4 anti-inflation program, expected to be announced later this week.

Shultz said Monday the program lacked only final decision and approval by the President.

Shultz also cited evidence the growth rate of the economy is slowing and indicated this could help ease inflationary pressures by reducing demand for raw materials.

Shultz said the second quarter report on the country's Gross National Product, due Thursday, should show a decline in real economic growth.

The first quarter GNP—the nation's total output of goods and services—showed the economy increased at a real rate of about 8 per cent in the first quarter, which brought expressions of concern from economists who warned the economy might be overheating.

Deny Kissinger easing Rogers out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Suggestions that White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger is trying to ease Secretary of State William P. Rogers out of office have been denied by a presidential spokesman.

"Every time he has been asked about the future, Dr. Kissinger has said he is very happy with his job. I am certain that he still is," said the spokesman.

Asked to comment on a Chicago Daily News story that Kissinger is the source of reports that he will replace Rogers, the spokesman said: "It just isn't true."

STRUGGLE FOR LIFE — Fireman Carmine Viggiano applies mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to 4-year-old James O'Neill during an early-morning fire at Yonkers N.Y. The child is hospitalized in fair condition.

Top foreign officials said put on tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany and Prime Minister Indira Ghandhi of India are among the world leaders who conferred with President Nixon at a time when listening devices were in use in his office.

Others included Prime Minister Edward Heath of Britain, King Hussein of Jordan, King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, Prime Minister Golda Meir of Israel and President Tito of Yugoslavia.

Alexander P. Butterfield, a former presidential aide, told the Senate Watergate committee Monday that Nixon had the devices installed in his offices at the White House, at the Executive Office Building across the street and at his cabin at Camp David, Md.

Brezhnev, Brandt, Mrs. Gandhi, Heath, Hussein, Faisal, Mrs. Meir and Tito all talked with Nixon in his office in visits during the past two years.

The President also conferred during that period with Prime Ministers John Lynch of Ireland, Keith Holyoake of New Zealand, Souvanna Phouma of Laos, William McMahon of Australia, Pierre Trudeau of Canada, Presidents Emilio Medici of Brazil, Luis Echeverria of Mexico, Emperor Haile Selasie of Ethopia and then prime minister Giulio Andreotti of Italy, among others.

Asked whether the conversations of foreign leaders who conferred with the President had been recorded, and whether they had been advised of it, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler would not comment.

Ohio Assembly

would pay a bonus of up to $500 to Ohio's Vietnam War veterans, depending on length of service.

House Speaker Pro Tem Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, the main sponsor and a member of the conference committee, said he expects an agreement providing that the bonds to pay the bonus will be retired from the state's general revenue fund.

Riffe and other Democrats balked earlier at Republican insistence that the bonus bonds be retired from the general fund, but now are reported in "general agreement" that with proceeds from a state lottery going into the fund, the money will be available.

If approved by both chambers, the bonus would be placed on the November election ballot.

A floor vote could come in the House later this week on a bill hiking the pay of the state's elected officials, including judges, as well as that of members of the General Assembly. The bill was amended in the House Judiciary Committee last week to include a boost for legislators from $14,000 to $17,500 a year.

Food stamp disputes mark action on house farm bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House was set to settle Food Stamp disputes today after dramatically cutting cotton out of the farm bill and quietly voting to give Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz vast new power over food prices.

Key tests were expected on amendments that would ban Food Stamps for strikers and would eliminate proposed new restrictions on eligibility.

A new coalition sought to hold on long enough to push the final package bill to victory during a fifth day of action on the House floor.

The prime maneuver came Monday as the House voted 208 to 190 to strip cotton programs from its version of the legislation.

This step was intended to produce a bill that would give the House a better bargaining position at a later conference with the Senate. The Senate-passed version of the farm and food program bill includes cotton.

Then, by voice vote without debate among a small number of congressmen on the floor, the House approved a food price amendment by Rep. Harold V. Froehlich, R-Wis., covering both the 60-day price freeze and any new economic controls in the President's upcoming Phase 4.

This amendment would require Nixon to adjust the maximum price that may be charged for any farm products when Butz determines that the current price freeze or future price controls will produce a supply shortage and there is no other way to boost supply.

It defines these products as meat, poultry, vegetables, fruit and all other farm commodities. Products are covered "at any point in the distribution chain." Froehlich said the amendment is necessary because consumers soon will find it difficult to buy many products since production costs have gone up faster than the cost of living.

Stock list up slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices climbed sharply higher today in heavy trading, then dipped slightly, with analysts saying that investors were encouraged by Monday's rally and a surge of favorable earnings reports.

The Dow Jones blue chip average at mid-day was up 5.57 to 903.15. Advancing issues held a 873-to-346 lead over declines.

On the Amex, today's noon price-change index was up 0.09 at 22.86. Volume leader, Champion Homes, was ahead ⅛ at 6⅞.

Texas Utilities, unchanged at 31, led the Big Board. Signal Companies, up ¼ at 19, and Ramada Inns, up ¼ at 10⅛, were also active. First National City was ahead 1⅛ to 44⅜, apparently on a favorable earnings report released today.

Krogh takes 5th Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide Egil Krogh Jr. refused to tell a House subcommittee today what he knows about the 1971 burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Chairman Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., said Krogh refused to answer all questions on grounds of the Constitution's Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination except for details on his employment before 1968.

Krogh has publicly taken "full responsibility" for the Sept. 3, 1971, break-in of Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office as part of a probe into the Pentagon Papers leak to the press.

Krogh headed the so-called White House "plumbers" unit set up to find the source of news leaks.

Nixon better, plans talks on Phase 4

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, feeling improved after a restful night, scheduled decision-making meetings today on his Phase 4 economic program with Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Nixon set up a morning appointment with Shultz, one of his principal economic advisers, and with White House counselors Melvin R. Laird and Bryce N. Harlow.

The White House said Phase 4 also would be the principal topic at a 4 p.m. Nixon-Agnew meeting. The President and vice president have not talked since Nixon entered the Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital last Thursday.

The administration's new blueprint for wage-price restraints will be announced later this week, according to White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

Nixon had a fever of 99 degrees during the night but it had returned to normal by morning, the White House said today.

After dining Monday night on beef tenderloin, string beans, carrots and fettucini, the report said, "the President slept well throughout the night without difficulty."

The significance of the disclosure intrigued the fact-finding senators, who immediately put their staff to work preparing a formal request for the tapes they want to hear. It was understood that special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox also planned to ask for the appropriate tapes that can corroborate or discredit Dean, who swore Nixon knew of the coverup.

Samuel Dash, the Senate committee's chief counsel, said the staff would go over the official White House log of the President's meetings and telephone conversations—already turned over to the panel—and select the specific dates and times cited in the testimony of Dean and others.

Dash said that Nixon's earlier refusal to appear before the committee or turn over a broad range of Watergate-related presidential documents can hardly stand concerning the tapes. "It's late in the day for anybody to raise withholding that information," he said.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, however, refused to comment when asked whether the tapes would be made available.

A large high pressure system covering the northeast quarter of the nation and centered just to the north of Lake Ontario is giving Ohio its pleasant midsummer weather expected to continue until the latter part of the week.

The high pressure will drift eastward into New England by Wednesday morning with the affect in Ohio being a warming trend. Highs this afternoon will be in the low and mid 80s except close to Lake Erie where lake breezes will keep temperatures in the upper 70s.

Tonight's lows will be mainly in the 60s. Cloudiness will increase somewhat Wednesday especially in southern Ohio with temperatures for the most part in the 80s.

A low pressure system developing over the Central Plains today and Wednesday will push slowly eastward, bringing a threat of showers to Ohio for the end of the week.

There will be a chance of showers in Ohio Thursday through Saturday. Highs will be in the upper 70s and low 80s and lows will be in the 60s.

OBES back pay under study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Administrator William Garnes of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services said Monday his office has been considering a court suit to determine if the bureau should reimburse reinstated employes for back pay.

The Ohio Personnel Board of Review last week ordered the bureau to rehire 81 employes who were laid off because of a lack of funds. The board said the way in which the persons were removed was "unfair and unjust."

U.S. seeks North Viet help in learning fate of MIAs

SAIGON (AP) — The United States asked today whether North Vietnam intends to help it learn the fate of 1,300 Americans missing in the Indochina war and to help it recover the remains of those who died in captivity.

The North Vietnamese delegation to the joint military team investigating the missing failed to attend a meeting of the team today, and the U.S. delegation said this raised "serious questions about the intent of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam delegation to support the work of the four-party joint military team."

A North Vietnamese spokesman said the delegation did not attend because of "private inconvenience."

"I cannot at this time explain why it was privately inconvenient. You will learn about it later," the spokesman said.

The U.S. statement said the South Vietnamese delegation reported "the North Vietnamese were alleging internal problems as a pretext for creating obstacles for the work of the four-party joint military team."

The four-party joint military team has made almost no progress. A U.S. team has visited Hanoi twice but has been unable to make arrangements for the transfer of the remains of 23 American POWs buried in and near the North Vietnamese capital.

Flights between Saigon and Hanoi to continue these negotiations have been cancelled for the past five weeks because of North Vietnam's refusal to sign a safety certificate stating none of its representatives are carrying dangerous cargo.

9 housewives join fire department, hike efficiency

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Nine housewives have joined a county volunteer fire department and make up Northern California's first all-female fire crew.

Using a new 15-ton tanker fire engine and an antiquated 1946 pumper, the female fire fighters serve the Dry Creek-Loloya Fire Protection District around Mt. Veeder. The area is eight miles west of here.

The women have vastly improved the efficiency of the little fire department during 10 months of weekly drills, according to Norman Silver. He is Napa County's fire coordinator and volunteer department training officer.

"They're going to do a good job," he said. "They're very sharp and efficient and they have learned well."

Efficiency is all important in the 50-square mile hilly area which becomes explosively dry. Officials say it is almost certain to be hit with some fires this summer.

"This isn't women's lib," says Mrs. Joyce Bowen. "This is just common sense and being reasonable." She is one of the volunteers.

"The men are always at work during the week," added Bea Henke, whose husband is chairman of the volunteer firemen. "We started thinking that it would be absurd if someone's home burned down because there was no one to drive the trucks."

"The men weren't very dependable," Silver said. "They have other responsibilities. The gals have added a lot of stability to this department."

On one drill the women put out eight fires in a building donated for training purposes, Silver said.

"Then it was the men's turn," he said. "The fire got away from them and the place burned to the ground."

10-foot-long slot machine to have $1 million jackpot

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Would a gambler pump $10 into a one-armed bandit with a chance to win a $1 million jackpot? At odds of roughly 25 billion to one?

Nevada slot machine king Si Redd thinks so and is betting $150,000 on it.

Dubbed "Super Bertha," it will pay $1 million to the lucky $10 bettor who cranks up the right combination of symbols on its eight 20-character reels.

And if you don't feel like playing 10 Eisenhower dollars at once, the machine will pay lesser amounts of $100,000 or even $500,000 for the right combinations on smaller bets.

The payoffs will dwindle to a few dollars, depending on how much is bet and the symbols that show up on the reels.

Standing six feet tall and 10 feet long, the slot machine uses a five horsepower electric motor to power the 20-inch-wide, chain-driven reels.

Redd says he will have invested nearly $150,000 in designing and engineering the machine before it is put into play later this year. Several casinos are interested in housing "Super Bertha," and Redd expects to get his investment back in a year and a half.

Redd went to work on "Super Bertha" after watching the success of his 70 "Big Bertha" slot machines, six-foot-tall multireelers that require a dollar or more a pull.

Under the law of probability, the one particular winning combination will come up on "Super Bertha" once in 25 billion plays, Redd says. "But who's to know? On our first $5,000 machine, somebody hit it the first night."

Dollar continues plunge in Europe

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar dropped farther on Europe's exchanges today and dealers said its weakness was due to lack of support by government banks.

The dollar lost 4½ centimes in early trading in Paris, dropping to 4.02 francs.

The rate dropped to 2.33 marks in Frankfurt, a loss of three pfennigs, while the rate was 2.8225 Swiss francs in Zurich, a loss of 1¾ centimes.

In London, the British pound rose to $2.54925, a gain of just over a quarter of a cent.

The price of gold rose a dollar an ounce to $121 in Zurich and $1.25 to $121.25 in London.

The dollar staged a brief rally a week ago when the U. S. Federal Reserve Board and some of the European central banks came to its assistance with some token purchases of dollars. But when the banks halted even this symbolic buying Thursday, the dollar began weakening again.

Otmar Emminger, vice president of the West German central bank, today suggested that governments may start selling some of their stocks of monetary gold on the free market "in a relatively short time." He said this should siphon off speculative dollars from the currency market and increase the demand for the American currency.

Such sales of gold reserved by the central banks would mark the formal abrogation of the 1968 Washington Agreement that created a two-tier gold market. This "could come soon, possibly overnight," Emminger told the West German business newspaper, Hafdelsblatt.

Under the 1968 agreement, government banks continued to trade gold at an official price of $35. This was later increased to $42.22. The price on the free market, governed by supply and demand, has soared in the last five years.

The United States stopped redeeming dollars held by foreign governments with gold in August 1971, and that removed the foundation of the Washington Agreement, Emminger said.

Saxbe says energy crisis may bring future rationing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Sen. William Saxbe, R-Ohio, said Monday the energy crisis will be with us a long time and some rationing may be necessary in the future.

"The shortage is going to continue for some years," Saxbe told the Columbus Rotary Club. "We have known for a long time that we were using 30 per cent of the energy the world produces and not producing the energy we use."

To ease the crisis, Saxbe advocated construction of the Alaskan pipeline, expansion of nuclear power resources, and a cut in uses of energy by consumers.

"There may have to be some rationing, but I'm not sure," he said.

In a talk ranging over a number of topics, Saxbe said the Senate Watergate hearings are hurting the economy and morale of the nation. The matter now should be resolved "through the judicial process," he said.

"I just wish they would win it up and turn it over to the special prosecutor," he added.

Saxbe announced he is co-sponsoring a bill to increase the power of Congress in dealing with the executive branch on budget and fiscal affairs.

He said the bill would provide Congress with budget data "that now is available to the executive branch" and allow greater amount of participation in the budget process

Opinion And Comment

A million and a half a year

Some good sense on a matter frequently subjected to distortion was voiced on the Senate floor the other day by Sen. Robert W. Packwood of Oregon.

The thrust of what he said was to give the lie to the common notion that, because the rate of U.S. population increase is currently in decline, we need no longer worry about population-related problems.

Sen. Packwood made his point with such admirable brevity that we are moved to quote his remarks in their entirety:

"Mr. President, I would like to report that, according to current Census Bureau approximations, the total population of the United States as of Sunday, July 1, 1973, is 210,869,908. In spite of the widely publicized reductions in our fertility levels, this represents an increase of 1,578,734 since July 1, 1972. It also represents an increase of 129,317 in just the last month.

"Over the year, therefore, we have added enough additional people to fill four cities larger than the size of Newark, N.J. In just one short month, we have added enough people to fill two cities larger than the size of Boulder, Colo."

That was Sen. Packwood's entire speech, using a total wordage many of his fellow senators would consume in the preamble to remarks on subjects of lesser importance taking up three pages in the Congressional Record. We commend the senator from Oregon on his succinct presentation, and urge our readers to ponder his message.

Even at low ebb, the rate of population increase in the United States is adding more than a million and a half people annually, taking into account both deaths and births as well as immigration and emigration. The pressure on American institutions, resources and way of life is steadily increasing.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

C-O-U-R-T spells mediocrity

Now that the Supreme Court has concluded its year's labors, the analysts are busy trying to put a label on the net results.

The general line seems to be that there is a "conservative" trend, though the evidence for this conclusion is tenuous at best. The difficulty is that the Court, as an institution, simply defies categorization in terms of the old "liberal" - "conservative" axis.

Here the justices, led by Harry Blackmun, who presumably obtained his para-medical credentials as counsel to the Mayo Clinic, went charging into one of the most complex legal and moral questions confronting Americans. Former Chief Justice Earl Warren must be a bit puzzled these days when he hears sneering references to his Court as "activist."

WITHOUT GETTING into a discussion of the decision, which (despite my support for carefully regulated abortion procedures) reads like a bad second-year law school exercise, the point is how do you pigeonhole it? Ok. . . let's say "liberal," with the understanding that I don't want the Supreme Court of the United States acting as diagnosticians if I should land up in Massachusetts General Hospital.

But then what about pornography and state aid to parochial schools? The pornography decision was treated here recently, but let me recall the pivotal proposition: that the First Amendment acts with different force in different sub-cultures. It does not impose a strangling "absolutism of imposed uniformity," but permits different governments to reach their own definitions of obscenity. This I take it would be tucked away in the "conservative" file.

However, if the First Amendment is pluralistic with respect to freedom of the press, why is the same principle not applicable to realtionships between church and state? Why, to put it another way, can't the locals decide how high to make that wall of separation?

Why should there be an "absolutism of imposed uniformity" which prevents the good citizens of New York, or any of the other states involved, from deciding by the democratic process that private and parochial schools can be supported by their taxes? In any event, we have a schizophrenic First Amendment. Is this "liberal"? "Conservative"? OR just plain wacky?

I WON'T BORE YOU with a rundown of the other major decisions. For one thing, I still haven't figured out what they said about busing in Denver, and the rationale for permitting state legislative districts variations in size forbidden in congressional districting is hidden in the rhetorical mist. My conclusion is that American constitutional law is in for a rough time. Not because the Court is "conservative" but, to be blunt, because it is incompetent.

Not since Harry Truman put four of his buddies on the bench have we seen such an aggregation of mediocrity.

At the risk of contempt of court, let me provide one classic non-sequitur from Justice Blackmun's opinion in the abortion case. The Hippocratic Oath forbade abortion, but the justice explains that this shouldn't be taken too seriously because Hippocrates was a Pythagorean — and Pythagoreans were a minority!

The Copernicans were, as I recall, in a minority too, but what relevance their numerical status had to the validity of their position is a mystery to me. I have flunked students in constitutional law for better logic than this, but I'm afraid it's going to get worse before it gets better.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

We can't afford to lose Mills

Watching Congressman Wilbur Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, over the last few years, two out of three observers would tell you that he generally behaves with his Presidential availability in mind. Now comes the ominous suggestion, prompted by trouble with a degenerated disc in his spine, that he might even be thinking of quitting politics.

If this should happen, it would be one more indication that the stars in their courses no longer favor the U.S.

Last May, Wilbur Mills made the greatest congressional speech of his life. Referring to Watergate, which he characterized as a "reprehensible business," he denied that it would lead to a paralysis of the American system of government.

The Executive branch, he said, "is not — and was never intended to be — the sum of the government of the U.S." The courts were still functioning, he said, the conscience of the people was alive, Congress was carrying on, and our economy, despite the inflation, had, within the year, created 2.7 million new jobs and added $61 billion in real output to bring disposable personal income to an average of $2,882 per individual.

THE BEST THING about the speech is that it seemed to backtrack a bit from earlier Mills statements that tax reform must be concerned with closing loopholes. Not that Mills has ever been fanatic about killing the economic easements that loopholes represent.

But this time he chose to blame our economic malfunctioning on the "money expansion (that has) resulted from deliberately running up government spending ahead of the increase in revenues." The $18 billion government deficit in 1972 constituted a "fiscal-monetary binge" that wasted "the respite which wage-and-price controls could have given us."

Mills went on to say that he would never consent to use tax reform as a "coverup for penalizing saving by individuals or businesses." He set his face against "turning into a yo-yo those tax provisions we need to get the investment the nation requires."

To the Populists in his own Democratic Party he said "we are not going to treat the legitimate returns on saving as second-class income by taxing it more heavily than we now do. We are going to prevent ordinary income from being turned into capital gains, but we are not going to turn real capital gains into ordinary income."

To encourage capital savings, Mills added that he could have "talked myself into the position where I could let everybody else in the U.S. accumulate $50,000 in a nest egg, from investments, from interest, from capital gains, and other ways, before I would put any tax on them, and then I would put a tax on what they make after that."

THIS SORT OF VOICE was lost out of the White House when Roger Freeman, now a senior fellow at the Hoover Institution, quit as a Nixon aide because his independence was incompatible with the Haldeman-Ehrlichman Prussianization of the place.

Freeman has published an excellent booklet called "Tax Loopholes: The Legend and the Reality." He does not regard capital gains, mineral depletion, home owners' interest and other allowances as sacrosanct, but he makes the very good point that they have been in the public interest. It has been the loopholes that keep the system going, providing new fuel for our cars, ores for industry, capital for building programs, and roofs over our heads.

If Mills is no longer there to hold the congressional pass as head of the influential Ways and Means Committee, someone will have to step into the breach. The newly formed American Council on Capital Gains and Estate Taxation, whose credo is that "liberalization of the tax law on capital gains is desirable if this country is even to begin to meet the enormous investment requirements to maintain economic growth," will have its work cut out for it in finding someone with the understanding of a Wilbur Mills to present its position.

The council correctly points out that our big competitors, Japan and West Germany, have no capital gains tax at all. Only Britain has a higher capital gains tax rate than the U.S., and just look at the sluggishness of the British economy. It couldn't be worse.

Americans develop a million new skin cancers yearly. Doctors blame most of them on excessive exposure to the weather—and particularly sunburn in attempts to gain a fashionable tan.

Happy 100th birthday to the U.S. postal card, which has conveyed sad and glad tidings to untold millions in the last century. Invented by John P. Charlton of Philadelphia in 1861, the penny postal card was first issued by the federal government in 1873. About the same time scenic colored postal cards were introduced in France and Germany. Although their price has now risen to six cents, the U.S. Postal Service sold $59 million worth of the cards last year.

The average man's body is said to contain about 66 pounds of muscle, 40 pounds of bone, and 3.35 pounds of brain. The rest, supposedly, is fat, gristle and hot air.

Is your wife feeding you properly? The chances are only 50-50 that she is. According to an American Medical Association study, only about half of American housewives "can come reasonably close" to describing a nutritionally balanced meal. The study found that fully one-fourth of the wives who stay home skip luncheon entirely and that half of all school-age children either skip breakfast or eat inadequately.

Quotable notables: "Marriage always demands the greatest understanding of the art of insincerity possible between two human beings."—Novelist Vicki Baum.

Exit lines: The dying words of Sir Walter Scott, said to his family, were, "God bless you all, I feel myself again." Gen. Phil Sheridan, Civil War hero, murmured, "I am absolutely undone."

Odd Claims to fame: Johann Ketzler of Munich, Germany, still holds the speed record for eating a whole roasted ox. It took him 42 days back in 1880. The record hasn't been challenged recently, as few people can be found today who can afford to buy a whole ox.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Physical exam won't violate her chastity

DEAR ABBY: Doesn't a girl have the right to be chaste anymore?

My boy friend and I are soon to be married, and we don't want any kids yet, so I talked to my mother and she suggested I get birth control pills before I get married.

I called the local Family Planning clinic about getting pills; they said I would have to come down for a pelvic and breast examination by their own doctor. I asked if they had any women doctors, and they said no.

Then I called a couple of private doctors, and they said I would have to be examined before they would prescribe the pill for me. Then I called a woman doctor and she said an examination wasn't necessary for me to get the pill as long as I felt well.

I think these male doctors are unfair and have no regard for a girl's feelings. I wonder why the male doctors require examinations and the woman doctor didn't? Is it male chauvinism, or greed for the extra examination fee?

WONDERING IN TOPEKA

DEAR WONDERING: A pelvic and breast examination by a male physician will in no way violate your chastity. Furthermore, medical authorities tell me that it's considered risky to prescribe the pill without having examined the patient, because not all women can use the pill safely. Most doctors, male and female, concur and take no chances.

DEAR ABBY: I've been dating a lovely widow for over 3 years. While dating her I also dated a couple of divorcees. Without going into detail, let me just say I did more than hold hands with all three of these ladies.

For the last few months I've been dating the widow exclusively, and we are seriously considering matrimony. She is very inquisitive, and knowing that I have dated the two divorcees, she keeps quizzing me about the relationships.

In fact, she presses me for the most intimate details. Must I reveal everything this woman wants to know? We aren't kids. We are both in our fifties. Rush your answer to me and I'll abide by your advice.

SETTLING DOWN

DEAR SETTLING: What has went on between you and the other ladies in your life is none of her business. Tell her that you'd no more consider disclosing what went on between you and THEM than what went on between you and HER. That should settle it.

DEAR ABBY: I've a 70-year-old sister with whom I've been estranged for many years. She became widowed (for the second time) a few months ago. She has written to say that she and her 50-year-old son, who is extremely obnoxious, are coming to visit me and my wife.

This sister visited us 20 years ago, and I'll never forget it. She made such a row that I had to call the police and have her forcibly evicted.

Frankly, this sister is not normal in the head and she makes trouble wherever she goes. I've discussed this with my wife, and she wants no part of my sister or her son.

I intend to consult a lawyer who will send a registered letter to my sister, telling her that she is not welcome here,and advising her that there are protective laws for persons who do not want to be molested by undesirable relatives.

Will you please let me know if you think this is advisable and effective? Or have you perhaps some other suggestion that would accomplish the same end?

CANADIAN

DEAR CANADIAN: You know sister better than I do. Let your lawyer handle it.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1936, the Spanish Civil War began as Gen. Francisco Franco led army forces in revolt against the government.

On this date:

In 1603, Sir Walter Raleigh was arrested for suspected complicity in a plot to dethrone England's King James I.

In 1821, Florida was ceded to the United States by Spain.

In 1955, Arco, Idaho, became the first community in the world to receive all its light and power from atomic energy.

In 1965, U.S. B52 bombers based on Guam hit targets in South Vietnam for the first time.

Ten years ago: The Securities and Exchange Commission issued a report which was sharply critical of some practices of securities exchanges.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 18

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Don't be dismayed if all does not go quite as you have anticipated. Face situations calmly and you can solve unexpected problems.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Action, yes — IF that's what's needed. Where reflection, conferences and similar "waiting" tactics are needed, however, be ready to sit them out patiently.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Do not be deceived by high-sounding promises. Study persons and situations with your usual keen perception, then act as your best judgment dictates.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Even if you have planned ably, it may be a matter of nip and tuck for most of the day. But you won't have too much difficulty, and you should enjoy the challenge.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Don't idle away precious hours on this truly auspicious day, but don't drive too hard or fast, either. Team up with those whose interests are similar to your own.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Your preceptions may need sharpening up now. Be sure to take all factors into account when evaluating unexpected situations.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Hold out for the best, and give the same — as the Libran usually does. Discuss "cloudy" situations with experts in the line.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Some discussion of travel plans indicated. You may want to take the initiative, but curb your strong drive for the moment and, at least, listen to others.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You'll have an opportunity to express your ideas now, so make the most of it. Later in the week you could face opposition.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Indications that some highly interesting news from a professional friend could affect your own policies in the future — especially in the handling of finances.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Even if you have recently made some domestic adjustment, news you receive now may cause you to think about further changes.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Neptune highly propitious. You can now draw attention to your efforts in a very subtle way — and profit thereby.

YOU BORN TODAY are a true intellectual and extremely conservative in all your attitudes and approaches. You have tremendous capabilities — especially in organization or executive management — but tendencies toward stubbornness and a dictatorial manner could alienate associates and make you a most unpopular supervisor unless you learn to control them. Other fields in which you could excel: science, literature, dramatic criticism.

Sheriff's Department activity mounts

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department received 521 complaints during July, including 38 which involved criminal offenses of a serious nature.

The complaint total was up by 131 over the same month a year ago, according to a monthly report issued by Sheriff Don Thompson.

Sheriff Thompson said there were eight burglaries and 21 larceny complaints among the more serious crimes. Also investigated were six destruction of property reports, two car thefts, and a bad check complaint. One robbery was also reported, but the complaint later was determined to be unfounded.

Sheriff's deputies during the month also investigated 69 traffic accidents in which 22 persons were injured. The accident total was up by nine over July 1972.

Activity for the month included the recovery of three stolen cars, a trash-dumping investigation, four reports of missing persons, 11 dog or animal bite cases, nine fires, two suicides, one attempted suicide, 12 emergency blood or mental runs, 14 funeral escorts, 87 civil papers processed and 30 special duty assignments.

A total of 70 persons were either incarcerated in the county jail or given traffic citations, including nine persons held on felony charges, Sheriff Thompson said.

The total of 895 actions taken by sheriff's deputies during the month brought the year's activity total to 4,930 actions, an increase of more than 600 over the same period last year.

CAMBRIDGE — The Ohio Genealogical Society will hold a workshop meeting Saturday at the Shenandoah Inn, Old Washington, on Ohio Rt. 285, just south of I-70 about eight miles east at Cambridge.

The morning program will cover city and county records, and will feature a panel headed by Richard Ryan of the Ohio University Library at Athens, who will discuss the program of preserving local government records in Ohio. Other aspects of local records will be covered by Laban Blackburn, recorder of Harrison County and Charles Wallace, president of the Harrison County Historical Society. The morning session will begin about 9:00 a.m. with registration and a coffee hour.

In the afternoon, practical problems in genealogy will be discussed by such experts as Mr. and Mrs. Robert Conner, of Cambridge, both past presidents of the OGS, Dr. Raymond Dent, of Mansfield, Mrs. Lida F. Harshman, of Mineral Ridge, and Mrs. Lois Ogier, of Barberton, all experienced and active genealogists and past presidents of the OGS.

BE ASSURED: YOU REALLY NEED TO BE INSURED!

Any sound personal financial program will include some form of savings plan as a must.

Another must is life insurance — a long range insurance program providing reasonable protection for your family — not just a policy.

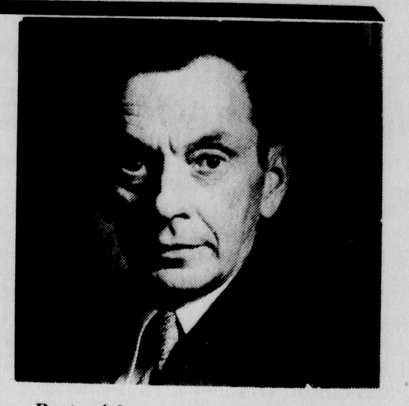

Basically, life insurance is needed to provide funds enabling a family to meet the problems encountered if the head of the family should die.

There are many forms of life insurance, almost too many to mention here, designed to meet the needs and abilities of countless situations.

While a certain policy may be ideal for one kind of a need, it can be almost a waste of money in another situation.

CONGRATULATIONS TO:

Mr. Wylie takes bride in Celina

St. John's Lutheran Church in Celina was the setting for the marriage of Miss Nan Sites and John A. Wylie. The Rev. David Shugert assisted David Sites, seminarian, brother of the bride, in performing the wedding ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Snowden Sites, Rt. 1, Mendon, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wylie, 1295 Dayton Ave., June 16, at 5:30 p.m. by candlelight. Gladioli arrangements were on the altar.

The Misses Lorrie and Lou Ann Sites, the bride's sisters, were accompanied on the guitar by Mrs. Pat Banta, a friend of the bride's family from New Orelands, La. The songs were Paul Stuke's "Wedding Song" and "Sunrise, Sunset." Mrs. Banta closed the ceremony with an original ballad written for the bride and groom.

There were no attendants or groomsmen.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length shirtwaist styled gown of textured Indian cotton in a sheer ivory accented by pale blue silk shantung which lined the high standing collar and French cuffs, and formed the long underdress. The waistline featured a sash belt and fabric rose of the pale blue silk. The gown was designed and made by the bride.

The new Mrs. Wylie, a graduate of Parkway High School, Rockford, and the University of Cincinnati, is a designer for J.G. Couture in Cincinnati. Her husband, a graduate of Washington C.H. High School and the University of Cincinnati, is employed as an underwriter for Buckeye Union Insurance Co. in Cincinnati.

Annual picnic is held by Christian Circle

Woman's Christian Circle, South Side Church of Christ held its annual picnic supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Creamer, Waterloo Rd., Thursday evening. Guests were seated at picnic tables on the spacious lawn with Richard Leslie giving the invocation.

The evening was spent in swimming by the younger people and various types of ball games were played.

Mrs. Dorothy Morton, president presented devotions, and told of some of her experiences in her Christian life. She also read a poem by Helen Steiner Rice and closed with prayer.

The Youth Choir of the church recently returned from a choir tour that took them as far as northern Michigan and southern Canada. They sang at various churches. Mrs. Jerry Sears is the choir leader and Mrs. Creamer is the accompanist. Adult chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Creamer, Mr. and Mrs. Sears and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie.

The Young Bereans, class of young adults, visited Pike Lake recently and Mrs. Jon Creamer reported on the good time had by the group of nineteen.

The next meeting will be Aug. 9 in home of Mrs. Ronald Clay. Mrs. Taylor Jefferson of Hillsboro will be the speaker and assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Arthur Deakyne and Mrs. Phillip Campbell. Mrs. Howard Wright will bring devotions.

Bride-elect honored at personal shower

Miss Julie Wilson bride-elect of Don Bower, was honored at a personal bridal shower Sunday afternoon in the home of Miss Mindy Shaw. Serving as hostesses with Miss Shaw were the Misses Susan Essman and Ann Millet, Mrs. Carl Wilt and Mrs. Stanley Brown.

Suspended above the gift table on the porch was a floral umbrella with streamers.

Following games, mint pie and punch were served to the guests, Mrs. Samuel Wilson and Mrs. Wayne Bower, mothers of the betrothed couple, Miss Peggy Bower, sister of the prospective groom, Mrs. Dale Lynch, Mrs. Byers Shaw and daughter, Beth, the Misses Terri Haugen, Cyndi Mrton, Liz Sauer, Beatriz Grau, Mrs. Bill Vance, Mrs. Joseph Del Greco and the hostesses.

Mrs. Casey is honored

The Welcome Wagon Club gave an "appreciation coffee" for retiring hostess Mrs. Gary Casey, Sunday afternoon, in the home of Mrs. Bill Earley. The group presented her with a gold charm and a pair of silver candlesticks.

Hobby Club has picnic

Nine members and two guests of the Fayette Hobby Club met in Eyman Park Sunday for the annual picnic. Mrs. Keith Zimmerman and daughter, Suzie, were guests.

All spent the afternoon viewing cards and souvenirs brought from the Holy Land by Mrs. Florence Bethards.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Tway, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fultz, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Richardson, Mrs. Bethards, Mrs. Alice Bush and Mrs. Esther Hyer.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Mary Jo Hunter and son Larry, 315 East St., recently returned from a three week visit with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hunter in London, England. During their stay they visited many historic places of interest in and around London and went to Brighton, on the English Channel via British rail. They also traveled on British-European Airlines to Paris, France, where they enjoyed a five-day stay, and also made a trip to Versailles, France, on the River Seine. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter have resided in London for the past three years, where Mr. Hunter is copy editor for the Foreign News Service of the Washington Post - Los Angeles Times newspapers. Mrs. Hunter is the former Ruth Binegar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Binegar, 1561 Hays Rd., N.W.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rambo (Karen Carman) of Dayton, has been performing with the Cincinnati Summer Opera this season. On Saturday night they were privileged to sing in the production of Verdi's Aida. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carman, St. Rt. 41-N, parents of Mrs. Rambo, and Mrs. Ethel Bryant of New Holland, attended the most colorful production at the Cincinnati Music Hall.

Mrs. Jean T. Craig, 125 Gardner Court, Mr. and Mrs. Allen O. McClung and son Tom, 546 Comfort Lane, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Fries, 530 Comfort Lane, were in Chillicothe Sunday morning for the sunrise service held at Adena State Memorial overlooking Mount Logan. Services were conducted by St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Later in the afternoon, Gov. Gilligan flew via helicopter from Cincinnati to participate in the festivities.

Barry, Larry and Shelley Sanders, the children of Mr. and Mrs. William Sanders of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Shipley Sr., 917 Washington Ave. They will remain here for 2½ weeks.

Mrs. Souther, Mr. Rockhold are wed

Mrs. Dorothy Souther of Bloomingburg and William Rockhold, 711 Columbus Ave., were united in marriage July 7 in the Belle Center United Methodist Church. The Rev. Emery Moyer, formerly of the Bloomingburg United Methodist Church, performed the wedding ceremony.

A reception took place in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Moyer following the wedding ceremony. Following a trip to Niagara Falls, the couple is residing at 711 Columbus Ave.

Miss Melanie Oesterle, bride-elect of Dan Smith, was honored at a miscellaneous bridal shower given by Miss Dianne Oesterle, Miss Lori Benner and Mrs. Sandy Morris. The shower was given in the home of the grandmother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Emma C. Morris of New Holland.

The gift table, where the guest of honor opened many lovely gifts, were decorated with white wedding bells and pink and white streamers. Games were won by Mrs. Nancy Swackhammer, Mrs. Sheryl Morris and Mrs. Becky Downs, who presented them to the guest of honor.

The refreshment table was decorated with a white bride doll. Cake, punch and nuts were also of the pink and white color theme. Guests present were Mrs. Maynard Oesterle, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Morris, the grandmother, Miss Mary Ellen Oesterle, Mrs. Delores Woods, Mrs. Pauline Benner, Mrs. Doris Stephenson, Mrs. Swackhammer and daughters Kristi, Roxanne and Toni, Mrs. Karen Adams, Mrs. Jean Yale and daughter Linda, Mrs. Sheryl Morris and children Kathy, Stevie and Robby, Miss Debbie Morris, Mrs. Downs and son Brad, the Misses Teresa and Marsha Morris, Mrs. Susie Morris and daughter Cindy, Mrs. Betty Morris, Mrs. Margaret Morris and Mrs. Ginny Morris.

* * * * * *

Refreshments of cake and coffee were served.

Invited guests were Mrs. Maynard Oesterle, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Ruth Smith, mother of the prospective groom, Mrs. Kenneth Oesterle Sr., Miss Dianne Oesterle, Mrs. Glenn Tatman, Mrs. Kenneth Oesterle Jr., Mrs. Jean Skinner, Mrs. Joanne Poole, Miss Penny Hardman, Miss Janie Counts, Mrs. Marilyn Rudill, Miss Cheryl Queen, Mrs. Linda Naylor, Miss Lisa Queen, and Mrs. Jerry Durflinger.

A teaspoon of lemon juice may be added to rice that is being cooked. The lemon juice helps keep the rice white.

Once you get used to using a kitchen timer, you'll never want to cook or bake without it.

TV Viewing

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The summer TV season has shown, if nothing else, that Burns and Schreiber are not what you call your ordinary basic standup comedy team.

In fact, Jack Burns and Avery Schreiber are not standup comics at all. They are sketch artists with a range from downright goofy to bitingly satirical. They never did a standup routine until it was required for "The Burns and Schreiber Comedy Hour" seen on Saturday nights on ABC.

"A great part of our act has pathos in it," said Burns.

"There are some great belly laughs, but there's also an underlying feeling of the awareness of the passage of time and alienation. Many of our sketches that we've worked on the longest, such as the cab driver, most of our set act, is aloneness and an underlying current of sadness.

"I think Avery is a master clown and behind almost every clown is that feeling of sadness."

Burns, a New Englander, was a Marine in the Korean War and was a radio newsman at one time. While working for a Fort Worth, Tex., station he formed a comedy team with another staffer, George Carlin. They broke up when Burns went to Chicago to join the Second City group.

Schreiber, a native of Chicago, joined the Goodman Theatre with the aim of becoming a director. But he was soon doubling as an actor in both comedy and drama.

Later Schreiber also joined Second City and the team of Burns and Schreiber was born. They performed in nightclubs, in concerts and made numerous television appearances.

They broke up in 1968 after deciding the act had gone as far as it could. Burns developed into a leading comedy sketch writer for variety shows and Schreiber became an actor and director. A year ago they got together again for a charity performance — and decided to give it another try.

In their routines, Burns is the pushy, overconfident, suave loudmouth. Roly-poly, cuddly Schreiber is the perennial patsy —who in the tradition of all comedy teams always puts down the loudmouth.

The two personalities play off well against each other and they have an innate sense of timing that keeps one from stepping on the other's buildup.

Schreiber said, "I really believe when Jack grabs a character, the loudmouth who grates on you and you want to hit him, you want to laugh at him, see him made a fool or make himself a fool, I think that really is a reflection on the personality of the individual and his comment on that kind of person. Jack uses it, and by doing it pins down the thing that really bugs him about some of these people.

"We did a very wild, goofy Robin Hood," he said. "When I looked at it, I said, is there any redeeming value in this? And there was because he plays that swashbuckler that we've always wanted to see fall flat on his face."

Teen-age brothers keep 'em moving

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Apartment Movers Inc., of Nashville, is keeping two teenage brothers on the move.

Richard, 17, and Barry Jones, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.A. Jones, saved $1,100 from a paper route to launch their successful moving enterprise.

The boys own four trucks, have found a ready market in short haul moving for apartment dwellers and have paid back all but $600 of their original investment.

"We always encouraged our boys to work and save," the boys' father said.

Lessons every businessman has to learn. Lessons taught to him by the consumer.

Jimmy is vulnerable to the consumer the moment he decides to go into business. Does he have the right product? The right quality? The right price? The right location? He'll soon find out. The consumer will tell him. And he'd better listen, if he wants to stay in business and become an asset to the community.

That's what being in business is all about—responding to the consumer. Meeting people's constantly changing needs.

As independent businessmen, we believe in competitive distribution. The retail automobile business is built on it. So is every business advertised in this newspaper. And because of competition, you'll never be forced to buy one brand, at one price, from one store. Competition gives you a choice. The result is greater variety, better quality, better service. And, would you believe, even lower prices?

You call the shots. You, the consumer. We wouldn't have it any other way. After all, we're consumers, too.

Ohio Perspective

State cracks down on bad drivers

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer

Gone are the days when a bad driver could bury his misdeeds just by changing states. Now if he loses his license in Arizona because of a major traffic violation, it's a sure bet he won't get a driver's permit in Ohio.

Ohio and other states have ready access to the bad driving records of most Americans through the National Driver Register in Washington, D.C.

"The goal is to prevent someone with a bad driving record from slipping into another state and getting a new license," said Rose M. Armstrong of the Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles. "We're trying to keep the bad drivers off the road."

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said the register has been effective. With the rising use of the register's data bank, the federal agency said, "Irresponsible drivers are being removed from American highways in ever-increasing numbers."

In the first quarter of 1973, Miss Armstrong said, "We made 86,817 inquiries to the register and the result was 1,219 probable identification of bad drivers.

"If it's a pretty sure deal, we can reject their application. But the person has a right to petition the local court and presumably show that if they had been convicted in Ohio, the penalty would not have been as severe as a license suspension."

Those situations are rare, she said. "If they do happen, the court has the authority to order the issuance of an Ohio license."

Miss Armstrong said in the first three months of 1973, Ohio has sent to the register 10,182 names of persons with suspended licenses because of major traffic violations.

Major violations include driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs, vehicular homicide, drag racing, fleeing from a police officer and being a hit-skip motorist.

She said the goal of the register and the U.S. Department of Transportation is one system of licensing for the entire country, instead of 50.

"I support the one-license concept because it would eventually lead to better control of bad drivers," she said.

Clear language blow is struck

WASHINGTON (AP)—The editor of an Agriculture Department newsletter today struck a blow for more clarity in government reports

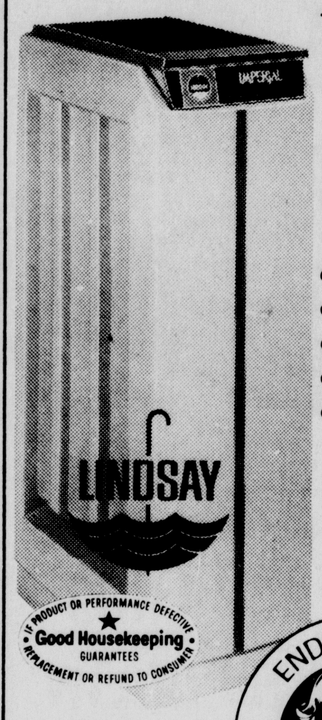

Edward D. Curran, who sends his "Farm Paper Letter" to 1,500 newspaper and magazine editors, included this example of governmentese in a report about lamb production:

"A growing lack of downward flexibility in retail lamb prices since 1965 has tended to widen wholesale-to-retail margins and has aggravated the competitive position of lamb compared with beef and contributed to its declining consumption."

Curran added an explanatory footnote: "It means things ain't been going too well in the lamb industry lately."

Americans are consuming vast amounts of prepared convenience foods with much of the kitchen work done by the processor. The cost of this built-in service has gone up far more than the cost of the basic food item itself.

SAIGON (AP) — The Vietnam battlefield is taking final, predictable shape. War has raged across it for three decades, and troops from six foreign nations have gambled with death here.

The war is still on. The two cease-fire agreements signed in January and June this year have only slowed it down long enough for the United States to pull out entirely.

On the battlefield now, alone for the first time, are the Vietnamese. And also for the first time in three decades it is possible to deduce the probable outcome on the battlefield if a political solution is delayed, and the war continues.

The South Vietnamese.

The United States came to Vietnam to win the war, but when it became too costly in men and money, tactics were changed and the concept of "Vietnamization" was introduced. The idea was to build the Saigon army into a copy of the American one, as far as weaponry was concerned. The American strategy remained the same until the cease-fire agreement in January: Win the war.

Has "Vietnamization" worked? The answer has to be no. First of all, Saigon has had to yield an enormous part of the country to the Communist side, as much as 25 per cent according to some estimates. This lost terrain includes the sites of some of the most famous American battles—the Ia Drang Valley, Dak To, Khe Sanh, War Zone C.

Secondly, "Vietnamization" never did fill the holes left by the departing allied troops. "I have not been able to fill up the vacuum left when the South Koreans went home," said the chief of coastal Khanh Hoa Province, Col. Ly Ba Pham. The 3rd U.S. Marine Division held Quang Tri Province until the Americans went home. Now yellow-star Communist flags dot the hillsides there.

The same flags fly in Kontum Province, Loc Ninh, and the other "holes" left behind when the allies went home.

"Vietnamization" never did work in weaponry, either. Saigon has one of the world's biggest air forces, but few planes that can do adequate aerial combat with the Hanoi government's MIG21s.

What about the combat soldiers? Last year the Saigon forces held Kontum and An Loc despite major Communist attacks, and fought back into Quang Tri City. But this was with the help of the whole U.S. Air Force arsenal.

The South Vietnamese soldier has grown used to attacking with massive air support. The Communist soldier has grown used to fighting under those American bombs.

Take away American planes and you have a much stronger Hanoi soldier and a much weaker Saigon one.

The North Vietnamese are linking up territory captured inside South Vietnam via a road network estimated at 500 miles long. Truck traffic indicates a buildup of military equipment as massive as that which preceded the major Communist offensive of last year. Free from American bombing for the first time since 1965, the Communist side is laying in surface to air missiles around lengthened airstrips at Khe Sanh and the Asahau Valley, and building small towns.

The offensive last year brought the Communist armies to within touching distance of the major population centers. Heavy guns are within range of Kontum City, Quang Tri and Hue, and possibly Da Nang. The environs of Saigon are within a day's march of Communist regiments in War Zones C and D.

What is likely to happen? What is the shape of the future?

The hope was that the ceasefire agreements would put an end to the fighting this year, that zones of control could be determined, and that an orderly transition would be made to a political settlement.

At best the Communist side would like participation in a coalition government such as that in Laos; at worst, recognition by the Saigon government, and official acknowledgement of Communist control over occupied territory.

The Communist side can be expected to use military pressure to achieve any, or all, of its political objectives. It has all the options; Saigon can only defend.

One Communist option is the renewal of the guerrilla war. The guerrilla "people's war" organized by the Viet Cong almost overwhelmed the government in 1965. That is what brought American troops in.

The Viet Cong were nearly put out of business because the entry of American troops into the war tipped the balance against them. North Vietnam sent down not only infantry divisions to fight the Americans, but thousands of replacements for dead Viet Cong guerrillas.

One reason for the demise of the Viet Cong was that the government extended its control over the population, gave every farmer a gun and told him to point it at the Viet Cong.

That was all very well while the government's control in the countryside was firm. Now control is weaker because of the close proximity of Communist troops. Already in Chuong Thien Province in the Mekong Delta guerrillas are being recruited from all the hamlets, according to a defector. In effect the Communists are now telling the farmers to point their guns at the government.

How effective can this guerrilla regeneration be? Knowledgeable Americans point out that while the South Vietnamese regular army is loyal to Saigon, the local militiamen who number in the hundreds of thousands, are loyal to the hamlets where they were born. Some fought for the Viet Cong before the government in Saigon extended its control in the late 1960s. Presumably they could fight for the VC again if government control erodes.

Another Communist option is this, the long-term indoctrination of selected South Vietnamese who are taken North. Such people returning to South Vietnam in the late 1950s created the Viet Cong insurgency.

Now from every province in the country there have been reports of young people from 12 to 18 years of age, either kidnaped or willingly leaving home, going North. In Binh Thuan on the coast 90 young persons were taken in April and May.

The Communist side is already repopulating Quang Tri with some of the more than 20,000 people it took North after overrunning the province in the 1972 offensive.

There is a third option: Another full-scale Communist offensive launched from secure base areas against Tay Ninh, An Loc, Kontum, Pleiku, Binh Dinh Province, Hue and selected Mekong Delta targets.

While anything can happen in Vietnam and often does, knowledgeable Americans and Vietnamese see the Communists using a combination of all their options.

Firstly, they will continue to strengthen their territory with road-building and resettlement. They will attempt to build the Viet Cong back into a powerful military force. And they can launch the occasional "mini offensive" that will help demoralize the Saigon army and grab more terrain.

If all this were to fail, then the Communists could take the long-term viewpoint, methodically building up a reinvigorated cadre from those Southerners now being taken North, and sending them down South some day to start the whole thing over again.

This last possibility — failure — seems the most unlikely. "The main purpose of the North Vietnamese these past few years has been to oust the foreigner," said Khanh Hoa Province Chief Col. Pham. "Now they have us all alone."

How might America fit into this somber future? Less and less as the days go by, it seems. Apparent American disinterest in the course of the war effort has led to a breakoff in the close U.S. adviser relationships that were built up over a decade.

The Saigon high command has retreated into secrecy, and the few American military men left are finding it near impossible to maintain an accurate accounting of what is going on in the field.

With U.S. military advisers completely out of the countryside, the American officers and civilians attached to the small American defense establishment in Saigon often have to resort to waking up Vietnamese generals from their siestas, or corralling them during tennis matches, to plead for information about what big actions are going on.

This sudden huge information gap could be disastrous in the event of another major Communist offensive. U.S. officials would have great difficulty in judging the accuracy of Vietnamese reports and the United States no longer has intelligence sources of its own to verify targets and Communist troop movements.

No action In General Phone strike

MARION, Ohio (AP)—General Telephone Co. officials and striking members of the Communications Workers of America are awaiting a call from a federal mediator before they return to the bargaining table.

About 2,800 workers entered their second day of a strike Tuesday while Mediator Howard Hughes continued to meet separately with both sides.

The union's contract expired in the beginning of July but was extended until Monday.

The walkout had little effect on service to the company's 308,000 subscribers. Supervisory personnel took over as operators, installers and linemen.

There was one small outage near Troy which temporarily cut off long distance lines after a cable was severed, a company spokesman said. It was immediately repaired.

While the strike goes on, the company continued to seek a rate boost from the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio which would increase revenues by $1 million a month.

Showers dampen parts of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms dampened widely scattered areas of the nation today while fair and mild weather dominated most Northern sections.

Showers and thunderstorms extended from southwest Texas north over the Rockies, over northern Minnesota and from the central Mississippi Valley to the Carolina coast and Maryland.

Flash flooding developed southwest of El Paso, Texa., before dawn, and heavy rains fell over northern California, northern Alabama and the Carolinas.

Florence, S.C., and Hickory, N.C., both were washed with 2 inches of rain. Birmingham, Ala., took on nearly an inch.

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some nostalgia of the majestic river queens, a floating memory complete with a gingerbread superstructure, grand staircase and a steam calliope, awaits a decision in the House on whether she stays afloat or retires.

The vote, which could come today, will decide if the paddlewheeler Delta Queen can continue her odysseys on the Ohio, Tennessee and Mississippi rivers.

The vote will be on a bill to exempt the Delta Queen from the marine safety law until Nov. 1, 1978.

Muster, president of Green Line Steamders Inc., has testified the fire risk is "statistically zero," and added no passenger has been killed in a steamboat accident since 1903, and never in his company's 83-year history.

An automatic fire detection system has been installed, bulkheads and overheads have been sprayed with fire retarding solutions and all staterooms have been fire-proofed, Muster said.

In 1947, she sailed through the Panama Canal for service on the Mississippi River.

Muster is building a sister paddlewheeler at Jeffersonville, Ind., on the Ohio River. This one will be built with fireproof materials from the keel up and will be twice the size of the Delta Queen. Her cost is about $15.5 million.

Traffic Court

Judge Reed M. Winegardner fined seven drivers a total of $462 and ordered 47 bonds amounting to $1,091 forfeited in Municipal Court traffic cases Monday afternoon.

Howard Merritt, 24, of 607 Campbell St., was fined $50 and costs on each of four charges brought against him by sheriff's deputies following an accident Saturday night.

He pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident, driving left of center, failure to transfer registration and intoxication. Merritt was arrested on the CCC Highway-W about two hours after his car struck another vehicle in front of Bowland. He drove from the scene then abandoned the car and walked away on foot.

He was also involved in a hitskip mishap in the city just minutes before the other accident and still faces charges of leaving the scene and reckless operation filed by police.

SHERIFF

Fined:

PATROL

Fined:

GM studies list of UAW demands

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers takes its new contract requests to Ford Motor Co. today after the union's goals received an unruffled reception at General Motors.

Among them are voluntary overtime, dental insurance, full retirement benefits after 30 years of work in the plants and greater protection against rising prices. The union has not specified how great a wage increase it wants.

Executives at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler have been saying for months that they cannot "live with" some of the union's goals.

Emerging from an opening session that lasted more than an hour, George Morris Jr., GM's vice president for industrial relations, said he found no surprises in the union's proposals. But he added hastily, "We were told these are not all the demands that will be made."

He noted "an attitude of optimism on both sides" that there would not be a strike in the industry this year.

Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock echoed Morris' optimism and said there seems no air of "inevitablity" about a strike.

The union leaders will move to Chrysler on Wednesday for another formal opening of bargaining.

Bargaining sessions with General Motors resumed today, and the union expects to finish detailing its requests by week's end. Until GM hears the details, the goals will remain confidential, union leaders said.

Basically, the demands involve fringe benefits. The union wants a wage increase; but with its nearly 800,000 members at the Big Three automakers averaging $5.12 hourly on straight time, that is not a pressing issue.

Auto executives have warned that if the union persisted in seeking voluntary overtime, it would be on a "collision course" with the companies. The executives cite excessive costs in opposing most of the other proposals, especially dental insurance.

Anything unsettled when current three-year contracts expire Sept. 14 could trigger a strike. The last auto strike closed General Motors for 67 days in 1970

Higher interest rates cut into bank carnivals

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Aside from creating controversy, the lifting of interest rate ceilings on savings accounts is likely to have another very visible and sobering impact on the lives of Americans.

It will, of course, have a profitable impact too. Passbook savers at commercial banks will be able to get 5 per cent instead of 4.5. And at savings banks and associations, a 5.25 per cent rate is an improvement over 5 per cent.

But despite this good news, it is likely that there will also be an immediate de-emphasis of levity at the local bank and a reassertion of that grey, sober mood that once was considered so appropriate when money was involved.

When savings institutions became aware 30 years ago that ordinary Americans were accumulating substantial bundles of money they were forced to recognize that they must be catered to. Consumers were a growing force.

As they accumulated capital, the savings institutions learned, they might just as often come through the doors with a fistful of money to deposit as they might come with empty pockets and in need of a loan.

Consumers, they concluded, must be encouraged, even entertained if need be.

And so, deprived by federal regulations from competing for the consumer dollar by offering higher interest rates, the savings institutions discovered the lure of "fun 'n games."

Having made this discovery later in life than others, the money men found themselves in an unrestrained revel. Savings institutions began to look like catalog stores, offering furs, trips and assorted household hardware.

In some communities, competition seemed to depend on who offered the biggest premium, and it was rare in some neighborhood for a new outlet to open without creating a carnival to lure depositors from other banks.

But now, just as supermarkets were forced to return competition from sweepstakes and stamps to prices, the banks also seem destined to return at least part way to more serious, more realistic competition.

Seldom have saving institutions been given such an unfettered opportunity to compete for dollars. And knowing this, many savers will be unwilling to accept transistor radios in lieu of higher yields.

One innovation, already introduced by First Pennsylvania Banking & Trust Co., would guarantee 7.5 per cent, plus a cost of living bonus, on four-year certificates. The smallest certificate is $1,000.

The inflation bonus will be paid each year at the rate of ¼ per cent interest for every 1 per cent increase in the consumer price index.

Powder Puff derby times worked out

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — Ninety-nine light airplanes sat on a parking ramp today as officials worked to figure which won the 27th Powder Puff Derby, an all-female transcontinental air race.

Seventy-two of the single and twin-engine planes completed on Monday the last leg of the 2,542-mile journey from Carlsbad, Calif., to the Chemung County Airport. Twenty-six arrived Sunday and one flew in Saturday. The race began Friday and halted at sunset each evening.

Of Monday's arrivals, only one failed to pass the airport tower by the 6 p.m. deadline and qualify for the scoring. A Cessna 182 Skylane piloted by Alma J. Hinds of Redding, Calif., and co-piloted by Joyce Wells of Larkspur, Calif., was over the city of Corning, eight minutes away, at the cutoff point.

The last pilot to arrive in time was Helen McGee of Sonora, Calif., flying solo in an Aero Commander. She finished second in the 1972 derby but had landing-gear trouble early in this year's race.

Winners of the $5,000 first prize and 44 other cash awards were to be announced Wednesday morning after derby officials spent today computing the best over-all performances.

Preliminary computations showed that a Windecker AC-7 Eagle flown by Billie Joyce Wyche of Pearland, Tex., with co-pilot Stephanie Vickery of La Porte, Tex., attained the best average speed during the race, 203.118 miles an hour.

A total of 108 aircraft entered the derby, but four withdrew before the takeoff from Carlsbad, three dropped out on the way and two were disqualified.

The derby is sponsored by the Ninety-Nines Inc., a women's aviation organization. Nearly all of the contestants were sponsored by commercial

CIC trustees eye prospects for industry

Prospects for new industries in the Washington C.H. area were discussed by the Community Improvement Corp. board of trustees at its monthly meeting Tuesday morning in the city offices.

The CIC approved a contract for the sale of land in the Industrial Park. If the prospective buyer proceeds to purchase the land, there will be warehouse facilities built on it.

A report on an industry that may relocate here was heard. Representatives of the industry visited the area this week. A decision from the company is due in two weeks.

The selective development program also was discussed. The CIC reviewed several test industries that have been computer-analyzed and agreed to set up a three or four-man team with the Chamber of Commerce to pursue industry prospects.

Control board frees funds for schools

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Controlling Board approved Monday the distribution of $61.1 million to school districts in the state under the school foundation program for the month of July.

The newly-enacted program provides that real property be valued on the same basis in all counties of the state. Each of the 620 school districts in Ohio and 28 Joint Vocational School Districts are affected.

—$30,000 in additional state school building assistance for the Union Scioto Local District.

—$45,000 in federal funds for the purchase of books and the training of teachers by the Health Department in the prevention of bed sores.

—$6,405 to the Department of Highway Safety for inspection and overhaul of a helicopter.

—$268,000 to the Department of Transportation for consultant services on improvements to Ohio 125 in Hamilton and Clermont counties.

—$43,575 for six months operations of the AMVETS, American War Veterans, Disabled American War Veterans, 37th Infantry Veterans Association, United Spanish War Veterans, and the Veterans of World War I, U.S.A.

Those attending the cookout at the Davis home and enjoying the pool at the Dean residence following the installation Saturday were: Mr. and Mrs. Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bihl, Mr. and Mrs. Stahl, Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Kimmet, Mr. and Mrs. Rivenburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Penwell, Mr. and Mrs. Huysman, Mr. and Mrs. William Boylan, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Pohlman, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. James Donohue. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Giacomini and Mrs. Mildred Murphy.

Highway crash claims 4 lives

FREMONT, Ohio (AP)—An Ottawa County man and his three small sons were killed Monday when their panel truck collided with another truck on Ohio 105 near Fremont.

Killed were Robert Magsig, 31, of Elmore, and his sons David 6, Michael 4 and Jason, 3 months. Magsig's wife and the driver of the other truck were injured.

Moon rocks set for Ohio display

WAPAKONETA, Ohio (AP) — An exhibit of moon rock from the Apollo 11 mission will be on exhibit at the Neil A. Armstrong Air and Space Museum here beginning July 20.

The rock was collected by astronauts, including Armstrong, July 20, 1969 and is on loan from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Prison walkaway nabbed by FBI agents

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Major James Hymes, 43, who walked away from the Ohio Penitentiary two years ago, was arrested by FBI agents Monday at a Columbus residence.

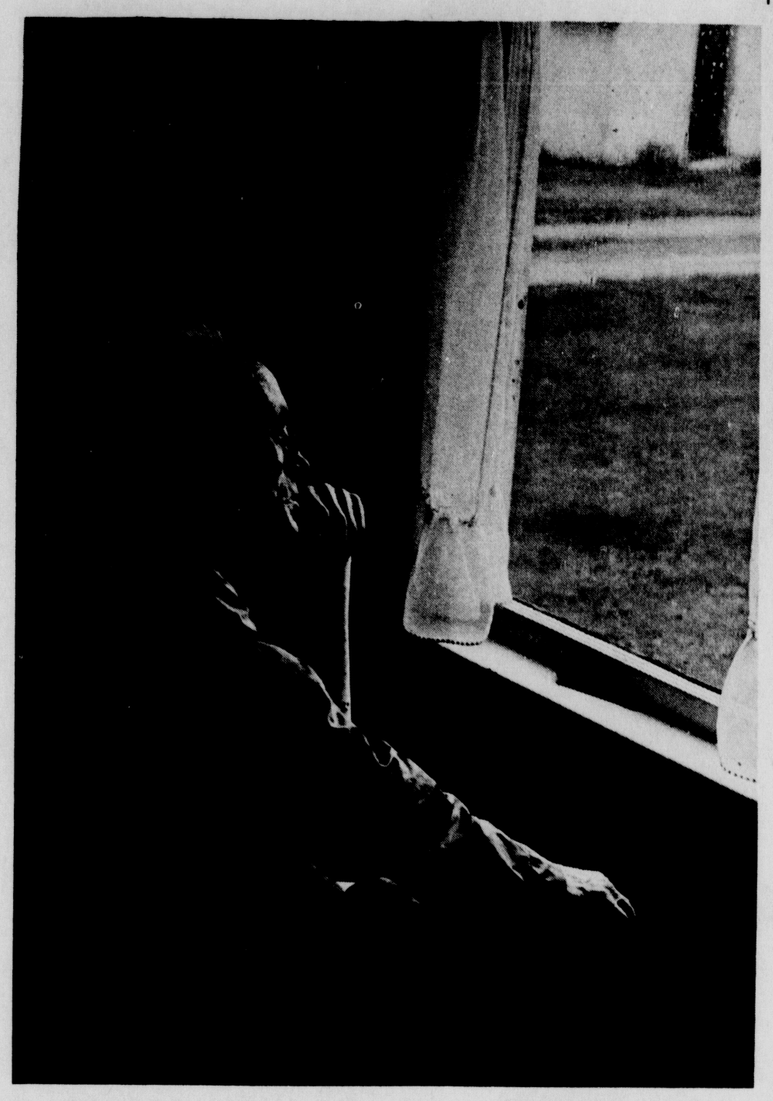

Hymes, serving a 2-40 year sentence for forgery when he escaped, was returned to the custody of penitentiary officials.

Butz consumer aide shifts food purchases due to prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz's new special assistant for consumer affairs has reacted to the highest consumer food prices in 20 years by reordering her priorities in the grocery store.

Nancy H. Steorts, 36, said in an interview after her appointment was announced Monday that she is "putting my emphasis now on the quality foods" when shopping for herself, her department-store-executive husband and their 10-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Steorts, who lives in suburban Sumner, Md., comes to the consumer-affairs post — which pays $23,088 a year — with a background in retail merchandizing, fashions and public relations.

Mrs. Steorts, a 1959 graduate of Syracuse University in her home town, said she doesn't agree that consumers are to blame for high prices. But she did emphasize her view of an urgent "need to communicate better with the consumer."

Personally, she said, "I am not one that would have participated" in the meat boycott this spring. The boycott was organized by housewives, predominantly, to protest rising costs of beef, and other popular meats.

"There are other ways to effectively show disapproval," she said, but added that the boycott had an advantage in bringing food prices "more to the public mind."

Hospital board writes off bad debts, buys equipment

Overdue bills totaling $4,791 were written off by the board.

The surgical equipment purchase will total about $4,000. Robert L. Kunz, hospital administrator, said several items are to be purchased.

The board voted to remove cigarette vending machines from the hospital, following a trend set by several other hospitals, Kunz said.

The patient report for June follows: Admissions, 375; dismissals, 390; inpatient days, 2,194; average daily census, 73.13; births, 45; new born patient days, 153; deaths, 10; per cent of occupancy, 84.06; per cent of occupancy, medical and surgical, 95.63 average length of stay, 5.62 days; average length of stay, medical and surgical, 6.59; X-ray examinations, 932; laboratory tests, 4,976; emergencies, 1,196; physical therapy treatments, 210; inhalation therapy treatments, 504; major operations, 50, and minor operations, 121.

Damage to the sprawling, one-floor brick building was estimated at $150,000. There was no immediate estimate of damage to contents.

Firemen said the structure was almost completely engulfed in flames when they arrived.

Sabina Council approves budget

SABINA — Sabina Council met Monday to approve a 1974 budget calling for expenditures of $68,200 against an income of $79,540. The budget has been filed with the Clinton County Budget Commission.

Council also passed two ordinances, one of which vacated an alley and the other authorized the mayor to enter into a contract with the Clinton Asphalt Paving Co., of Wilmington, to repair and repave a number of streets and alleys. Total cost of the project will be $30,668, a large percentage of which will come from federal revenue sharing funds.

Fire damages floor

City firemen were called to a minor blaze at 720 Briar Avenue Tuesday afternoon. Firemen said the fire at the Jack Brannigan residence apparently was started when fumes from gasoline being used to clean paint from a floor were ignited by a hot water heater. There was minor damage to the floor.

When Joani Trindl, 17, stepped up to receive the top award of a $1,000 Kodak Scholarship grant in the 1973 Scholastic-Kodak Photo Awards contest, she was the second girl in the 40-year history of the high school photography competition to achieve that highest prize.

It was indeed a blue ribbon honor for a youngster whose interest in photography had started only three years ago and whose efforts were judged best among 60,000 entries from 48 regional centers.

Her portfolio of 12 diversified photographs was on display with 275 other winners in an eye-catching exhibition in the Kodak Gallery in mid-New York City.

The awards ceremony also recognized another outstanding achievement, that of Joani's photography teacher, Warren King. His students in Los Angeles County's Reseda High school have won more photography awards than any other high school pupils in the United States.

UNDER his tutelage, not only has Joani won the highest scholarship prize this year, but 19 other Reseda students were among the winners.

To make the achievement more astonishing, last year two King students performed the extraordinary feat of winning both the first and second top scholarship grants of $1,000 and $500, as well as several other prizes.

But then, in local and other national contests, Reseda students have also been highly successful.

To cite two examples: More than 90 per cent of major prizes in local United Crusade photo competitions since 1960 have been won by Reseda pupils. And in 1972 the Photographic Scoiety of America scholarship to Rochester Institute of Technology went to a Reseda student.

WHAT IS Warren King's formula for photo success with high school students? How does he inspire interest and bring understanding, perception and camera mastery to teen-age fingers... that generation so often pictured as "gone to pot"?

"Keep them motivated, busy, inspired, disciplined, busy rewarded, competitive and busy," says King. "Yes, I stress keeping them busy... but if the photo assignments and work they are given are made exciting, stimulating and visually rewarding, they have no time for any counterculture. They get hooked on photography instead."

It stresses preparation for employment in photography. There is no idle chatter allowed or lounging around the darkrooms, and all talk revolves around photography.

Students who do not adjust with this type of program are encouraged to select another course of study.

The club sponsors an annual photo salon in which approximately 1,500 prints by students are hung. It is judged by professionals, seen by up to 10,000 viewers and awards are presented at a gala banquet.

"We are fortunate in getting the help of professionals," King said. "They give their time and best pictures and share their ideas and techniques with our students.

BESIDES the classroom instruction, King credits competition as the most valuable aid in developing young photographers.

It stimulates creative thinking, turns them into keen observers, makes them aware of changing trends in judging and presentation. When they see how other students solve challenges, they learn also.

Finally, when a student's work is rewarded in a competition, it often ignites the fuse of enthusiasm which makes photography a way of life.

"When we win awards for our efforts, I am pleased," King concluded. "But when we don't win, I am just as pleased - for we have done our best to create something which pleases us. That is just as important!"

BancOhio Corp. reports major gain in income

COLUMBUS — BancOhio corp. reports that consolidated income before securities gains or losses increased 16 cents per average outstanding common share for the first half of 1973.

BancOhio reported that, for the first six months of 1973 ending June 30, consolidated income before securities gains or losses totaled $10,055,648 or $1.45 per average outstanding common share. This represents a 13.2 per cent increase over the same period in 1972 when income was $8,883,787 or $1.29 per common share.

Consolidated net income after securities gains or losses for the first six months ended June 30, 1973, was $9,539,448 or $1.38 per average common share which compares with $9,435,189 or $1.37 per share for the same period in 1972. Earnings per common share have been computed on the average shares outstanding in each period which were 6,936,247 shares in 1973 and 6,908,365 in 1972.

On June 30, BancOhio Corp., which at that day had 36 affiliated banks operating 177 banking offices, reported total loans of $1,453,109,541, an increase of $351,688,217 over the first half ending June 30, 1972. Total deposits reported on June 30 were $2,238,896,850 which compares with $1,956,998,228 reported on the same date in 1972.

Total shareholders' equity for BancOhio Corp. was $181,450,448 on June 30 as compared with $169,750,483 on the same date in 1972. Having been listed again in both the Forbes and Fortune directories of the nation's largest corporations and banking companies, BancOhio remains Ohio's largest multi-bank holding company with total consolidated assets of $2,783,372,701 on June 30, 1973.

The First National Bank of Washington Court House is affiliated with BancOhio Corporation.

"Today's news is brought to you by..." electricity.

Keeping up with the world, the nation and our local community is part of our daily lives. We want to know what's going on — in government, business, sports, the weather and many other areas of interest. And we want to know right now.

The printing presses, radio and television stations, news wires and other telecommunications that supply the news, all depend upon electric power. It's one of the important jobs that electricity performs, around the clock, every day in the year.

Energy needs of news media and other community services — like those of homes and industry — continue to grow. Our generating plants and power delivery systems must grow to keep pace. That's why we need to spend over a half-billion dollars in the next five years to build additional facilities.

The cost of this constructon program, added to higher operating and financing costs, must eventually be reflected in higher electric rates.

To run short of power would be bad news for everyone.

Dodgers dump Bucs on Sutton's 6-hitter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I don't want it, you can have it" is the kind of play on the field that causes some baseball teams to lose games.

But the Los Angeles Dodgers are playing that kind of game in the clubhouse—and maybe that's one reaon why they're winning.

The Dodgers raised the "team spirit" bit to it's ultimate Monday night following their sixth straight victory, a 1-0 squeaker over the Pittsburgh Pirates on the strength of Don Sutton's six-hitter and Willie Crawford's second-inning home run off Nelson Briles.

"Sutton's your man," said Crawford. "He made it stand up,"

But Sutton wasn't interested in accepting the praise. Instead, he shuttled it along to his batterymate, Joe Ferguson.

"People underestimate the job that the catcher does," said Sutton, 12-5, who struck out nine Pirates without walking any of them to chalk up his third shutout this year.

In the rest of the National League games, the Reds beat the Philadelphia Phillies 1-0, the St. Louis Cardinals tripped the San Francisco Giants 3-2, the Atlanta Braves downed the New York Mets 8-6 and the Houston Astros topped the Montreal Expos 6-5 in 10 innings. The Chicago Cubs and San Diego Padres were idle.

Industrial softball tourney set

Seven teams representing five counties will compete for the district 4 industrial division slow-pitch softball championship this weekend at Eyman Park.

The teams, from Fayette, Butler, Montgomery, Greene and Clark Counties, will begin play at 5 p.m. Saturday. They are expected to bring large followings. Five games are scheduled for Saturday, with eight more to be played Sunday.

The first game will feature Ohio Casualty, Butler County, and Frigidare, of Montgomery County. Other opening round games on tap are Hamilton Blast Furnace, Butler County, vs. American Building, Greene County; and Wilson Freight, Clark County, vs. Delco Products, Montgomery County.

The other team in the tourney, Redman Industries, drew the first-round bye and will play in the fourth game Saturday against the winner of the Ohio Casualty-Frigidare clash.

Sunday action will start at noon, continuing until the champion has been crowned.

Cincy edges Phillies, 1-0

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Phillies outfielder Greg Luzinski refused to make any excuses.

Instead, he blamed himself for a 1-0 defeat hung on the Phillies by the Cincinnati Reds and lefthander Fred Norman Monday night.

Luzinski lost a line drive by catcher Bill Plummer in the lights to open the sixth inning. Plummer later scored the game's only run.

"Why does it only happen to me?" Luzinski asked.

Cincinnati all-star leftfielder, Pete Rose, was quick to come to Luzinski's defense. He said he has lost some balls in the lights at Riverfront Stadium.

Luzinski, however, refused to use Rose's remark as an alibi. "That's not going to do me any good," he said. "In my case, I'd have to pass it off as a weak excuse."

Plummer's double was followed by a Norman bunt. Losing pitcher Ken Brett fielded the bunt and threw to third in plenty of time to nail Plummer, only to have third baseman Mike Schmidt drop the throw for an error.

Rose then hit a smash to right that eluded outfielder Mike Anderson. The ball landed in his glove, but was jarred loose when Anderson hit the turf, and Rose pulled into second. In the meantime, Plummer had crossed the plate.

The loss went to Brett, who gave up only five hits, three to Rose. It was Brett's first start since injuring his shoulder in a collision with St. Louis catcher Tim McCarver and ended a personal five-game winning streak.

Brett not only suffered his third loss in 11 decisions, but saw his home run streak come to an end.

Norman, running his record to 6-2 since joining the Reds six weeks ago from the San Diego Padres, recorded his third shutout with a six-hitter.

But he had anxious moments, especially in the ninth, when a single by Anderson and Schmidt's double put runners at second and third with none out.

Norman said he then had a talk to himself on the mound. "You got yourself into this, not get yourself out," he said.

That is just what Norman did, retiring the side without a ball leaving the infield.

"Sometimes, explained the 30-year old Norman, "I've got to get mad at myself to stay cool, if you know what I mean."

The Reds have won 7 of 10 games with Philadelphia this season. They will try to make it 8 of 11 tonight as 13-game winner Jack Billingham, faces the Phillies' Jim Lonborg (7-7).

Bus will transport boys to physicals

All prospective athletes in grades 7-12 in the Miami Trace and Washington C.H. school systems are to report to Miami Trace High School gymnasium at noon Wednesday to receive physical examinations.

Washington C.H. athletes in need of a ride to MTHS may take a bus, which will leave Washington Junior High School at noon Wednesday.

The Fayette County Medical Society will administer the examinations.

Problems brewing for Dallas?

Lilly missing at Cowboy camp

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif.(AP) — There wasn't much surprise when quarterback Craig Morton and center Dave Manders failed to show up at the Dallas Cowboys' football training camp, but the absence of All-Pro Bob Lilly came as somewhat of a shock.

In Dallas, his wife, Ann, said he told her the camp was "in a confused shambles, morale was low" and he was returning home from California "until training camp conditions improve."

The Cowboys wondered how he knew of camp conditions without ever arriving and club President Tex Schramm said the incident had him "confused" personally. But he denied any troubles were brewing.

"I don't think there's any confusion here," he said.

"All things considered I think it's a fairly normal opening for us," Schramm said of the official beginning of the Cowboy preseason camp for veteran players. They were due in by Monday night.

Morton reported to camp last Friday then left, asking to renegotiate the year remaining on his three-year contract or be traded. Manders, in his ninth season, said he would retire if he did not get a better contract.

Meanwhile, controversial running back Duane Thomas was suspended by Coach Harland Svare after reporting 24 hours late to the San Diego Chargers training camp.

Thomas, whose fleet-footed maneuvers led Dallas to victory in the 1972 Super Bowl, was dealt to the Chargers last year but did not play.

"Nobody's wandering into my camp anytime they want," Svare said. "I just called him into my office and told him he was suspended. There was no conversation. I just suspended him. Now he's on his way back to Dallas."

John Riggins, the New York Jets' leading rusher last season, is embroiled in a contract dispute with the club and failed to report to camp. The third-year pro from Kansas reportedly is seeking $150,000 for the coming season and has said he won't appear in camp until the matter is settled.

Others missing from the Jets'camp at Hofstra University included Joe Namath, who checked in and then left with team permission, wide receiver Don Maynard and left tackle Bob Svihus. Maynard is clearing up personal business while Svihus has requested a trade to a West Coast trade for personal reasons.

Running back Larry Brown, who was chosen 1972 Player of the Year, was missing when the Washington Redskins opened their training camp and said through his attorney that he was "attending to some important personal matters.

Defensive end Bubba Smith, who sat out last season with a shoulder injury and said he wanted to be traded away from Baltimore, got his wish when the Colts swapped him to the Oakland Raiders for tight end Raymond Chester.

Bob Maddox draws praise from Brown

"He gets off the ball, I'll say that," Brown said. "He hits too—no question about that. He's a prospect, although he's not very heavy."

Brown said he was also impressed with the squad's overall performance. "I think we're much farther along now than we've ever been before in the first day of camp," Brown said. "We're no longer an expansion team."

Greg Cook, attempting a comeback from recurring injuries, seemed displeased with himself, but Brown said he was not surprised with the quarterback's performance.

"We're not pressing Greg," Brown said. "He gets exasperated with himself, and the reason is, he knows how he was before and keeps thinking about it."

Trainers attend OSU workshop

Tarkio Chester and Donnie Smith attended a National Athletic Trainers Association-approved workshop at Ohio State University in Columbus last week.

Chester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Chester, is a trainer at Miami Trace High School. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raldon Smith, 441 E. East St., is a trainer at Washington Senior High School.

The workshop, cosponsored by Ohio State University and Cramer Products, Inc., emphasized care of the knee and spinal column, two areas of the body highly susceptible to injury.

Post 25 scheduled to visit Hillsboro

Washington C.H. American Legion Post 25's baseball team meets South Central Ohio League-leading Hillsboro at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Hillsboro City Park. The game is a makeup of a game rained out June 13.

Post 25, with four straight victories, is 6-6 in the SCOL and 8-11 overall.

Good Hope edges Sabina

Good Hope upset Sabina 2-1 in a tight pitchers' duel while Girtons was clobbering Wilson's 10-2 Monday night in Fayette Babe Ruth League play.

Phillips, for Good Hope, and Smith, for Sabina, both pitched nifty two-hitters as Good Hope scored its upset victory. Phillips fanned 13 and didn't allow a run until the last inning in gaining the win.

Good Hope scored in the first and fourth frames to claim the victory.

S. Waters, with a double, and Haines, with a single, were the Good Hope hitters. Morris' triple and Boggs' single were the only Sabina hits.

Girtons held on to the lead position in the league pennant scramble, overcoming an early 2-0 deficit. Girtons tied it up in the fourth and scored the winners in the fifth.

Jack James whiffed 13 and walked five in pitching the victory, while Dewey Foster and Wes Williams hurled for the losers.

James homered and laced two singles and Bob Brown doubled and belted two singles to lead the Girton attack.

Jimmy Potts singled twice for winless Wilson's.

LL all-star team to visit Dayton

Fans attending the game should take U.S. 35 west into Dayton, then turn right onto I-75 north. After crossing the Miami River, they should turn left onto Salem Ave. (Ohio 49), following it until taking another left turn onto Corneli Drive.

Osborne wins handicap golf title

Roger Osborne won the Washington Country Club handicap golf crown Monday night, downing Donald Morrow 5 and 3. Osborne, who carries a 20 handicap, shot an 85 for the 18-hole final, while Morrow, a 13-handicapper, came in at 86.

Junk's victims were Allen Willoughby, William Mount and Jim Polk, while Marti decisioned Dale Wade, Jim Wightman, Jim Wilson and Bart Mahoney to reach the semi-finals.

The club scratch championship is currently under way.

Edgewood Dinah wins Scioto Downs feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Edgewood Dinah took the lead at the half and went on to a three-length victory in the featured race at Scioto Downs Monday night. Time for the mile was 2:06 2-5.

3 Reds win election to all-star team

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds cranked up the Big Red voting machine and placed three players—catcher Johnny Bench, outfielder Pete Rose and second baseman Joe Morgan—on the starting National League All-Star team announced today.

The National League stars will meet the American League in the 44th mid-summer classic July 24 in Kansas City's new Royals Stadium.

Bench, leading the league in runs batted in, garnered 1,738,557 votes as the most popular player in either league.

Morgan, leading the league in stolen bases, amassed twice as many votes as his nearest challenger—Pittsburgh's Dave Cash—while Rose, among the top 10 hitters in the league was top vote-getter in the outfield. He'll start for the third time. Along with Rose in the outfield will be Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs and Cesar Cedeno of the Houston Astros. Cedeno nailed down the last starting outfield job by slipping in ahead of San Francisco's Bobby Bonds, 860,575—855,344.

First baseman Hank Aaron of Atlanta, moving in on Babe Ruth's career home run record, received 1,362,447 of the 4,011,237 votes cast overall, second only to Bench. It will be Aaron's 15th time as a starter and his ninth in succession.

Chicago's Ron Santo, with 808,720, topped Joe Torre of St. Louis by almost 100,000 votes and will be making his fourth starting appearance at third. Shortstop Chris Speier of the Giants, who received 930,353 to 537,608 for runner-up Dave Concepcion, is in his first starting role.

Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh finished far back of Aaron at first with 608,424, Dave Cash of Pittsburgh had 450,618 compared to Morgan 986,769 and Manny Sanguillen of the Pirates finished far behind Bench behind the plate with 412,881.

The American League's top vote-getter, Dick Allen, may not even be able to make an appearance. The White Sox' first baseman, who received 1,-111,366 votes, is still recovering from a hairline fracture of his left leg, suffered in a collision with Mike Epstein of the California Angels.

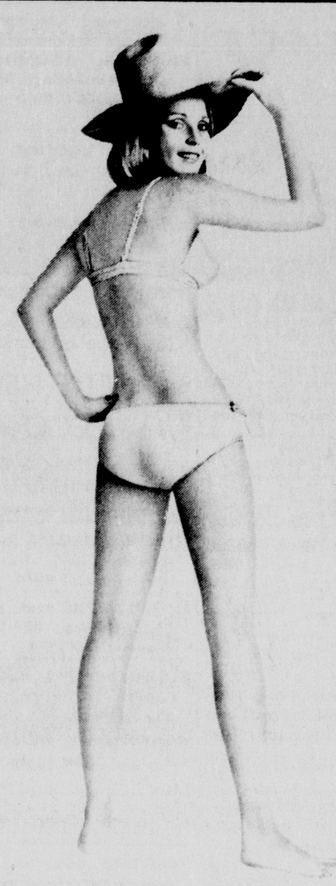

If Allen is unable to play, the starting assignment would probably go to Kansas City's John Mayberry, who had some 300,000 fewer votes.

In addition to Allen, other American League repeaters named for All-Star starting berths were second baseman Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins, Baltimore Oriole third baseman Brooks Robinson, and outfielders Reggie Jackson of Oakland and Bobby Murcer of the New York Yankees.

Those elected to start for the first time were Boston catcher Carlton Fisk, who also received over a million votes, Kansas City outfielder Amos Otis and Oakland shortstop Bert Campaneris.

Both leagues set records for the number of votes cast, with National League fans casting 4,011,237 votes and the American League 3,911,989.

Priest divides time between church, law

By GEORGE STEELE
Charleston Gazette Writer

UNION, W. Va. (AP) — On weekdays, Michael Clay Smith is the prosecuting attorney of Monroe County. On Sundays, he's an Episcopal priest.

"I get a lot of kidding, he said. "Some of my friends accuse me of saving them on Sunday and hanging them on Monday."

Smith, 30, is a native of Louisiana. He went to Louisiana State University, where he studied journalism. He practiced this profession for a while, writing for newspapers and news services.

A few years after his graduation from college, he decided to study law at Jackson Law School, Jackson, Miss. "The entire time I went to law school I worked as a newspaper or wire service reporter," he said.

IN 1968, he received his law degree. Just before his graduation, he married Peggy Hancock, of Union.

"I always intended to have a small town general practice," he said. "And, as I neared graduation, it became obvious that I could do that in Union. Monroe County had only three lawyers at the time, and it appeared to me that there was room for another one."

Later that year, the Smiths moved here and he began his practice. Then his interest in religion began to develop.

"I became interested in religion in sort of an indirect way through some friends. I'd been an agnostic since I was a teenager. I hadn't been in a church in probably 10 years and never thought I'd ever be in one again. But I became interested in various theological questions and started doing a lot of reading."

Smith took training courses for Episcopal lay leaders and started commuting to Roanoke College to study philosophy. The All Saints Episcopal Church here, which has about 25 members was served then by a circuit pastor.

"I was encouraged to act as the lay minister, which I did," Smith said.

SMITH BEGAN studying for the priesthood, and was ordained last February.

Meanwhile, he practiced law in Monroe County, and in 1970 was named lawyer for the state's Department of Highways, for the district encompassing Fayette, Nicholas, Greenbrier, Summers and Monroe counties.

Smith, who took over as prosecutor in January of this year considers himself "hardline" when it comes to law and order.

"I believe very much that an ordered society is one of God's great gifts to the human creature," he said. "St. Paul talked about that at great length. I feel that a lack of ordered society is chaos, and that is Satan's work."

As to his many duties, Smith, says, "if I change in any way, it probably would be to go into the church full time."

Police kills bear in Tennessee city

The bear was first reported by a motorist who called police headquarters and said, "You're not going to believe this, but. . . "

Officials said they had no idea where the bear came from or how it got here.

Opening lead - queen of clubs.

The principle of covering an honor with an honor is cited with reverence from Walla Walla to Dnepropetrovsk, but the fact is that this rule is not quite as simple as it sounds.

Thus, it is surely correct to cover with the king if declarer leads the jack from the J-3-2 facing the A-Q-4. Covering with the king holds declarer to two tricks instead of the three he would make if the jack were ducked.

But it would be wrong to cover if you had the K-x-x and declarer led the jack from dummy's J-10-4 toward his A-6-5. He would make two tricks if you covered but only one if you ducked.

As a matter of fact, the best rule to follow is to cover an honor if it can gain a trick, and not cover if it can cost a trick.

This advice may not be particularly helpful — for it tells you to use your head instead of a rigid formula — but that is the kind of game bridge is, and if you find the rule too tantalizing you can always switch to canasta.

Today's hand is an extension of the principle and demonstrates the underlying theory. South is in three spades and West leads the queen of clubs, which wins.

When West shifts to a diamond, declarer goes up with the queen and returns the nine of trumps. If East ducks, so does South and, as a result, makes three spades.

But if East covers the nine with the jack — as he should to cater to the possibility of West's having four spades that include the eight and a high honor — South goes down one. The nine in this case is treated as an honor, and East covers because the play cannot cost him a trick but may gain him one.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Don't Shake the Baby!

My daughter-in-law has a habit of shaking her six-month old baby so violently in the carriage that I worry that she might injure the child.

She says this is how she can get the baby to fall asleep.

I don't want to sound like a mother-in-law, but I am concerned.

Mrs. J.A.S., Ga.

Dear Mrs. S.:

You do, indeed, have a right to question the good judgment of shaking a child too vehemently.

It is common practice in some societies do this as a menans of lulling a child, stopping it from crying, or to "correct" tantrums.

Recently I came across an interesting article written by Dr. John Caffey, of the University pf Pittsburgh School of Medicine. He evinced real concern that too violent shaking of an infant might be responsible for damage to the neck musceles, and even to the brain, of an infant.

He says, with great wisdom, "A baby is not a rattle" and that "parents must be alerted that the danger period for most infants is the first year of life, particularly the first six months, when the brain is still soft and immature. At this age the baby's head is heavy and his neck musceles are weak. Shaking produces a whiplash action that bumps the brain against the side of the skull."

Dr. Caffee thinks a nationwide educational program should be started to teach parents that shaking infants too emphatically is hazardous.

I wish I could nominate you as first president of the organization!

I heard a food authority say that we can eat all the eggs and cholesterol we want as long as they contain lecithin.

Every time such information comes around my husband jumps on the bandwagon and says, "Now, you see I can eat bacon and eggs as often as I want to without being nagged."

Mrs. S.R.L W.V.

Dear Mrs. R.:

Just keep on nagging him despite these reports. I must confess I am tired of the dogmatic authority with which some untrained people give out such irresponsible advice.

The fact is the presence or absence of lecithin in high cholesterol foods does not alter the potential danger to the blood vessels of your husband.

Self-styled nutritionists with a smattering of knowledge and a great distortion of scientific truths impose encyclopedic ignorance on the gullible.

Always someone can find an "authority" to help him maintain his bad eating habits and give him a temporary feeling of security.

It is not unlike the nonsense that "calories don't count" or that alcohol can be consumed in a limitless quantity to satisfy hunger and help to lose weight.

I am sure you've heard that nonsense, too.

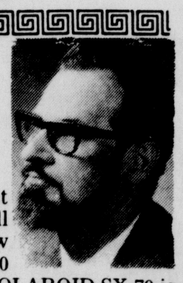

Lecithin is a fatty substance of a group known as "phospholipins." It cannot spare the blood vessels from being narrowed in people who have high cholesterol levels.

Continue to limit your husband's bacon and eggs according to your doctor's suggestion, rather than follow every newfangled diet fad that comes along.

In Focus
by Charlie Pensyl

Marty has just been having a ball with the new POLAROID SX-70 camera. This new POLAROID SX-70 is something else. No, it's not like any of the Polaroid cameras that have been on the market before. First off, the SX-70 is a single lens reflex — how about that? There are over 200 transistors in the thing, and a little 12,000 r.p.m. motor to do the work for you. I'm most impressed by the quality of the pix. The four-element lens system has something to do with that. This camera is for the research man, the engineer, the technically minded person that wants sharpness, true colors and flexability. This camera has a big place in today's world. The ads you see on the thing will stress the fact that it's a fun camera. Those ads do this camera an injustice; 'cause, you see, it's much more than that. This is NOT just another Polaroid camera. This one has much more.

If you already have a POLAROID SX-70 and have hunted for film, hunt no more! We have it at Pensyl's. And if you haven't seen one yet and want to see how one works, drop in and we'll see if we can get it away from Marty long enough to shoot a shot with it.

Has Watergate got you confused? We have some books here in stock that will go a long way toward clarifying some of the confusion. Many of the knowledgeable people we've talked to recently seem to put much stock in the Paul Scott column in the June 20 issue of THE REVIEW OF THE NEWS. There seems to be no doubt that the Senate Watergate Hearings are a sideshow to one of the slickest transfers of political power in the history of the United States. Just consider the Rockefeller angle and see if it doesn't start to add up.

Fayette to grow, but only slightly, projections show

Moderate population growth is projected for Fayette County between now and the year 2000, but 15 of the 41 counties in central, southern and southeastern Ohio are expected to have fewer people at the turn of the century than they did in 1970.

The Fayette County projection indicates an increase from 25,500 to 27,000 within the next 27 years.

Meanwhile, Greene County is expected to almost double its population by 2000, and Franklin County should grow by nearly half a million to displace Hamilton County as the second most populous county in the state. Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) will maintain its first-place position.

THE FORECASTS are made in a preliminary report on projections made by the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development.

The department said Ohio's rate of population growth will slow from 10.5 per cent between 1970 and 1980 to 8.2 per cent between 1980 and 1990 and to 6.5 per cent between 1990 and 2000.

Counties the report says will drop in population, their 1970 populations (in thousands), and their projected 2000 population:

Logan, from 35.1 in 1970 to 32 in 2000; Hardin 30.8 to 28; Wyandot, 21.8 to 21; Gallia, 25.2 to 21; Highland, 29 to 25; Jackson, 27.2 to 22; Ross, 61.2 to 51; Scioto, 77 to 60; Hocking, 20.3 to 16; Meigs, 19.8 to 14; Morgan, 12.4 to 9; Noble, 10.4 to 8; Perry, 27.4 to 21; Coshocton, 33.5 to 26; Muskingum, 77.8 to 63.

VFW post draws suspension of liquor license

Two 21-day permit suspensions have been imposed against O.E. Hardway Post No. 3762, Veterans of Foreign Wars, 110½ S. Fayette St., following hearings on four alleged law violations before the Ohio Department of Liquor Control.

The suspensions, to be effective concurrently from noon, Aug. 4, until noon, Aug. 25, were based on evidence that the post permitted Sunday consumption of malt liquor and or whiskey on Feb. 11 and allowed or conducted gaming or wagering (offering tip tickets for sale) on the same date.

Two other alleged violations (sale of liquor to a non-member and Sunday sale of liquor on Feb. 11) were dismissed by counsel for the director of liquor control who elected to proceed on the other two violations.

Zoning appeals set for review

Two petitions will be heard by the Washington Zoning Board of Appeals at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the conference room of the city offices.

James F. Frump, 1008 S. Hinde St., has filed a request for a variance to allow the establishment of a tropical fish retail business at his residence.

A request for permission to establish and erect an efficiency apartment complex at 224 W. Temple St., has been filed by Jess Gilmore. A variance is sought to construct the apartments with less than the minimum area requirements per unit and less than the minimum rear yard depth.

Tahitians note Bastille Day as atomic test draws near

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP) — The Tahitians are whooping it up at a week-long celebration of Bastille Day this week while their long-distance neighbors around the Pacific wait apprehensively for France to explode a nuclear bomb at the Mururoa atoll.

The islanders are celebrating July 14, the French national holiday, with an enthusiasm not seen in France. The celebration lasts a week and includes foot and dugout races, and dances by the Polynesian girls in their colorful sarongs.

Fewer tourists than usual are on hand. This is partly due to many airline flights being cancelled, particularly on the New Zealand and Australian airlines. They are boycotting French territory in protest against the nuclear weapon tests that are expected to begin any day now.

For most of the islanders, there has been little time to think about the tests on the atoll 850 miles southeast of Tahiti.

New Zealand has sent the frigate Otago into the 72-mile danger zone proclaimed around Mururoa by the French government, and a cabinet minister aboard the ship reported today that the start of the tests must have been delayed by technical problems.

"Conditions have been favorable for tests for quite a few days now," the minister Fraser Coleman, told the Melbourne Herald by radio-telephone. "We anticipate a considerable buildup of French activity before the tests, but so far we have seen only a few planes."

Ditch rates to continue

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners voted Monday to continue the ditch maintenance rates at the same level as in 1972. The figures receiving approval refer to the percentages of the original ditch projects.

The rates are: Waddle Ditch, 10 per cent; Sugar Creek, 3; Persinger Ditch, 2, and Anders, Brock, Camp Run, Janes and Maple Grove ditches, 5.

Funds are collected each year to maintain the ditches.

Springboro bank robbed by trio

SPRINGBORO, Ohio (AP) — Police said FBI officials are investigating the $17,870 armed robbery of a bank here Monday morning.

Police said they have found what they believe to be the abandoned getaway car along a road in Montgomery County. They are searching the auto for clues. The car had Florida license plates.

Springboro Police Chief Carl Hirschbach said two persons entered the bank while a third waited in the car. He later pursued the car down Interstate 75, but did not catch it.

Testimony continues in heroin trial here

The prosecution's first and primary witness, Bate LeMaster, 31, took the stand Monday afternoon to testify in the trial of Tommy Lee James, 36, a Lima resident charged with selling heroin.

LeMaster, allegedly known heroin user, in the Lima area, is said to have been offered a deal by narcotics agents while serving time for using heroin. Allegedly, his sentence was suspended when he agreed to work with agents as an informer, purchasing heroin and other drugs from suspected Lima dealers.

Assistant Alley County Prosecutor James King, assisted by Fayette County Prosecutor Otis Hess, questioned LeMaster for more than an hour before court was adjourned at 4:30 p m. The prosecution continued the questioning of the witness when court resumed this morning.

LEMASTER testified that, under the direction of narcotics agents, he took marked money to purchase heroin from James in October, 1972. He said that he made contact with the defendant the morning of Oct. 2 and purchased $70 worth of the drug. After requesting a larger amount, James allegedly said that his supply was low but that he was going to Detroit that day to make a purchase.

LeMaster stated that he returned that night to purchase another $100 worth, again with marked money. According to LeMaster, he turned in part of the heroin from the morning deal and all of the heroin purchased that night. The heroin not turned in, LeMaster said, was used by himself and two female companions. He contended that the girls, one of which was his girlfriend, did not know he was working with the police and would have been very suspicious if he had purchased heroin without using it.

IT TOOK four hours yesterday to seat a jury of seven men, five women, and a woman alternate. Two prospective jurors were discharged when they said that racial aspects of the case might prejudice them against the defendant.

In his opening statements, the defense attorney, David Bowers, contended that LeMaster had fabricated his testimony to spite James for going out with his girlfriend while he was in jail.

Kiwanis Club hears reports

The Kiwanis Club met Monday evening with President Gerald Wheat presiding. It was board meeting night and no program was presented.

A Ladies Night was planned for July 30 with Mrs. Larry Loyd presenting a program on "Life in South America."

Jim Eakins was selected chairman of the annual ice cream social which will be held on the Courthouse lawn on Friday, Aug. 3.

Cars driven by Gayle A. Rulon, 16, of 1122 Nelson Place, and Sandra K. Minzler, 20, of 703 Broadway, were involved in a minor collision on the Washington Square lot at 11:02 p.m. There was minor damage to the cars.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal law presents no barrier for a president who wants to tap his own telephone or record what he says in his office.

Former White House aide Alexander P. Butterfield told the Senate Watergate committee Monday that President Nixon does just that.

Anyone else who went about it in a similar manner, however, would at least be in trouble with the telephone company.

Fred Langbein, a spokesman for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co., which serves the White House, said he's not sure what action the firm will take following the disclosure, but "I think you can be certain ... that we won't disconnect the service."

Butterfield, former deputy assistant to the President, testified that Nixon's office telephone calls and conversations are fully and automatically recorded with his knowledge and consent by the Secret Service.

It's done for historical purposes, Butterfield said.

Samuel Dash, chief majority counsel for the committee, said the White House would be asked for tapes of specific meetings to aid the committee's efforts to find out who knew what and when about the Watergate scandal.

Asked about the propriety of such recordings under federal law, a spokesman for the Justice Department pointed to the 1968 Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act, specifically a section dealing with the interception by an individual of his own conversation, on the telephone and otherwise.

The section permits such interception as long as the purpose is not a criminal or other injurious act.

Professor Herman Schwartz of the State University of New York at Buffalo Law School, author of a recent American Civil Liberties Union wiretapping study, said the operation described by Butterfield appeared to be within the law.

In a telephone interview, Schwartz said unannounced recording can be considered unethical. He noted that a New York Bar group has condemned the recording by a lawyer of conversations with colleagues.
